BOMBAY, Jan. 27 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi arrived in Bombay shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, following upon his release from Yerawda prison at Poona at 11 o'clock last night. Tens of thousands of frenzied adherents were at the stations as his train rolled in from Chinchwad and the ovation was tremendous as he was taken through the city in an automobile.

The great idol of the Indian people sat in the rear seat acknowledging the greetings of his followers by holding both arms aloft, with hands clasped overhead and his head bowed in reverential attitude, as if giving the masses a blessing.

Thin and gaunt he was, a loin clad figure with chest and shoulders bare, his shaven head and ascetic features silhouetted against the advancing light of early morning. He was free again after more than eight months in a grim penitentiary and the masses went wild at the sight of the man whom they expect to liberate them from British rule.

Interview Gandhi at Station.

CHINCHWAD, India, Jan. 27 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Within 40 minutes after Mahatma Gandhi had been released from Yeravda prison at Poona last night two correspondents obtained an interview in which the nationalist leader told in plain language how he felt after more than eight months' incarceration.

After a dramatic dash for the village from Poona through a screen of dust, over plowed fields and rugged cart tracks, twice losing their way, the newspaper men reached a little station platform.

There sat this frail and sad fragment of humanity awaiting a train to Bombay, his teeth chattering as he sat in the flickering light of dirty globed lanterns with only a flimsy piece of homespun around him.

His Message for America.

In their successful pursuit of the "holy man," the correspondents hurdled numerous obstacles, for all day the British prison officials had been chary of giving details of the impending release and would not divulge any information as to how Gandhi would be taken from India's famous prison. But they made a logical inference as to the probable method of emergence and his destination.

"O, yes, I have a message for the American people," said Gandhi in response to a question.

"They should study with greatest care conditions and problems in India before formulating judgment. Study, study, study—that is the only way to understand in sympathy and real friendship.

Says U. S. Misunderstands India.

"I have received countless messages from America during my incarceration which have both helped and interested me. But I feel there is much misunderstanding there about India despite all that my greatest friend, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, sitting near me, did during her last trip to the United States.

"Such misunderstandings can only lead to bitterness unless removed by sometime study with an open mind."

Gandhi's message to the British people was remarkable in its freshness and candor.

"I emerge from jail with an absolutely open mind," he continued, "unembittered by enmity and unbiased in judgment. I am prepared to study the whole situation from every point of view and to discuss the prime minister's statement [made at the conclusion of the round table conference in London] with Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and other delegates on their return.

Ready to Study Offer.

"They sent me an urgent cable appealing to me, that I suspend judgment until I discussed the whole situation and all its problems with them. I am prepared to study every great problem which now faces India, provided that those on the other side will

5 G. O. P. CHIEFS PUT STEAM INTO LYLE CAMPAIGN

Unite in Support of Gangsters' Foe

REGISTER TODAY! All voters not now registered may do so today. Polling places are open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Judge Lyle's mayoralty headquarters yesterday were the scene of bustling activity as five of the big generals of the Republican forces moved in with their lieutenants to participate actively in his campaign.

The Judge's headquarters were opened on his own initiative, just one month ago. When he announced his candidacy on Christmas day Judge Lyle had little if any substantial organization support. The Palmer House conferences to select a harmony candidate for the anti-Thompson units were still under way. Since that time all of the anti-city hall groups with the exception of the Deneen faction, now supporting Ald. Arthur F. Albert, have indorsed the judge.

Full Steam Ahead.

With the primary four weeks from today the leaders of the five groups supporting Judge Lyle decided the time had arrived to put on full steam. As a result County Chairman Snow, George F. Harding, Edward J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett and Dr. John Dill Robertson moved into the expanded headquarters in the Hotel La Salle, sat down, and announced they were ready for business.

"Because of the crowd that assembled during this demonstration of what the participants said would be complete coöperation, little business was transacted by the quintet, but it was said they will start today to organize the Lyle sentiment which they say is pronounced among business men and other citizens not identified with political organizations.

Up to this time John L. East, Louis Nettelhorst, and a few others have been handling the extensive headquarters business as best they could. Now, the incoming leaders said, the task will be systematized and the work of the campaign will go ahead rapidly.

See Trouble for Albert.

While the fresh arrivals did not say so in interviews, they expressed privately the opinion that Ald Albert's candidacy has been seriously injured by internal troubles in the Deneen organization following the Litsinger-Blackridge faro episode. They say the fight is entirely between Judge Lyle and Thompson.

"I shall sit in from now on," said Chairman Snow, "in order that I may exert every possible influence I may have in Judge Lyle's behalf. The situation is one that requires honest and earnest effort on the part of every citizen.

"Judge Lyle embodies in himself the outstanding issue of the day—the redemption of Chicago from the clutches of organized crime."

Robertson Promises Help.

"I and my friends want to help," said Dr. Robertson, "because we know Judge Lyle's courage against the crime rings and because we know that his experience in the city council and the state legislature has fitted him for the mayor's chair."

"I came over here to do all I can for Judge Lyle," said Barrett, "and from now until election I'll do all I can to elect him and will ask that all my friends do the same."

"Actions speak louder than words," said Harding.

"We believe the nomination and election of Judge Lyle absolutely necessary for Chicago," said former Attorney General Brundage, speaking for his group.

Rupert F. Bippus, president of the Illinois Republican council, commonly known as the Lundin group, said his organization had not indorsed any candidate, but it still hoped for further unification against Thompson.

Registration Today.

Lyle headquarters and all other headquarters were busy much of the day in finishing up the preliminaries to their effort today to bring about a large registration. All polling places in the city will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Those who voted last November and have not moved since that time need not register. Those who were not registered last fall and those registered voters who have moved since that time must register today in order to vote in the primaries. New voters—those who have acquired citizenship or have come of age recently—also

Pastor Smith Has a Joke on Modern Art

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A California minister named Paul Smith, whose home is in Los Angeles, was revealed tonight to be the Pavel Jerdauowitch, "founder and supreme master of the disumbrationist school of painting," whose works have been exhibited at the Vose galleries.

There was both laughter and anger among the Bostonians who have gaped at and admired the "great Russian artist's" conception of "Aspiration," "Exaltation," "Adoration," and "Illumination," when they learned that a minister with a desire to show up the ultramodernist critics had done it all for a joke.

Work Exhibited Here.

Officials at the galleries admitted the joke to suspecting critics today and said the works had been exhibited with success in New York and Chicago, where the Rev. Paul Smith, alias Jerdauowitch, had been hailed as a great modernist. He was even offered $1,500 for one painting.

"Aspiration" shows a Negro washerwoman bent over a tub of suds with eyes on a bird in a street; "Exaltation," a south sea belle presenting a banana to a scared French soldier, who is drawing his sword; "Adoration," an Eskimo woman kneeling before an igloo, around which a green serpent coils; "Illumination," a drunken man staggering home.

Even Furnishes Catalogue.

Mr. Smith not only daubed the paintings, he wrote out a long and apparently innocent catalogue in which he said: "To those who realize that real art depicts not what we see but what we feel, hear, and smell, these soul revealing creations will be sources of ecstatic, moronic rapture."

Why the joke? Those at the galleries said the minister thought his wife a good painter, but that she was received without enthusiasm by California critics. So the minister decided to show them up.

SIFT "ADS" ON "WHAT HAPPENS AT DEATH" BOOK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Advertisers promoting the sale of a book entitled "What Happens Upon Death" are being called upon by the federal trade commission to prove that they can back up their claims of revealing the truth about that much-debated subject.

The commission announced today "the advertisers are charged with making, circulating, and publishing false and misleading statements concerning the commodities offered for sale and of thereby deceiving the public into buying their goods in preference to others that are offered for sale under truthful representations."

BENDIX ROBBED? NO, IT WAS JUST TO TEST POLICE

Fifty policemen arrived at the Bendix galleries in the former Potter Palmer mansion, 1350 Lake Shore drive, last night in answer to a burglar alarm. They were greeted at the door by Vincent Bendix, who invited them in for a cup of coffee after blandly explaining that the alarm was "only a mistake, gentlemen, only a mistake."

Mr. Bendix, who had been entertaining a number of visiting automobile magnates, informed police that a telephone repairman had inadvertently tripped an automatic release in the basement. "A telephone in the basement?" one of the policemen inquired. "Well, it was a repair man, anyway," Mr. Bendix asserted.

"Tell them the truth, Benny," a chorus of calls from an inner room pleaded. One gentleman, despite protests of Mr. Bendix, explained. "One of the men from New York expressed doubts that we had a police department," he said. "The burglar alarm, the arrival of the police almost instantly, and their acceptance of a joke proved that we have one and a good one."

SENATE VOTES U. S. FARM BOARD GRAIN TO HUNGRY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The senate tonight passed the joint resolution introduced by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] authorizing the federal farm board to make 20,000,000 bushels of wheat now owned by the grain stabilization corporation available for emergency relief. The bill provides that the farm board's revolving fund shall be credited with the cost of the wheat at prevailing prices.

In recommending the passage of the bill the senate agricultural committee stated "the country faces the anomalous situation of having a surplus of wheat beyond the ability of the consumers of the nation to purchase; at the same time there are thousands and hundreds of thousands of hungry persons sadly in need of bread. Adoption of the resolution will provide measures for immediate relief. The committee believes this action will be an act of humanity and also that such action is justified in the face of conditions that prevail in the country at the present time."

Senate Votes $1,725,000 for U. S. Part in World's Fair

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—During its evening session tonight the senate unanimously approved the bill sponsored by Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] providing for participation of the United States in the Chicago Century of Progress exposition to be held in 1933.

The bill authorizes an appropriation of $1,725,000 to be used for the erection of a government building and the installation and display of federal exhibits.

Boys in Pistol Battle; 8 Shot at High School

Eight persons, including seven pupils of the Wendell Phillips High school, were shot as they were leaving the grounds in a group at the close of classes late yesterday afternoon when two boys fought a pistol duel over a debt of 25 cents. Both of the combatants were wounded.

Half a dozen automobiles, commandeered by the principal, C. C. Willard, took the injured, all of whom are Negroes, to hospitals, where it was said all would recover. The wounded are:

The police learned that Rufus and Parks fought with knives last Wednesday over the 25 cents which Parks claimed Rufus owed him, and that Parks was stabbed in the left side.

The school is on Pershing road between Prairie and Giles avenues. Rufus waited near the Giles avenue entrance and when Parks approached the street in the midst of a group of 100 students, who were the first to be dismissed, he started shooting. Pupils on either side of Parks were the first to fall. Then Parks drew his own revolver and started shooting.

Both Rufus and Parks were able to make their escape, but Rufus was found by police a short time later limping along the street at 452 East 44th street and Parks was arrested last night at the home of relatives at 743 East 47th street.

Both boys were taken to the Bridewell hospital after questioning at the Stanton avenue police station. The police said both were released recently from the St. Charles school, where they had been sent for burglary.

Cash Bonuses for Veterans Believed Near

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Some sort of legislation to allow world war veterans to obtain cash payments in whole or in part on their bonus certificates will be passed at this session of congress, in the opinion of senate and house leaders.

Under pressure from the American Legion, the executive committee of which yesterday indorsed in principle the immediate retirement of the certificates, the senate finance committee began hearings on the pending bills today, and the house ways and means committee prepared to hold hearings beginning next Thursday.

Part Payment Likely.

That the legislation will provide for payment of the full face value of the certificates at this time is doubted by most of the leaders. They are of the opinion that congress will stop considerably short of that because of the enormous sum that would be required. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, testified before the senate committee that cash payments of all certificates at face value would cost $3,528,022,000.

To cash on a basis of their present value all outstanding certificates which mature 15 years hence would cost the government approximately two billion 100 million dollars, according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Representative John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], who is the author of the bill to cash the certificates at their present value estimates that only 60 per cent of the veterans will seek conversion, in which event the cost would be about one billion, 100 million.

Mellon Is Opposed.

Mr. Mellon, in disapproving the proposed legislation said that so large a sum "cannot be raised by taxes," and could be obtained only by a government bond issue which he feared would upset the whole investment market and impede the economic recovery of the country.

"Business recovery," said Mr. Mellon, "is in some degree at least dependent on a good market for new securities to supply the needs of various business enterprises. To the extent that funds seeking investment are diverted to the purchase of government bonds, to that extent is the capital market depleted of funds otherwise available for industrial and other employment. I am of the opinion that the enactment of this measure would have far reaching consequences, not only in its practical destruction of the endowment insurance plan but in its effect on the finances of the nation and our general economic situation."

3,397,393 Outstanding.

Gen. Hines told the senate committee that 3,348,000 adjusted service certificates have been issued, about 300,000 veterans having made no application for the bonus. There are 3,397,393 certificates outstanding, the government having cashed matured certificates representing 101 millions. Loans aggregating $258,131,816 have been made to 1,384,036 veterans.

As a result of the depression the applications for loans have increased tremendously, Gen. Hines said. They now average $1,000,000 a day, which represents a 250 per cent increase. The applications are coming from all parts of the country.

Gen. Hines was not prepared to estimate the cost of the bill of Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] to permit loans to veterans up to 50 per cent of the face value of the certificates. This would allow an average loan of $300 to each veteran and "would meet the greatest need at this time," said the general.

5 GUNMEN GET $19,200 IN RAID ON BIG STORE

Crowd in Panic as Bullets Fly.

Robbers Get $530,000

In twelve major robberies and murderous attacks by armed bandits in the last four months, Chicagoans have been despoiled of $530,000. Yesterday and on Saturday robbers entered big stores heretofore regarded as impregnable to the boldest robber gangs. Details on page 2.

Scattering dozens of men and women customers about them in terror, five bandits invaded the Wieboldt store at 3231 Lincoln avenue late yesterday, shot down one of two police guards, wounded a customer who went to the aid of the policemen, and escaped with a box containing $19,200 in store receipts.

One of the gunmen was shot by the wounded policeman as he turned to flee, and was dragged away by his four companions, who boarded a waiting automobile and escaped. Records of the police department bear no parallel to the boldness of this crime which, with its exchange of shots, perilled the lives of many innocent bystanders.

Victims of Bandits.

Victims of the bandit revolvers were Policeman William Binder, 30 years old, of the North Damen avenue station, and Joseph Andrafco, 32 years old, 2505 North Long avenue, a ticket taker for the Chicago and North Western railroad. Binder was shot in the left arm, and Andrafco was struck in the left leg. Both were taken to the American hospital.

The robbery was staged on the first floor near the School street exit, not far from the Lincoln avenue intersection. Scores of customers were in the aisles at the time. Near a stairway counter stood a tall, well dressed man, casually looking over merchandise.

Soon an elevator, operated by Miss Joan Mendak, 30 years old, 1914 Emerson avenue, descended to the main floor, and Policeman Binder, Policeman James Wesson, George Hanson, and Frank Reisel, the latter two guards employed by the Citizens' State bank, 3228 Lincoln avenue, stepped out. Reisel carried a white shoe box containing the $19,200 under his arm. The men were bound for the bank to make a deposit.

Signal Calls Robbers.

As they neared the exit Miss Marie Kopnich, 29 years old, 3145 North Central avenue, a clerk at the silk remnants counter, observed a gesture by the tall man who had been loitering about. It was a signal.

From the basement stairs appeared three men. A fourth stepped from the School street entrance and with the tall man they closed in on the guards. All whipped out revolvers and commanded Policemen Wesson, Binder, and the guards to throw up their hands.

Miss Kopnich, who had been eying the lanky man, screamed, and half a dozen women, one holding a child by the hand, also screamed. In a moment there was a blaze of shots, adding to the terror.

As the gunman delivered the command to "stick 'em up," Wesson and Binder raised their revolvers, which they had been carrying during their stroll to the exit. One of the robbers delivered a smashing blow with his weapon against Wesson's hand, knocking the latter's revolver to the floor. At that instant Andrafco, who had been standing in the aisle, leaped for the fallen weapon. A shot from one of the raiders' pistols sent him to the floor.

Wounded; He Shoots Robber.

For a moment there was a hand to hand struggle between the policemen, guards, and bandits. Binder and the bank employes were afraid to fire lest they strike some innocent person. The struggle ended when a robber freed his own weapon, and shot Binder, and another jerked the money box from Reisel's arm. All five gunmen fled to the door, when Binder, with deliberate aim, fired one shot. One of the robbers groped and staggered several feet, crying in pain, and was dragged to the street.

Witnesses followed the quintet to the outside and saw them speed away in a Hupmobile sedan. The license number was later traced to James Anderson, 1741 Washington street, Wilmette, who had reported his car stolen several hours earlier.

Within a few minutes police from the district station and other stations were at the store, and others were scouring the neighborhood for the gunmen and rounding up witnesses. All the robbers were described as well dressed and young.

The robbery was even more bold than the unsuccessful effort to steal approximately $18,000 from Hillman's Pure Food store offices, 30 West Washington street, on Saturday night, in which Max Axelrod, a clerk-guard, was killed, and another guard, Eugene Toro, was seriously wounded.

The Hillman holdup was foiled when Axelrod resisted with a gun. The bandits fled without touching the money. At the inquest yesterday into Axelrod's murder Capt. Willard Malone of the Central station condemned the employment of guards who do not know how to shoot. He urged that loop stores which desire to use their own guards send their men to police stations for training in the use of firearms. The inquest was continued to Feb. 17 at the request of Hillman officials.

ROUTS HOLDUP MAN

"Put up your hands," ordered a man last night as he walked into a pharmacy at 3659 South Halsted street and accosted Charles Kudulis, the manager. Instead Kudulis vaulted over the counter and seized the robber's weapon, which was concealed under a handkerchief, and which turned out to be a stove lid lifter. He hit the man over the head with it, then ran back behind the counter and got his revolver, firing two shots at the robber as the latter disappeared up an alley.

Two gunmen yesterday held up the Liggett drug store at 1201 Wilson avenue and escaped with $400. A customer, who put up his hands when he saw the guns, was told to put them down.

A gunman entered the home of Milton H. Callner, 714 Junior terrace, yesterday and bound and gagged Sophie Stefanic, a maid, who was alone in the house. He then took wearing apparel valued at $2,000 and $800 in cash. Mr. Callner is head of a loop construction concern.

OFFER TO TRADE HUSBANDS AIRED IN DIVORCE CASE

A proposed trade of husbands was aired yesterday at the hearing on the Zavesky vs. Zavesky divorce case before Superior Judge Desort. Mrs. Mary Zavesky, 32 years old, 6162 Kenmore avenue, who is suing her husband for divorce on charges of cruelty and adultery, told of the proposition.

She said that she and her husband, Norbert, formerly lived in the same apartment building with Mrs. Martha Engstrom and her husband, Delmar Engstrom. Mrs. Zavesky testified that Mrs. Engstrom once asked her to give up her husband and take Mr. Engstrom in exchange. Mr. and Mrs. Engstrom appeared in court together during the hearing.

19 SEIZED IN RAID ON REX HOTEL FREED BY COURT

Five women and fourteen men arrested a week ago in a raid on the Rex hotel, the vice headquarters of Dennis Cooney, were freed yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy. The raid was illegal because a search warrant had not been obtained, the court held.

George "Tubby" Miller, manager of the Rex, was charged with being the keeper of a disorderly house and the others were charged with being inmates.

JOE GLASER IS ORDERED TO PAY ALIMONY TO WIFE

Joe Glaser, former owner of the notorious Sunset café, yesterday was ordered by Circuit Judge Daniel Trude to pay $15 a week temporary alimony to his estranged wife, Dolores, 18 years old, pending settlement of her suit for divorce. The couple were married in February, 1928, shortly after Glaser was arrested, charged with raping the young girl.

$530,000 LOOT TAKEN IN MAJOR HOLDUPS HERE SINCE OCT. 6

Major robberies in Chicago and the metropolitan area from October 6, 1930, and up to and including yesterday, enriched criminals to the extent of $530,000. Following is a summary of these holdups, ranging in amount from $7,000 to $80,000.

Oct. 6, 1930. Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the mayor, robbed by three gunmen in front of her home, the Berry apartments, 3100 Sheridan road, and lost jewelry valued at $15,000.

Oct. 21, 1930. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Crandell and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gardner, held up by three bandits in the automobile driveway of the Drake Tower apartments, 179 Lake Shore drive, residence of the Crandells, and robbed of jewelry valued at $64,800.

Oct. 28, 1930. Max Pian, jeweler at 29 East Madison street, stopped by two gunmen, believed to be from Chicago, three miles north of Winthrop Harbor, Ill., and robbed of $40,000 in jewelry.

Nov. 5, 1930. Abraham Rothblum, wholesale jeweler with offices at 5 South Wabash avenue, kidnaped by two gunmen near his home at 4632 Drake avenue and robbed of $40,000 in diamonds.

Nov. 14, 1930. Jack Salter, New York diamond merchant, chloroformed in his room at the Hotel Sherman by three robbers and robbed of $80,000 in unset stones.

Nov. 25, 1930. Mrs. Cornelia Fox of the Majestic hotel, Philadelphia, held up with a party of Chicago friends at the outer drive and Montrose avenue, and robbed of $75,000 in jewelry.

Dec. 6, 1930. State Bank of Clearing, 5601 West 63d street, raided by five bandits, who escaped with approximately $60,000 after terrorizing 11 employes and 20 patrons.

Dec. 14, 1930. Harry Fine, New York diamond salesman, kidnaped by three men near the Palmer house, taken to Grand avenue, and robbed of $50,000 in unset gems.

Jan. 1, 1931. Vaults of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, 3222 Lawrence avenue, looted of money, securities, and jewelry estimated at $80,000.

Jan. 10, 1931. Franklin Park State bank of Franklin Park invaded by five men who terrified four employes and one patron and stole $7,000.

Jan. 26, 1931. Wieboldt's store, Lincoln and Belmont avenues, raided by five bandits, who terrorized scores of customers, shot a policeman and a shopper, and stole $19,200.

In addition to these crimes, three masked men on Saturday night attempted a holdup of a woman cashier and two guards of Hillman's Pure Food store outside the third floor offices at 30 West Washington street, shot and killed Max Alexrod, a guard, seriously wounded Gene Toro, his assistant, and fled without touching approximately $18,000 in receipts.

Woman Sues Beauty Shop; Charges She's Made Bald

The praecipe of a suit for $25,000 damages was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Mrs. Minnie Karl, 39 years old, 44 West 105th street, against Carl Wunder, owner of a beauty shop at 11113 Watt avenue. Attorney Hugh H. Capperton, representing Mrs. Karl, said the declaration will charge that Mrs. Karl was made completely bald as the result of burns received while having her hair permanently waved.

RESIST DEFENSE MOVE IN WHITE MURDER CASE

Seek to Keep Witness Under Cover.

Efforts to force into the open the state's most important witness in the William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White reinstated murder case will be resisted this morning in Judge Joseph Burke's Criminal court by Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown. The issue of whether the prosecution can keep important witnesses under police protection will be decided as a result of a writ of habeas corpus filed yesterday by Attorney Thomas H. Mercer.

John Joyce, a truck driver for the Goldenrod Ice Cream company, who did not testify in the original trial of White, and whose identity the state's attorney's office thought was unknown to those interested in the defense, is the man for whom the writ was taken out yesterday. The writ was obtained in the name of Mrs. Elizabeth Joyce-Butler, 4837 West Monroe street, mother of the witness.

Robbed on Day of Slaying.

Joyce was robbed in Forest Park on the day that White and several other gangsters murdered Policeman James Pflaume in a roadhouse near Bellwood.

It was for the Joyce robbery that the police were searching for White and the others when the shooting occurred which resulted in the death of Pflaume and one of the robbers and the wounding of several of the policemen.

Probe Matter of Attorneys.

Prosecutor Ditchburne asked Judge Burke yesterday afternoon to make an investigation into the circumstances back of the Joyce writ. Attorney Mercer was asked if he was getting the writ in behalf of Attorney W. W. O'Brien or had any connection with that lawyer's office. He said that O'Brien had no connection with the writ. In view of this the judge said he would have to issue the writ.

It has recently been rumored that Attorney O'Brien has been employed in the White case to assist or supplant Attorneys W. W. Smith and Everett Jennings.

SUES FOR $30,000

BERYL BRADEN.

The trial of the $30,000 damage suit brought by Miss Beryl Braden, 22 years old, 2641 Washington boulevard, against Orba H. Teninty and George Macey, for injuries incurred in an auto accident a year ago, began yesterday before a jury in Superior Judge Stanton's court.

Miss Braden testified that she accompanied Teninty, Macey and another young woman on an automobile ride. She said she cautioned Macey not to drive so fast, but he ignored her warning and near Harvey their car plunged into a ditch. Miss Braden's hip was broken.

Macey left the city before the case came to trial, attorneys said. Teninty, a plumbing contractor, is married and lives at 6237 Ingleside avenue. A few minutes after he had testified yesterday, Teninty was arrested on three warrants charging larceny by bailee and confidence game. Unable to raise bail of $8,000, he was taken to jail. The damage suit will be resumed today.

Coroner's Jury Charges Policeman with Murder

Policeman Frank Hejl of Berwyn, who shot and killed Lieut. John Cihak as the result of an insane frenzy, was recommended held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury. Hejl was discharged from a health sanitarium only a few months ago and returned to the Berwyn force.

1 MILLION BONDS SET FOR YOUTHS IN HOLDUP CASES

Two Are Held for Slaying Evanston Architect.

Bonds with a new high record were set yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court for three gunmen who were identified in scores of robbery cases. The judge held the men for grand jury action, and in the meantime they were taken to jail without hope of raising enough bail to obtain their freedom.

Edward Max Nolan, 22 years old, known to the police as the "hair trigger" bandit because he shot four of his victims during robberies, was held under a total bail of $465,000 on five charges of assault to kill and twenty-six charges of robbery. Under the law, Nolan would have to schedule twice the amount of the bond, or $930,000 worth of property, to obtain his release.

Bonds of $1,065,000 Set.

Frank Smythe, 23 years old, and Lester Frankl, 27 years old, were identified by seventy-one robbery victims who paraded through the Felony court. The judge set their bonds at $1,065,000 each or a required surety of $2,130,000 each. They were also held without bail on a charge of murdering Robert Wallace, an Evanston architect.

Assistant state's attorneys assigned to the drive against gunmen, hoodlums and racketeers, pointed out that Judge Padden is following in the footsteps of his predecessor, Judge John H. Lyle, who was noted for his high bonds.

Robert E. Ryan, alleged hoodlum, was saved from a Bridewell sentence imposed by Judge Lyle when the Appelate court yesterday reversed the finding. Ryan was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $300 for gun toting. The reviewing court ruled that Ryan did not waive his right to a jury trial as shown by the court records. The reviewing court held that it cannot be presumed that the defendant waived his jury trial right just because the record failed to show that he had not demanded such a trial.

Guziks on Trial Today.

The two Guzik brothers, Jack and Harry, are scheduled to go to trial today before Judge Edgar Jonas on vagrancy charges. They are members of the so-called Capone syndicate.

Because of the expected trial of the Guziks the vagrancy trial of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell was continued until next month. Rocco Fanelli, another public enemy waiting trial on one of the vagrancy warrants issued by Judge Lyle, was granted a jury trial when arraigned yesterday before Judge Padden. Anthony [Red] Kissane and Jack [West Side] Barry, two other so-called enemies, were given continuances until Feb. 27.

Five boys, all under 20 years of age, were held to the grand jury yesterday in Boy's court on bonds totaling $100,000 after they had confessed robbing five persons of $75. The prisoners are Alex Zabinski, 19 years old, 4546 South St. Louis avenue; Alex Roganski, 18 years old, 7204 South Fairfield avenue; Joseph Mackowiak, 17 years old, 4409 South Mozart avenue; John Janusas, 18 years old, 4314 South Maplewood avenue, and Anton Pangonis, 17 years old, 4354 South Maplewood avenue.

CRIMINAL COURT.

George Smith, Dan Dickenson and Pearson Chubb, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Phillip Finnegan.

How's This? Corns Lift Out With Fingers—No Pain!

Ice-Mint as this new preparation is called is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it; only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask in any Drug Store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

COL. McCORMICK TELLS OF WAR ON CHICAGO CRIME

Addresses Milwaukee Bar Association.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 26.—[Special.] The crime situation in Chicago was discussed today by Col. R. R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who spoke before the Milwaukee Bar association after a luncheon given at the Schroeder hotel here.

Col. McCormick was introduced by George A. Affeldt, president of the bar association. At the speakers' table, besides Col. McCormick and Mr. Affeldt, were William A. Klatte, William P. Sullivan, Carl Rix, Walter Bender, F. E. McGovern, Judge John J. Gregory, Judge August Braun, Judge John C. Kleczka and Judge Walter Schinz. In addition to the members of the bar association, delegates to the annual meeting of the Wisconsin District Attorneys' association heard the address. Col. McCormick spoke as follows:

"When I asked on what topic your distinguished organization would like to have me speak I was told you would like to learn from me about the crime situation in Chicago.

A Topic for Fiction.

"A highly exciting play dealing with Chicago crime has been produced in London before crowded houses. Numerous magazine articles of high fictional value have been written by the hack writers of New York. I am not surprised, therefore, that when people who have never seen Chicago write with so much assurance upon this topic you will expect a Chicago editor to speak with full knowledge and authority.

"However, the fact is that the people who have written about Chicago crime have not known anything about it, while the people who know all about it have not written and will not talk, even when under arrest or when at the point of death, and I may add that until six months ago no organized effort was made by anybody to penetrate its mysteries.

Tracing Its Origin.

"Some people trace the origin of our crime disturbances to the anarchists of the late eighties. Others refer to the series of violent strikes which raged in Chicago around the end of the last century. Liberal reference has been made to newspaper wars and THE TRIBUNE'S name has been mentioned as participating in these clashes. The fact as to this last is that the circulation competitions which have been dubbed wars were exclusively among afternoon newspapers. They were two in number—one in the late nineties and the other in the early nineteen hundreds. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was not engaged in either, as principal or ally.

"It is my opinion that if there is any connection between the murderers of today and the murderers of a previous time it is that the former have eliminated the latter.

Began in Sicilian Neighborhoods.

"The assassinations which have made Chicago notorious began in the Sicilian settlements. The victims were Sicilians; the motives presumed to be blackmail. Pistols or shotguns would rain on some crowded street of Little Hell, as the neighborhood was called. The police arriving on the scene would find a murdered body and no witnesses would admit knowledge of the killing. Subsequent murders were imagined to be in revenge and blood feuds among the immigrants were continuous. For a number of years these assassinations were confined to the Sicilian quarter and to a people utterly unknown to the rest of the citizenship.

"Several years ago, realizing that a host of lawlessness among the foreign criminals was growing in our community, I went to Washington and personally asked President Coolidge to instruct the agents of the federal government to deport the alien criminals. He gave the necessary orders, but the United States government moves slowly, and it is only in recent months that progress has been made in this direction.

The Colosimo Murder.

"The first murder that occurs to me of an individual known beyond the Sicilian underworld was that of Jim Colosimo. Colosimo operated a restaurant and cabaret. The restaurant was said to be well conducted and the entertainment, I am told, was of high class. The chief entertainer, under the name of Dale Winter, an American girl, for some time enjoyed a success on the stage as well as in the cabarets. When Colosimo was divorced from his wife and shortly after married Dale Winter the event was widely reported, and when shortly afterwards Colosimo was assassinated in his restaurant, and when the new wife, in a panic, renounced all claim to his estate in favor of the divorced wife, the matter was set down as one more revenge of Sicily.

"Another series of murders to attract more than passing attention were those of Dean O'Banion, Big Tim Murphy, Diamond Joe Esposito, Hymie Weiss, McLaughlin, and the victims of the Valentine day massacre, including James Clark and Dr. R. H. Schwimmer.

O'Banion, then "Hymie" Weiss.

"O'Banion was considered a hard character, and great surprise was expressed when he entered into partnership with William Schofield, a florist of good reputation, with a shop on State street, near Superior street, opposite the Roman Catholic cathedral. O'Banion was killed in the shop, and afterwards machine guns mounted in the second story window of an apartment house next door, trained down upon the street in front, focused on an automobile that drew up before the shop and killed his lieutenant, "Hymie" Weiss. Bullet marks were made upon the stones of the cathedral.

"By this time gang murders had become celebrated, and whether more numerous than before or not, they began to attract first the attention of the city and afterwards the entire world.

"On April 27, 1926, an assistant state's attorney named McSwiggan was killed by machine gun fire in one suburb. On Jan. 6, 1927, the home of Ald. Thomas Wallace, one of the best men in the city council, was bombed. In 1928, on the eve of the county election, the homes of Senator Charles S. Deneen and John Swanson, candidate for state's attorney, were dynamited. On Feb. 2, 1930, Julius Rosenheim, an employé of the Chicago Daily News, was killed within a block of his home.

Reporter Lingle Killed.

"On June 9, 1930, Alfred Lingle, a police reporter of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was shot and killed in the subway under Michigan avenue while on his way to the horse races, and on the same day Leland Reese, reporter of the Chicago Daily News, sought protection and was brought back from the race track in a police automobile.

"Until the assassination of Lingle our activities had been confined to the customary newspaper routine, the publication of the most accurate information obtainable, which was very little, and editorials calling upon the authorities to destroy the growing army of criminals before they destroyed the city. The assassination of a member of THE TRIBUNE staff laid before us the question whether to accept the situation supinely and by our timidity to invite further assassination or threats of assassination, or to take up the challenge of gangland, thus hurled at our feet. The question was only new as to size.

"THE TRIBUNE has always prosecuted attacks on its employés and its property. The year before, after a six months' search, THE TRIBUNE, with the aid of the police, had tracked down and sent to the penitentiary for fifty years a man who had criminally assaulted one of its subscribers. In the present instance, opposed as we obviously were by organized crime, with its terrorist methods and ramifications, which at that time were unknown to us, a greater degree of organization was necessary. State's Attorney Swanson was asked to appoint a very experienced lawyer to investigate this case and to assign his principal investigator to work with him.

Given Loyal Coöperation.

"In Chicago there is no organization of crime abating authorities. The coroner, the chief of police, the state's attorney, and the sheriff are all independent of each other, nor is there any connection between them and the courts and the pardon and parole power, such as is found in the federal government.

"I am glad to report that all these unrelated officers have lent loyal cooperation. The first evidence was uncovered by Coroner Bundesen. Chief of Police Alcock arrested the murderer Stanton, who is about to be tried in Wisconsin for the assassination of Jack Zuta, a murder like that of Julius Rosenheim, apparently connected with the Lingle murder.

"The present parole board, acting under the advice of Attorney General Carlstrom, reincarcerated two serious criminals found at large and who were combating the investigation, while State's Attorney Swanson has been the pillar in this investigation in the face of savage attacks from quarters where he should have expected wholehearted support.

Federal Officials Take Hand.

"By happy coincidence the investigations of the United States district attorney, George E. Q. Johnson, into the income tax frauds of the professional criminals reached the stage of prosecution at this time and the conviction by him of outstanding gangsters not only removed them from activity but contributed its full share to the breakdown of the supremacy of gangland.

"It was Judge Lyle, sitting in the Felony court of Chicago, who introduced a new chapter into our criminal history by treating the principal scoundrels, burglars and murderers as the felons they are, without the deference to which they had been accustomed from other judges. Judge Lyle's conduct appeared the more sensational in that it stood out in such violent contrast to a number of other judges whose courts were mere rat holes for the escape of criminals, while his construction of the law coincided more with the decision of the courts in those states where crime is under control than in others where criminal lawyers and lawyer criminals have been active in the legislature and in judicial conventions.

"It is only just, also, to give credit to the untiring efforts of the Chicago crime commission and to the investigations of regular and special grand juries which, if they have not accomplished any striking successes, have continuously sapped the base of the criminal structure. Indeed, I attribute as much credit to the weakening of the whole structure of organized crime by these many contributors as to the immediate investigations that a gangland murderer has been detected and arrested for the first time in Chicago or for the first time in the United States.

"The progress that has been made in six months is just this—that where six months ago resistance to crime in Chicago appeared hopeless, we now know that a vigorous and relentless investigation will apprehend the guilty.

"Business organizations, please take notice. The practice on the part of business houses, which is now universal, of confining their self-protection to burglary insurance, and the practice of insurance companies of placing rates high enough to cover their losses, without the effort on either part to catch the criminals, must give way to liberal appropriations for detection. These appropriations in turn will bring down our burglary insurance rates, which are now a serious tax upon business.

Exposé Must Be Wider.

"The valuable work of the Chicago crime commission in disclosing the identity of the public enemies and of those judges who by the acceptance of fake bonds and other subterfuges have facilitated the escape of criminals must be extended to identify individuals and organizations who while ostensibly members of our civilized society are benefiting directly or indirectly from underworld activities.

"It has been said with considerable justice that Chicago, as the transportation center of the continent, the principal market of America, must inevitably be the center of criminal activity and the central market of stolen goods. On the other hand, we cannot escape the fact that unless the legitimate market can destroy the criminal market, in its turn it will be destroyed by the criminal market. The problem is more serious than one of mere reputation. It is a problem of economic existence and life itself."

THREE SHOT IN $19,200 DEPARTMENT STORE HOLDUP

EDWARDS, ONCE LEADING SENATE WET, ENDS LIFE

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Edward I. Edwards, former governor of New Jersey and former United States senator, a man who never took a drink, but whose political battle cry was that he would "make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean," killed himself today.

The anxiety of Charles Baumgartner, Mr. Edwards' attorney and close friend, led to the discovery of the tragedy. Mr. Baumgartner knew that his friend had been subject to fits of despondency. Saturday he learned that Mr. Edwards had removed a .38 caliber revolver from a desk at his office. So when the former senator failed to keep an appointment with him this morning, he became seriously alarmed and called up the Edwards home.

A maid said his door was locked and she was unable to arouse him.

Break Down the Door.

Mr. Baumgartner hurried to the apartment where the ex-senator lived. With Walter Westfall, a neighbor, he broke down the door of Mr. Edwards' room. They found the body on the bed, a bullet wound in the left forehead. The .38 caliber revolver was on the floor.

Mr. Edwards' act today was the final incident in a series of misfortunes that extended back to 1928. In that year he was called home from the Democratic national convention in Houston, Tex., by the fatal illness of his wife.

Defeated for Senate.

Broken with the sorrow caused by her death, he plunged into his campaign for reëlection and went down in defeat to Hamilton F. Kean, the successful candidate for United States senator.

Misfortune still dogged his footsteps. The New Jersey Bankers' Security company, of which he was chairman of the board, was made the subject of a legislative inquiry, with subsequent financial losses to Mr. Edwards and the other officers.

Then came a break with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, his lifelong friend and political ally. That marked the end of Mr. Edwards' political career.

Former Senator Edwards was one of the first of the wet politicians at a time when it was considered good politics to be dry or noncommittal. In 1920, when he was elected to the governorship of New Jersey on a "personal liberty" platform, he attracted national attention by his inaugural speech denouncing prohibition.

He went to the United States senate in 1922 a fervid wet. He was prominently mentioned in 1924 as a Democratic presidential possibility.

CHARGE CASHIER TOOK $16,000 OF HOSPITAL'S FUNDS

Embezzlement of $16,000 from the Frances Willard hospital was revealed yesterday. A warrant was taken out for Miss Mary Ann Kennedy, for two years cashier of the hospital, by Mrs. Mary A. Baldwin, president of the board of trustees, in South State street court. Miss Kennedy is missing.

Mrs. Baldwin requested police aid after a private search of seven months had been unsuccessful. She told police that the embezzlement had first been noted last June when the books were audited. Miss Kennedy and her mother promised restitution after admitting the sum had been embezzled.

When Miss Kennedy disappeared without making restitution private detectives were assigned to the case and found her in the home of her brother-in-law at 5417 Kenmore avenue. To prevent escape the detectives climbed the fire escape and Miss Kennedy walked down the stairs. Mrs. Baldwin said she believed Miss Kennedy was now on her way to California by automobile.

MICHIGAN VICTIM OF $15,000 FRAUD TO 'FORGET' WEIL

Jacob Kindleberger, president of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment company, said last night over long distance telephone that he had forgotten "Yellow Kid" Weil. "And I'm going to keep right on forgetting him," he added.

Weil and two confederates, Fred Buckminster and George Lutz, defrauded Kindleberger out of $15,000 in a fake Montana copper mine deal, according to warrants sworn out last April by Kindleberger.

Weil and Buckminster are in a cell in the detective bureau, where they were to await Kindleberger's appearance against them. They are also being held for the Rochester (N. Y.) police until a victim of a $140,000 swindle can view them for possible identification.

Following the arrest of Lutz last summer Kindleberger urged Chicago police to release him, and wrote: "As for Weil and Buckminster, they have returned part of the money. I agreed to delay prosecution."

BRITAIN PLANS TO CUT PRICES AND WAGES 10%

Scheme Aimed to Regain Lost Export Trade.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The British government is planning a big drive to reduce costs and help British manufacturers to regain their supremacy in the export markets of the world. This will include a cut in wages, accompanied by a similar cut in prices of all goods and commodities. Officials say the British working man, under this scheme, although receiving less cash, will be as well off as he was before.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, has been sounding out the large employers on the plan, and in a letter addressed to several large manufacturers he indicated that the government intended to set an example in its next budget by making a cut of 10 per cent on all salaries of government employés.

Trade Unions Agree.

The manufacturers, shipbuilders, mine owners, and transport managers all were asked if a 10 per cent wage cut would be practicable. The trade unions have already been consulted and are willing to agree, providing the wage cut is accompanied by a parallel cut in foodstuffs, clothing, rents, and other expenses. This, the chancellor of the exchequer points out, will enable the exporters to make a much better showing in the world's markets.

So seriously is this plan taken that a great Scottish shipbuilding firm, which had been approached by a firm of Indian merchants with an order for £10,000,000 worth of coastwise shipping, suggested that the buyers wait a couple of months, when they would be able to offer the tonnage at 10 per cent under the present cost.

Unemployment Board Reports.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Rationalization of industry was indicated as a factor in the world unemployment situation, while high wages were declared not to be a contributing cause to this evil in reports presented today to the unemployment committee of the international labor office.

The report on rationalization tended to show that "in a general way, measures of technical improvement, such as improvements in machinery, scientific management, standardization, and industrial concentration, lead at least temporarily to a certain amount of unemployment."

Figures from United States, Canadian, and German industries were cited to support this view.

Argues for Insurance.

"It is possible," the report continued, "that this tendency will continue in the future and become more general and distinct. This affords additional argument for developing unemployment insurance and for granting fair compensation to the victims of an evil for which society as a whole is responsible and which to some extent is inherent in progress itself."

The report on wages, prepared by G. H. D. Cole, economist of Oxford university, definitely disputed the opinion that unemployment is caused by the maintenance of wage rates at too high a level.

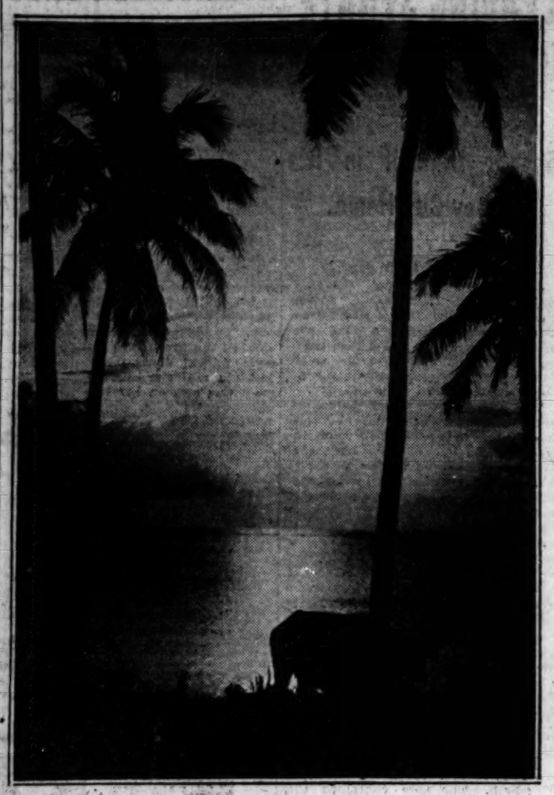
Mr. Cole declared the present crisis was due to the failure of demand to keep pace with productive power. If high wages were at fault, he argued, it would be more natural for demand to outrun supply and for prices to rise rather than to fall.

Wants to Keep Wages Up.

"If the world would coöperate," he said, "to increase the purchasing power of workers instead of competing to reduce it, there would be far more hope that the depression would be overcome and the productive power employed on a reasonable basis of mutual international exchange."

Harold Butler, deputy director of the international labor office, discussed the situation in the United States and Canada on the basis of his recent visit there. The very rapid rate of technical progress, he said, undoubtedly had been an important factor in unemployment in the United States. Wage scales, he said, so far seemed to have stood the strain of depression.

PACIFIC ISLE TO HOLD FIRST ELECTION



A sunset on Guam. The island is the scene of many storms, but they are followed by beautiful scenic effects such as the one shown above.

Chomorro girl, one of the natives, of whom about 15,000 live on the island's 210 square miles. It is not stated whether they will be granted suffrage.

Votes March 7

GUAM, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The mid-Pacific island of Guam, captured by the United States from Spain in 1898, is to have its first general election on March 7 of members of a congress modeled after the Washington government.

The governor of Guam, Commander Willis W. Bradley of the United States navy today dissolved the present congress, effective March 15, created a new congress consisting of a council and assembly and ordered the election held.

The island, principal one of the Ladrone group, contains but 210 square miles, inhabited by about 15,000 Chomorros and 100 Americans. Its navy station is under command of the Washington government.

Policeman, Former World War Captain, Shoots Self

Franklin McFarland, 50 years old, a Negro patrolman attached to the Wabash avenue station, shot himself through the head last night in his home at 4724 Langley avenue, inflicting critical injuries. His wife said he was gassed in France where he served as captain. He had been on sick leave for a month and was despondent over his slow recovery following an operation for appendicitis. He was taken to the Dailey hospital.

2 ALDERMANIC RIVALS STAGE BATTLE OF FISTS

Two opponents in the aldermanic race in the 15th ward came to blows yesterday and the letting of a little blood in the offices of the election commissioners. They were William A. Cunnea Jr., 1521 West 89th street, whose father several times was a candidate for state's attorney, and George O. Lehr, 3245 West 64th place.

Eyewitnesses to the fight declared that Lehr struck the first blow during an argument that developed after Cunnea had filed an objection to Lehr's petition, claiming that it has 1,100 more names than the law allows. In the exchange of blows Cunnea, it was said, landed on Lehr's nose, drawing blood.

They were separated by Policeman James Denny, who is detailed to the election commissioners' office, and marched outside the railing in the office. There the argument started again, but spectators stepped between them before any more damage was done and the men left the building separately.

MRS. MARGOLD BLAMES IT ALL ON HER SPOUSE

Files Cross Bill Answer in Divorce Case.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—It's all her husband's fault, according to an answer to a cross bill of divorce filed in Circuit court today by Mrs. Stella K. Margold of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Margold opened fire in the case with a bill of divorce which was filed last fall, but was suppressed. Dr. Charles W. Margold countered Jan. 9 with a cross bill of divorce, naming Prof. Clarence Meader of the University of Michigan linguistic department as co-respondent.

Prof. Meader sued Dr. Margold for $50,000 on charges of slander, and Dr. Margold completed the first round by suing Meader for $10,000, charging alienation of affections.

Mrs. Margold gives her explanation of how it all started by averring that "had it not been for egotistical, self-centered, self-satisfied feeling of the cross plaintiff for himself," their marital relations would have followed a different course.

His charges against her, she said, are the product of "an imaginative and impractical mind."

She repeated her explanation of their troubles in Russia three years ago and amplified her former statements. The reason she left her husband in Leningrad, she alleged, was because Margold insisted on being alone in his work, "giving this cross-defendant all sorts of excuses why she should leave him, and finally saying to this cross-defendant that he could not properly pursue his study of sex life if he had to be constantly in her company, saying to her that he must be out nights and that he could not properly study other women when he was himself in the cross-defendant's company."

T. W. BUCKINGHAM SUED BY WIFE ON CRUELTY CHARGES

Suit for divorce was filed yesterday in the Lake county circuit court at Waukegan by Mrs. Camilla Hegeler Buckingham against Tracy Wilson Buckingham, Chicago attorney and son of George T. Buckingham, prominent corporation lawyer and former president of the Union League club.

The Buckinghams have been separated for some time, it was disclosed. Mrs. Buckingham having left their home in Lake Forest. She took with her their two children, George Tracy, 9 years old, and Josephine Hegeler, 6 years old. They were married in December, 1919.

Aug. 24, 1929: Threw her out of bed; hit her in the face, causing her to faint; threw the contents of a thermos bottle of cold water at her; chased her through the house.

Feb. 22, 1930: Ditto.

Feb. 23, 1930: Grabbed her by the arm and hurled her from an automobile in which she was sitting, and struck her on the leg with a stick.

From the Standpoint of Safety . .

Cadillac and La Salle Stand Alone

If there is one characteristic of Cadillac-La Salle cars which owners value above all others, it is the fact that they impart to the driver a sense of complete security—a feeling that the car is under absolute control at all times. This unusual driver confidence is due to many things—foremost among which are these features:

Safety Mechanical 4-Wheel Brakes—It is impossible to overheat Cadillac-La Salle brakes to the point where they will become locked or fail to operate. Furthermore, no matter how much pressure is exerted on the brake pedal, the outer front wheel always runs free when turning a corner—a safety factor of the utmost importance in bad weather.

Harmonized Steering Mechanism—Cadillac-La Salle cars steer with uncommon ease—not only when being driven, but when being parked at the curb. Indeed, the steering effort required is so slight that it is scarcely perceptible to the driver. And there is no "tramp" or "shimmy" at any road speed—because the whole steering mechanism was designed to work in complete harmony.

Syncro-Mesh
TRANSMISSION

The Syncro-Mesh transmission—pioneered by Cadillac, and employed by Cadillac-La Salle exclusively in the fine-car field—is one of the greatest automotive improvements since the self-starter. It permits instantaneous shifting of gears—from low into second, from second into high, from high into second—and without perceptible noise! To be able to shift gears so easily and silently adds immeasurably to the pleasure of driving. And it is an important safety factor—for the full power of the motor may be used on the instant, whether for acceleration or as a braking force.

Security-Plate Shatter-Proof Glass—All Cadillac and La Salle automobiles are equipped with mirror-quality Security-Plate glass in all windows and windshields—eliminating completely the hazard of flying glass. Cadillac was the first fine-car manufacturer to provide Security-Plate glass—and has never, at any time, made a special charge for it.

Fisher and Fleetwood Body Construction—Cadillac and La Salle cars also offer the additional safety of Fisher and Fleetwood bodies—built of combination hardwood and steel, each re-inforcing the other. In both the framework and interiors, materials are the finest the world affords—and the workmanship is of the highest order obtainable anywhere.

FEDERAL EXPERT HELPS IN FARO SWINDLE INQUIRY

3 New Suspects Hunted in $50,000 Fraud.

Herbert Graham, New York postoffice inspector and reputedly the best informed confidence game investigator in the country, gave assistance to the police yesterday in their investigation of the Litsinger-Blackidge faro swindle. Results immediately became apparent.

Called here on a criminal matter involving a brokerage house, Inspector Graham was invited by Chief of Detectives Norton to help the police department on the $50,000 faro swindle, if he had the time. Although federal regulations restrict the postal inspectors, so far as their official activities go, to cases involving fraudulent use of the mails, Inspector Graham found himself with a few spare hours and called at the detective bureau.

Three Swindlers Hunted.

He and Chief Norton were closeted for two hours. Shortly after the inspector left the bureau a news dispatch from Cleveland announced that a hunt was on, at request of Chief Norton, for three widely known swindlers, Frank Hall, alias Davis; Robert Newburn, and Charles Fernandez.

Hall, the dispatch said, is a character well known in Joliet. Newburn hails from Wichita, and Fernandez is a native of Cleveland. On the basis of their past exploits in Cleveland, Akron, Peoria, and possibly Springfield, the police regard the trio as among the shrewdest swindlers operating in the middle west.

"Steer Man" Identified.

Furthermore, it was reported, Hall, Newburn, and Fernandez have operated in the past in conjunction with Roy Browder, alias Roy Burris, alias Roy Burgess, who, Chief Norton revealed, has been identified as the "steer man" who lured Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackidge to the Springfield hotel where the swindlers got the fifty $1,000 notes loaned to her by Edward R. Litsinger.

Although Chief Norton restricted himself to the bare announcement that Browder had been identified, it was learned from other sources that identification was made by Fred Litsinger, diffident young nephew of Edward Litsinger, from whom, according to both the uncle's and nephew's story, the confidence men took the money.

Lieut. Frank Johnson, whom Chief Norton assigned to the faro case, vainly attempted to reach Mrs. Blackidge by telephone with a view to having her scan photographs of all four suspects. Pictures of Hall and Browder are available at the bureau of identification, and those of Newburn and Fernandez were being forwarded from Cleveland.

Calling the Chicago Memorial hospital, where Mrs. Blackidge had been recuperating since last Thursday, following the loss of the $50,000, Lieut. Johnson was informed that the patient had left the hospital Sunday night. Her physician, Dr. M. L. Weinstein, announced she was in seclusion in the suburban home of a friend.

Undecided on Suit.

Attorney David D. Stansbury, whom friends of Mrs. Blackidge retained to "protect her interests," following her resignation on Saturday as internal revenue collector, was busy yesterday studying the law on libel, but announced last night he had not yet decided whether to file suit.

"There's a mountain of law bearing on this case," said Mr. Stansbury. "There are involved decisions relating to special damages, which must be thoroughly studied before a decision can be reached. Besides, before any suit can be filed, I must have a couple of hours of uninterrupted conference with my client. There has been no opportunity for such a conference as yet."

Meanwhile Mr. Litsinger's plan to have Mrs. Blackidge prosecuted for alleged complicity in the swindle, either in Cook or Sangamon county, suffered a reversal here.

State's Attorney Swanson, replying to Mr. Litsinger's letter outlining his version of the case and suggesting grand jury action, concurred in the opinion of Assistant State's Attorney Edward Wilson that the case, as set forth by Litsinger, held no venue in Cook county. Mr. Swanson enclosed a copy of his assistant's opinion on the case in which it was stated:

"The statement sent you by Mr. Litsinger is word for word the statement given to the newspapers. The offense, if any, is found on page four of the statement. After relating the request for the $50,000, the trip to Springfield with Mrs. Blackidge and the nephew, Fred, and the going to the hotel, the statement reads as follows:

"'Fred went upstairs with Mrs. Blackidge and two men while I waited in the lobby. The moment Fred entered the room the three men seized him and took the money from him.

"'As soon as Fred got loose he came downstairs with Mrs. Blackidge and one of the men following. He came right to me and told me that he had been robbed.'

Venue in Sangamon.

"This forcible seizing and taking of money from an individual was plain robbery, and the venue of this offense is clearly in Sangamon county. There is no element of confidence game.

"The only other possible charge would be that of conspiracy. An indictment for conspiracy may be laid in the county where the conspiracy was entered into, or in any other county where some overt act in furtherance of the purpose of conspiracy took place.

"If Mrs. Blackidge was acting in a common design with the persons seizing the money from Fred Litsinger, and lured the Litsingers to Springfield in order that they might there be robbed, then a prosecution for conspiracy might be had in Cook county.

"Until such time as evidence is adduced to show that Mrs. Blackidge was a party to such a conspiracy, there is no basis for a prosecution for any offense in Cook county.

"In any event, it seems that it would be poor legal tactics to make a charge of conspiracy where the evidence was very doubtful, when there is an excellent charge of robbery."

From the Sangamon county prosecutor, H. E. Fullenwider, came a reply also. Mr. Fullenwider informed Mr. Litsinger that his office is busy now with a murder trial, but assured him the faro matter would be taken up when Mr. Fullenwider found time.

AIMEE MAY LEAVE TEMPLE

Evangelist Ill

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—F. C. Winters, business manager of Angelus temple, indicated today Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist and co-founder of the temple with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kenendy, may retire from its pastorate because of poor health.

Rumors at the temple that Mrs. McPherson's trip east last week to an unannounced destination signalized her retirement were answered in an announcement by Winters, which read:

"The temple board realizes Mrs. McPherson's health is very poor and we do not want her, nor expect her, to appear except upon those occasions when she is physically able."

Winters' statement followed an announcement that Miss Mae Waldron, secretary to the evangelist, had resigned. Miss Waldron, denying a breach existed between them, said "The move was simply in accordance with plans we have been making for several years."

Roberta Star Semple, 19 year old daughter of Mrs. McPherson, has replaced Miss Waldron, Winters said, but he offered no reason for the change.

Chicago Woman Robbed of Jewelry in Miami

DIVORCE POLICE FROM POLITICS, M'GOORTY PLEA

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court declared in an address at the Chicago Woman's club last night that the principal duty of Chicago's voters at the primary and election is to select a mayor who will divorce the police department from politics.

"Three successive grand juries have found a crooked alliance between crime, politics and the police," Judge McGoorty said. "When I advised the present grand jury that police ranks are bought and paid for by the vice lords it was not an overdrawn situation. As a system the police department is corrupt. We must have a mayor who will clean it up."

Judge McGoorty was one of eight speakers at the meeting who discussed various aspects of the mayoral campaign. No names of candidates, however, were mentioned by any of them.

The other speakers were Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Miss Jane Addams, James A. Mullenbach, Mrs. Murray Nelson, Henry P. Chandler, Harold Kingsley, Charles H. Judd, and George O. Fairweather.

IT'S OLD STORY, THIS CON GAME, IN SPRINGFIELD

Card Sharpers Come and Go Through Years.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Since the Litsinger-Blackidge faro scandal, Springfield authorities and residents have had one question asked of them repeatedly—"Why do the con men come here to Shear their sheep?"

This has been a mecca for swindlers and come-on game promoters for years. Hardly beyond the last decade come memories to the sporting crowd of the phony footraces and the fixed prize fights—the latter ending invariably when the favorite bit a capsule of cranberry juice held in his mouth and flopped to the canvas carrying the week's wages of hundreds of fans with him.

The story of the Kansas farmer who brought $25,000 to Springfield in the toe of his boot to purchase the ticket of a ten-to-one winner in a mythical horse race and went home a far sadder man—the victim of three cajoling gentlemen—is a legend. Even the resplendent Kid Weil, to whom all thoughts turned when the latest operation became known, headquartered here long enough to gather a tidy sum from a local easy mark who succumbed to an "opportunity."

Faro Game Largest One.

Last Wednesday night's faro game, however, eclipsed in magnitude and the prominence of its principals any con game perpetrated in the past, and adds to the mystery of why Springfield was selected. Mrs. Blackidge has told that she came here on the representation that Col. E. R. Bradley, the race horse magnate, was backing a casino near Springfield, built recently at a cost of $200,000, for the convenience and indulgence of the state legislators.

This was a blind; no such casino existed, and Mrs. Blackidge was transferred from hotel to hotel until the $50,000 disappeared in the final game at the St. Nicholas, headquarters of the Democratic chieftains.

Wonder About Precautions.

The excuse is offered by Springfield's defenders that Crooks can come and go with ease because the police facilities are limited and the criminal identification records of similar scope. In reply the curious ones say they cannot understand why precautions have not been taken to guard against invasions of the wily by a strengthening of the police force and the naming of a confidence and gambling squad that knows swindlers by sight and can spot a card sharp maneuvering for an advantage.

For an answer to the first question—"Why pick Springfield?"—a reporter talked with a gambler, a man who knows the local liquor trade, and the chief of police, T. P. Sullivan. Were there gambling houses here? the reporter wanted to know; how thickly studded on the city's map are speakeasies, and what of vice? Are the con games the only overt acts occurring in Springfield?

"—and Probably Twenty."

"Are there gambling houses?" repeated the gambler. My lad, unless they have closed, or been closed, since Wednesday night, there are at least ten, and probably twenty."

"Open houses, you mean?" he was asked.

"Not hardly, in fact, not at all," was the reply. "You're a stranger here and I don't know a place in town where you could pitch dice in a house backed game unless you had a card."

"What kind of a card?"

"A membership card. You see, these places go under the name of clubs. Unless some one introduces you, you can't get by the peephole—they don't let folks in they don't know. These places are called clubs.

"The games are blackjack, craps, and that old dough taker, seven card peek. No roulette wheels that I know of and no faro; that's too complicated for the local folks. I don't understand it myself. Most of the clubs have a $10 limit. Back alleys and blind stairways are the entrances and the buzzers and peepholes are usually pretty prominently located."

"Not by a long chance. They have their own games in the hotels—and try and break into them. The club people are Springfield folks and the transients who can get an introduction."

Said the man who knows the liquor trade, "The speakeasies aren't as thick as they used to be, but I'd hate to throw a handful of rocks from the top of the courthouse on the chance that one wouldn't hit a gin joint. The prohibition agents have been a little active in the last six months and that closed some of them down, but there's plenty left. Plenty!"

Police Chief Interviewed.

The reporter went to the police station. Chief Sullivan is young, in his thirties, perhaps—is of medium height with full features, and has a thatch of black hair with a hint of gray running through it. He heads a force of about seventy men, one, say, for each thousand of inhabitants. The department is housed in a new and scientifically designed police building and jail.

The interview ran first through the angles of the Litsinger-Blackidge case. Chief Sullivan believes the trio of con men are Chicagoans. Like most of his fellow citizens, he doesn't know why they brought their faro board and victims here.

"What about Springfield, chief?" asked the reporter.

"Is your murder rate high?"

"Not high, not above the average, I think. Last year we didn't have twenty murders and some of them were solved. In November we had just four robberies."

"What about gambling houses?"

The chief made a positive answer. "There's not a gambling house in Springfield," he said. "And it's my belief that the county is in the same condition."

"Speakeasies?"

"Every town has speakeasies."

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN RESTING IN N.Y. AFTER OPERATION

MRS. FREDERIC McLAUGHLIN.

Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin of Chicago and Lake Forest was discovered by friends yesterday in a private sanitarium in New York, where she is resting following an operation for varicose veins, performed last Saturday by Dr. Bolling Lee.

"I am really sorry that the news leaked out that I am here," Mrs. McLaughlin declared after admitting the operation had been performed.

"You see, she added, "the only reason the operation was not performed in Chicago, my home town, is that I would have been bothered to death by my friends and could have gotten no rest. Now I expect I'll get no quiet here, either."

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

CHICAGO TO GET TREASURES FROM XERXES' CAPITAL

Deal with Persia Is New Triumph for Breasted.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Chicago and Persia yesterday perfected a partnership by which this city will within three years become the world's chief seat for the study of ancient Persian culture.

Excavation of Persepolis, resplendent throne city of Darius and Xerxes in the fifth century, B. C., will begin next summer under the direction of the University of Chicago, and by agreement with the Persian government half of all the treasures brought to light during the next three years will be sent to Chicago.

They will be displayed permanently in the halls of the Oriental institute on the university's campus.

A Triumph for Breasted.

The partnership entered into between the new shah of Persia and the university is another triumph for Dr. James H. Breasted and that triumph crowns the forty years of work in oriental research which he has given to the university and which has made the one time clerk in a Rockkford, Ill., drug store an international figure.

The donor of the funds which make possible the extensive campaign at Persepolis is an eastern woman.

"More as to her identity I must not give," said Prof. Breasted, "because it would only subject her to the appeals of cranks the world over."

"What of high significance do you expect to bring from Persepolis to Chicago?" the explorer was asked.

He who, at the age of 65, is often called "the youngest enthusiast on the campus," rubbed his hands and his eyes glistened.

Expects "Numberless Treasures."

"Numberless treasures," he replied. "First of all sculpture, and that will be important because it will determine precisely the nature of the reputed influence of Persian sculpture upon early Greek sculpture, especially in the matter of drapery, which, until they were affected by Persian influence, the Greeks used sparingly.

"We also expect to recover cuneiform tablets, among them corner stone records having to do with the dedication of temples. Already one such record, dating from the reign of Hystaspes, father of Darius the Great, has been unearthed at Persepolis but unhappily it was disposed of by a native at a private sale.

To Stop Random Sales.

"It is precisely this random disposition of the treasures of Persepolis which the University of Chicago's agreements with the Persian government will put a stop to. There will be no more plundering by natives and no more dissipation of records, which will enable scholars to write new chapters in the history of the development of the world's culture.

"At Persepolis we shall work chiefly amid palaces and temples of the monarchs Darius, greatest organizer of the ancient world, whose army the Greeks beat at Marathon, and of Xerxes, his son, whose gigantic fleet the Greeks destroyed at Salamis.

"We expect these palaces and temples to yield golden tablets, the inscriptions on which will shed new light on one of the most brilliant and many-sided rulers of antiquity, for such Darius the Great was."

Breasted Raises Money.

The expedition to Persepolis is the direct result of Prof. Breasted's genius for raising money from persons whose interest in Darius, Xerxes, and all their works is often relatively languid, until their ears have been charmed by songs of salesmanship released by "the youngest enthusiast on the campus." The songs having been sung, purse strings loosen, and in a few months the long silent treasure houses of antiquity give up their secrets and historians have to begin to revise monumental books on the basis of Breasted's discoveries on a two thousand mile front which extends from the upper waters of the Nile to the upper waters of the Tigris.

Eleven Expeditions to Work.

On that front the Oriental institute will next summer have eleven expeditions at work. Of that institute Breasted is the life and soul—and the dulcet singer. Last year its budget was $400,000. Its endowments are said to be approaching nine millions.

And it all began thirty-five years ago with Dr. Breasted's enthusiasm, Mrs. Breasted's devotion, a donkey, and what the professor calls "a tuppenny camera."

With no more motive power than the donkey and no more scientific apparatus than the camera, they explored on a new method, and with new ideas of using the material they gathered, the ruins of Luxor in Egypt.

That was the beginning of a career which has become international.

Today the list of the professor's publications, his decorations, and his memberships in learned societies would fill more than half a column in THE TRIBUNE. But the great man remains as simple and eager as a child.

He will not join the institute's staff at Persepolis until the second year of the work is under way, as he has yet to perfect arrangements for excavations in the island of Crete, which will be the institute's next great field after Persepolis.

Meanwhile, the field work in the Persian city will be directed by Prof. Ernest Herzfeld of the University of Berlin.

New Shah Helps in Plan.

The accession to the Persian throne of a young man who looks out on the world with modern eyes, and who is not a champagne addict, has substantially aided Dr. Breasted's achievement of his latest triumph.

"The new shah," said the professor, "is a modern boy. Largely as a result of his point of view the monopoly which the French enjoyed in Persian excavation and the fruits thereof has been lifted. His government's new antiquities law is equitable and the University of Chicago's Persepolis expedition will be the first to function under it.

"Persepolis itself has not been touched since scientific archaeology was born, and when you think of the colossal wealth and the far flung operations of Darius and Xerxes you will see that the uncovering of their capital cannot but be fruitful.

Chicago to Get Treasures.

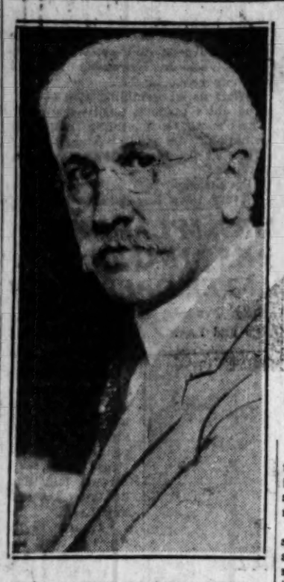
"For Chicago the specific result will be that here we shall have the first collection of Persian antiquities ever excavated scientifically by an American expedition working amid remains that date back to the Persia of Zoroaster."

Persepolis is on the north shore of the Persian gulf and 40 miles from Shiraz, whence come the celebrated rugs. Broad terraces and lofty colonnades still look down on the silent plain which covers part of Persepolis. In the plain as well as amid the ruins which command it the Chicago expedition will work.

In addition to its Persepolis concession the university has received from the Iraq government a concession to excavate in four Babylonian cities forty miles northeast of Bagdad. Work has already begun there amid remains that antedate 2000 B. C. As yet only upper levels have been laid open. Levels from 30 to 50 feet deeper will be explored. To how remote a period of human history they will carry the investigators is still a matter of speculation.

The romance of research which Father and Mother Breasted began thirty-five years ago is being carried forward by their son Charles,

WHERE EXPLORERS WILL DELVE INTO PAST



DR. JAMES H. BREASTED.

Kills Self to Save Funds Invested for His Sister

Robert Kletzen, 53 years old, a retired south side decorating contractor, shot himself to death yesterday in the basement of the 12 apartment building at 2627 Farragut avenue which he owned jointly with his sister, Mrs. Marguerite Coughlin, a widow with two children. Kletzen and Mrs. Coughlin invested their combined life savings in the building three years ago and were paying the balance from rentals. Then Kletzen became ill with tuberculosis and physicians ordered hospital care. He is believed to have taken his life because he feared the expense would cause his sister to lose the building. Kletzen was known to scores of children as "Uncle Bob," who returned many wagons in the neighborhood to the proper basement each night.

Loesch to Discuss City's Crime in Radio Address

Frank J. Loesch, a member of the Wickersham Law Enforcement commission, will be the guest speaker on the Celebrities program of W-G-N from 8 to 8:30 o'clock tonight. The program will be broadcast over a National Broadcasting company network. Mr. Loesch, who also is president of the Chicago Crime commission, will speak on "Crime in Chicago."

PIERRE LAVAL ORGANIZES NEW FRENCH CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 27.—[Tuesday.]—After eighteen hours of conference work Pierre Laval, France's new premier and minister of the interior, succeeded in forming a cabinet shortly after midnight. The new coalition is approximately the same as André Tardieu's cabinet, if anything a shade further to the right.

Tardieu has accepted the lowly portfolio of minister of agriculture in the new cabinet. Current explanation is that, having been indirectly besmirched in the recent Oustric bank scandal, M. Tardieu seized on the agricultural portfolio, which is in a bad way, to rehabilitate himself.

Aristide Briand, as a matter of course, has been selected as minister of foreign affairs; Pierre Etienne Flandin is the new minister of finance, André Maginot, the one legged war veteran, resumes the ministership of war.

Policeman's Son Killed While Cleaning a Rifle

Walter McNamara, 17 years old, a high school student, was killed yesterday while cleaning a .22 caliber rifle at his home at 6538 Yale avenue. He accidentally discharged the weapon, the bullet entering his brain. He was a son of Charles McNamara, desk sergeant at the Chicago Lawn police station.

PRESCRIPTIONS FOR 177,175 GALS. OF RUM ISSUED

A total of 14,714 books, containing 1,417,400 liquor prescriptions, were issued to 10,000 physicians in Illinois and Wisconsin during 1930, according to a report made public yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of permits for the Chicago area.

A pint of whisky is obtainable with each prescription, making a total of 177,175 gallons of whisky used for "medicinal" purposes in Illinois and Wisconsin last year. Each physician is allotted four prescription books a year, or a maximum of 4,000,000 prescriptions for the 10,000, which means that they did not use half of their quota, according to Yellowley's figures.

A substantial reduction was shown in the use of alcohol, the report showed. Production at Illinois industrial alcohol plants in 1929, plus receipts from other bonded warehouses, totaled 15,188,990 gallons, while the figure for 1930 was 10,626,438 gallons.

THE SHOW CARS OF THE MOTOR SHOW
CHRYSLER enters 1931 with the smartest, finest motor cars ever to bear the Chrysler name.
At the Coliseum, and in the Balloon Room, Congress Hotel, and at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, there is being shown for the first time in Chicago, a brand-new Chrysler Six styled like the smart Chrysler Eights—a new Six of 116-inch wheelbase, big in size, big in power and remarkably low-priced.
This new Chrysler Six and the Chrysler Eights are, in a very true sense, the Show Cars of 1931.
In the new Six, as in the Eights, refreshing smartness is created by an extremely low center of gravity, which also makes for greater safety at all speeds. You actually feel safer as you ride along and notice the needless height of other cars.
And performance!—Chrysler performance is as outstanding as Chrysler style. The Chrysler Six has a 70-horsepower engine. The Chrysler Eight has a 90-horsepower engine. The Chrysler Imperial Eight has a 125-horsepower engine. In addition, the two Eights have an exclusive Chrysler Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears. There are two distinct high gears—one for sprinting in traffic and climbing hills, the other for the open highway. A quick, quiet gear shift makes it easy to shift back and forth between the two "highs" at any speed without clashing.
See the new Chrysler Six, the Chrysler Straight Eight and the famous Chrysler Imperial Eight at the Automobile Show, or at one of the Special Exhibits.

7 SAILORS SAVED AFTER MONTH ON A WINTRY OCEAN

Found Near Death from Hunger and Cold.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Seven sailors out of Newfoundland arrived in port today with a tale of a thirty day battle with a midwinter Atlantic that seldom has been surpassed by any epic of the sea. The men were plucked out of Davy Jones' locker starving and half mad with thirst 500 miles southwest of the Azores by the German freighter Wido, bound to Panama, and transferred to the New York bound liner Carinthia.

For a month they had drifted in a wrecked, leaking schooner through the ice filled northern waters with waves thirty feet high breaking over the pounding boat and making a sieve of it. No fire could be kept going in the galley and every stitch the men wore was soaking wet with freezing water. Two cases of Scotch whisky provided the only warmth aboard.

Mast Lost in Storm.

Capt. Cyril Harwood and six seamen put out from St. Johns in the John W. Miller, a chip of a schooner loaded to the guards with salt cod. They were going to "roll down to Rio," but two days out of St. Johns the schooner ran into a full gale and lost her sailing clothes. Just as darkness closed in on the second day of the storm the mainmast came crashing down, injuring three men. That night the schooner almost went to the bottom, for with every lash of the rain the big stick was sent crashing into the side of the vessel.

Great leaks were sprung. From then on it was pump, pump, pump to keep afloat. The seven half frozen seamen, injured and all, kept the clanking pumps grinding day and night.

Start Drift Southward.

The crippled John W. Miller bucked and pitched its way through the great waves in a crazy, aimless manner with the men living o. ship's biscuit, canned meat, whisky, and water. Their first break of luck came, the men said today, when the ship after a couple of very long weeks felt the pull of a southern bound current.. From then on it was just a case of drifting, almost always in a gale.

The rudder had gone with the first blow, said Capt. Harwood, and there was only the battered stub of a mast left and for sail there was not enough canvas left to make a shirt. First the canned food gave out and for the last four days the crew existed on starvation rations of hard biscuit and half a cup of water a day per man. The warming whisky, for which they thanked their lucky stars, had been drained to the last drop the week before.

Seen by Freighter.

They had long since almost given up hope of being rescued, when one morning a thousand miles east of Nassau the lookout sighted a wisp of smoke on the horizon. A few hours later the freighter Wido drew alongside the water logged schooner and sent a boat for them. Their last act was to open the schooner's seacocks and start her on its trip to Davy Jones' locker for water soaked derelicts are dangerous if left afloat.

Taken off with Capt. Harwood were W. L. Kennedy, mate; John Clark, bosuwain; John Green, cook, and William Lang, Theodore Pike, and Frank Rogers, seamen.

Pike is a relative of Capt. William P. Cluett of Nova Scotia, who was fatally wounded last Saturday night when a coast guard cutter fired on a Nova Scotian vessel south of Ambrose lightship. Pike said Cluett was a "straightforward boy with a fine reputation."

Suspend Policeman Who Killed Auto Suspect of 14

Patrolman William J. Clark of the Damen avenue station, who on Saturday night shot and killed one of two boys alleged to have been driving a stolen auto, was suspended last night by Acting Commissioner Alcock. The victim was Norman Gibbons, 14 years old, whose parents are said to be estranged and who lived with his grandmother at 2324 Melrose street. Clark reported that he called on Gibbons to halt and fired at him only after he refused. Clark had once been cited for creditable mention.

Hobart Smith, 34 years old, 513 West 66th street, ticket seller at the union station, who last week confessed that the robbery of $10,000 from the station on Jan. 19 was a scheme of his own to obtain money to cover gambling losses, was granted a continuance yesterday in Judge Frank M. Padden's Felony court. At the request of railroad officials the case was continued until Jan. 28 to give Smith a chance to make restitution of $300. The police have already recovered the remainder of the money, which Smith had hidden in his home.

Girl Recovering After Parrot's Blood Treatment

Recovery of Lillian Fisher, 15 years old, school girl, who received an injection of parrot blood last week to counteract infantile paralysis, was predicted last night by her physician, Dr. H. E. Stephen of Joliet. The girl is at St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet. The parrot blood injection was made, it is said, as the result of a telephonic communication from Chicago in which the advice to use "parents' blood" was misinterpreted as "parrot's blood."

HUNGARIANS AND AUSTRIANS SIGN FRIENDSHIP PACT

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—Count Stephen Bethlen, the Hungarian premier, and the Austrian vice chancellor and minister of foreign affairs, Dr. Johann Schober, today signed a treaty of friendship and arbitration between Austria and Hungary.

The treaty covers more ground than the previous treaty of friendship of 1923, which was only two pages in length. The present treaty covers six pages. The introduction gives the treaty a political character, as it emphasizes the necessity of "the two countries remaining in close contact to deal with any questions arising which interest them." In general, it follows the usual line of treaties of friendship and arbitration and is couched in particularly friendly language.

Count Bethlen declared his visit here was intended to bind Austria and Hungary closer together. The old difficulties existing between Austrian-Hungarians under the Hapsburgs were only increased by the peace treaties and by the different political complexion of the respective post-war régimes. Revision was necessary, Count Bethlen said.

On the other hand, Count Bethlen expressed the hope that no one would make the same mistake as on other of his journeys in thinking he intended to work to create a revisionist bloc. The only object of his visit to Vienna, he said, was to improve commercial relations.

EVEN THE GREAT HERMANN NEVER WROUGHT SUCH MAGIC!

"Hermann the Great"—the magician who entertained the crowned heads of Europe—who astounded East Indian and Chinese masters of legerdemain—never performed the simple feat of exchanging old pleasures for new—something that you can do easily!

Old pleasures—a set of books you've read—a collection of rare stamps—a comfortable chair, for which you no longer have room—a motor boat you've docked long ago—clothing you've outgrown—anything from which the most enjoyment for you has been taken.

New pleasures—things you'd like to have now—a motion picture camera—an automobile—a radio—redecorated rooms—dental services—an airplane, anything else that would satisfy your craving for some new pleasure, or fill a need.

You can exchange your old pleasures for the new ones, just as hundreds of other persons have done, through the Barter & Exchange column in the Tribune! Try it!

CANADA ASKS FACTS ON LATEST U. S. RUM KILLING

Expected to Make an Official Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Indications tonight are that the Canadian government will protest formally to the state department against the killing of William P. Cluett, captain of the Canadian rum running vessel Josephine K., fired on by a coast guard cutter late Saturday night.

Hume Wrong, chargé of the Canadian legation, called at the state department this morning and asked full information regarding the shooting of the Canadian citizen. Cluett was killed while attempting to escape from a coast guard cutter during a chase off the New Jersey coast near the Ambrose lightship. The state department called on the treasury for a complete report. This is expected tomorrow.

Although coast guard officials defended its latest killing as "simply an incident to the transaction" of halting the Josephine K., indications are the Canadian government will take the position that the coast guard's action was too drastic.

Recalls I'm Alone Case.

Such a stand was taken by the Canadian government in the I'm Alone case, when coast guardsmen sank a steamer of Canadian registry 200 miles off shore and killed a French citizen.

At that time Canadian officials stated in a note that they "would be loath to admit" that the articles of the 1924 Canadian-American convention, under which Canadian rum runners can be seized within the one hour sailing limit and taken into port, "would warrant action so drastic as the destruction of a vessel."

After a White House conference Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition, defended the killing as justified under the law.

"It is regrettable the captain lost his life, but it was simply an incident to the transaction," he said. "I feel sure that the coast guard did not fire with the intention of taking life, but to prevent the rum runner escaping. Apparently the Canadian rum runner was violating the laws of the United States, which it is the duty of the coast guard to enforce under mandates from the congress of the United States."

Shooting Called Illegal.

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The charge was made in open court late today that the fatal shooting by the coast guard of Capt. William P. Cluett of the Canadian rum runner Josephine K. occurred outside the 12 mile limit.

Louis Halle, counsel for the officers and crew, asserted before U. S. Commissioner Cotter that the motor vessel from Digby, N. S., had been fired upon unjustifiably. He made his statement in protesting against a demand by Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Watts that bail range from $10,000 downwards.

"The acts complained of did not occur within the treaty limit," he said. "These men are guilty of no crime. "It has been decided again and again that unless liquor is actually brought ashore no crime has been committed by those in the boat at sea.

Calls Plot Impossible.

"Then, too, subordinates on board cannot conspire with their captain. They were bound to obey his orders. This case is one in which the captain has given all the bail that he could. He has given his life."

Bail was finally fixed as follows: for the crew of the motor ship ranging from $7,500 for Wesley Anderson, mate, to $500 for seamen.

Similar bail was fixed for the crew of the scow Brooklyn and the Dauntless 6, which were seized along with the Josephine K.

A coast guard board of inquiry made a cursory examination of the crews and of the vessels today.

While authorities were investigating the Josephine K. capture and shooting, another Canadian rum runner, the Temiscouda of St. John's, N. F., was seized in Fort Pond bay, Long Island, after coast guardsmen had sent a shot through the boat's gas tank. The seized cargo, it was said, consists of $75,000 worth of liquor.

Ottawa Watchfully Waiting.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—"Watchful waiting" described the attitude tonight of the department of external affairs in respect to the killing of Capt. William P. Cluett by the United States coast guard, and the seizure of his ship, the Josephine K.

"The department of external affairs is making inquiries," was the brief statement of Premier R. B. Bennett today.

It would not be surprising if the case of the Josephine K. attained almost as much prominence as that of the famous I'm Alone, which has been referred to arbitration. In certain respects the two cases are parallel.

The I'm Alone was sunk after being chased out to the high seas and raked with gun fire. One man, a citizen of France, was drowned. The vessel was flying the Canadian flag.

There is one feature of the Josephine K. case which makes it even more serious than that of the I'm Alone, from the Canadian point of view. A Canadian citizen was killed.

$724,570 CONTRACT LET FOR 25 MILES OF COUNTY ROADS

Nine highway contracts calling for the construction of 24.7 miles of pavement at a cost of $724,570 were awarded yesterday by the county board. Action on twenty-three other road projects was deferred. The contracts awarded are as follows:

The board also let a contract for the construction of a culvert in Ridgeland avenue, three and one-fourth miles south of 135th street. Bids on 770,000 barrels of cement were rejected as too high—six cents above cost of a year ago.

GOV. PINCHOT TO END COAL, IRON POLICE SYSTEMS

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Gov. Pinchot today took his first action toward the abolition of the coal and iron police system, which labor unions have fought for year. All commissions now in force, and they number approximately 1,100, are to be terminated as of June 30, 1931, the governor announced.

He is prepared to have a bill introduced in the legislature, which is now in session, to create a force for guarding industrial properties, chosen and commanded by the state, but paid for by the companies. The governor also plans to call a conference of coal operators, miners, and the public to discuss his proposed bill.

The coal and iron police system is centered mostly in the bituminous coal region of western Pennsylvania and the steel mills of that section.

SENATE SEEKING INSIDE STORY OF DRY LAW REPORT

Administration Backers Join Demand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—With the Howell bill for a District of Columbia dry law on the floor and the prohibition question paramount, United States senators today joined the movement of the curious who want to know whether or not President Hoover influenced the recommendations of the Wickersham commission.

Nor were recruits limited to members of the Democratic side or the radical Republican bloc. At least one senator from the President's own party supported the thinly veiled purpose of the resolution presented by Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] which seeks to call in Chairman George W. Wickersham so that he can explain to a puzzled world the seeming inconsistencies in the report.

Bingham Joins in Demand.

The Republican senator who permitted his wetness to overcome his usual party regularity was Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, a gentleman normally to be found lifting his tall, spare frame and his silvery locks in defiant support of the administration.

"Two of the driest members of the commission, William I. Grubb and Paul J. McCormick, state that the commission agreed to recommend immediate revision of the 18th amendment," said Senator Bingham. "That is, their individual reports call attention to this fact, yet the commission's conclusions do not contain such a recommendation. I was led at first to wonder whether there was not some typographical error, but since both commissioners say the same thing this seems unlikely."

"Does the senator insinuate," demanded Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] with the suavity befitting a minority leader, "that the conclusions were somehow changed at the last minute?"

"O, I am insinuating nothing," answered Senator Bingham with equal suavity. "I was merely stating what these two dry members of the commission say."

Tydings Explains Resolution.

This interchange followed Senator Tydings' argument in behalf of his resolution, in which he declared:

"The senate is puzzled and interested in the rumors about how the report was arrived at. We ought to know what contacts they had outside their membership. My resolution aims merely to clean up the gossip and the implications that the commission was not a free agent and was influenced."

More unusual than Senator Bingham's attitude was that taken by Senator George W. Norris [Neb.], insurgent Republican who is chronically on the side opposite the administration.

"I believe the commission should not have taken evidence in secret," he declared, "but when it comes to such a resolution as this I cannot see that it will do any good and I think it might be looked on with some reason as a little offensive."

"I had no intention of reflecting on anybody," said Senator Tydings, "but everybody knows the implication that has gone out, that certain members arrived at their conclusions in view of certain other conditions."

Passed Over Temporarily.

The Tydings resolution and a companion move to call for the evidence on which the commission based its findings were temporarily passed over, and their place on the prohibition program was taken by the Howell bill with its drastic and far reaching provisions as to raids on private homes.

Once more dry senators joined with wet in opposing the search and seizure clause. They swung back into line, however, when Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] moved to reënter the bill in committee, and his motion was defeated, 28 to 45. While the vote was not a clear cut expression of wet and dry sentiment it indicated that a true test vote would show gains on the wet side. On the face of the vote, passage of the Howell bill with a modified search and seizure clause is considered virtually certain.

Among the dry senators who came out against the search and seizure provisions of the bill were Senators William E. Borah [Idaho], Republican insurgent; Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.].

"The Volstead act goes far enough," declared Senator Borah, speaking on the pending amendment offered by Senator John J. Blaine [Wis.], insurgent Republican, which seeks to modify.

From the White House today the impression was given out that President Hoover has had his say on prohibition and, for the time at least, will have nothing more to contribute to the discussion.

Mackintosh for Revision.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—In an effort to make plain his attitude on prohibition, Judge Kenneth Mackintosh of Seattle, a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, told the Associated Press today he favored immediate steps toward the revision of the law, but he considered ultimate modification would take several years.

He denied he had changed his stand and insisted his feeling on prohibition is exactly the same as in his individual report submitted with the report signed of the commission.

He considered the recommendation of the entire commission for more money to enforce the dry laws merely an apparent contradiction, and not an actual one.

"Chaos would result if the act was to be repealed with nothing to take its place," he delared. "That is why I am against repeal without revision.

He pointed out a long constitutional process must be gone through before the amendment can be revised, saying the change would have to pass congress and 36 legislatures.

He felt it would be dishonest to repeal the Volstead enforcement act and leave the 18th amendment in the constitution without any machinery to make it effective.

He considered himself one of seven members of the commission favoring either revision or repeal, listing Frank J. Loesch, Henry W. Anderson, Newton D. Baker, Ada L. Comstock, Roscoe Pound, and Monte M. Lehmann as the others.

WOMAN DIES OF INFECTION.

Blood poisoning developing from an infected ankle yesterday caused the death of Mrs. Louise Elmore, 86 years old, 2718 West Monroe street.

YALE PROFESSOR ATTACKS INSULL POWER METHODS

'Higher Racketeering,' He Calls It.

The Wickersham report on prohibition was cited as an evidence of political chaos in America by Prof. Jerome Davis of Yale university yesterday. He spoke before a union ministers' meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A. Prof. Davis told the 300 ministers present that the report, on the whole, was good, but that the comments of some members of the Wickersham commission revealed that present general confusion of thought not only in the matter of prohibition but also along other lines.

This confusion, Prof. Davis declared, forms the soil in which "higher racketeering" flourishes. Among the higher racketeers in America today, the Yale sociologist named the Insull interests. He told of recent purchases made by the Insull utilities in Maine where, he said, they are trying to send through the legislature a law to permit the export of power from the state.

"The Insull interests used money like water in the elections to get that law enacted," said Prof. Davis, quoting a Maine lumberman who said he did not oppose the legislation "because the Insull interests will get their way sooner or later, so they might just as well get it now."

Prof. Davis declared the Insull interests have been paying university professors' salaries to lecture in favor of the "power trust" which, he quoted Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania as saying, is now in control of all but six states.

Acting Police Commissioner John N. Alcock told the pastors that encouraging progress is being made against organized crime in Chicago.

At a Chicago Church federation meeting prior to the union ministers' meeting, officers for 1931 were elected. Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago school of divinity was reëlected president. Other officers are George W. Dixon, the Rev. Dr. Joshua Oden and Mrs. A. H. Barr, vice presidents; the Rev. C. S. Laidman, recording secretary, Harry A. Brinkman, treasurer and Walter H. Mee, executive secretary.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

approach such problems in the same spirit as I."

Then, indicating that this queerest of all politicians believes he still holds the trump card, he added:

"I very sincerely believe that every political prisoner now in jail [only Gandhi and his outstanding colleagues are being released] for being connected with my civil disobedience campaign should be released, and none of us leaders should be happy as long as any of our brothers and sisters are in jail."

An "Eye to Eye" Question.

"If the Indian government does not see eye to eye with you in the matter," asked the correspondent, "what will you do?"

Whereupon Gandhi replied:

"I don't know at this stage. I have made no plans yet, nor formulated any policies, nor even fixed my movements for the immediate future."

The Nationalist leader commended the treatment given him by prison officials and when asked if he were likely to return to Yeravda, replied with a smile:

"Possibly; you never know."

Before leaving the prison, he told officials he was likely to be back within two months.

Not a soul in this tiny outpost had realised who was in their midst until a few passengers on the train suddenly recognised the traveler and raised the famous congress war cry:

"Long live Gandhi, our king!"

"Holy Man" Leaves Prison.

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 26.—Mahatma Gandhi, at his own request, was not released from Yeravda jail, near Poona, until 11 o'clock tonight. He was placed aboard the night mail train, due in Bombay early in the morning, as he wished to avoid demonstrations.

Vallarbat Patel, who had been Gandhi's principal lieutenant, was released at 7 p. m.

From Allahabad came the news that Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the all-India nationalist congress, was released this morning. Mrs. Jawaharlal Nehru also was released from Lucknow jail this morning and taken by motor to Allahabad. Both are members of the congress working committee and were released unconditionally.

Whisked Away in Auto.

Gandhi, naked except for a loin cloth, had been ready to leave jail four hours earlier, but throughout the day a large crowd had been assembled in the vicinity of the prison gates and the mahatma suggested it might be better to wait until nightfall. His scanty belongings, consisting chiefly of a spinning wheel, a number of books, voluminous writings, cooking pots, and writing materials, had long been packed and two fast automobiles provided by the prison authorities were standing in the yard.

Toward 11 o'clock the crowd, thinking Gandhi's release had been postponed, gradually dispersed, and Gandhi, now swatched in a blanket against the chilly night air, stepped into the first automobile accompanied by Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, veteran Indian poetess and congress leader. The gates were hardly open before the car was roaring along the dusty road and a new page in India's checkered history had been turned.

There was a feeling of rejoicing everywhere in Bombay this morning over the news that the viceroy had ordered the release of the Indian "idol" and other members of the congress working committee in an attempt to secure conditions necessary for a calm and dispassionate examination of the grave issues raised by the conclusion of the round table conference. The general feeling appears to be that the period of strife is over.

Wait at Station for Idol.

This new spirit was shown in the tolerance with which the first anniversary of the declaration of independence of the Indian Nationalists was treated in this city. In only one instance did the police find it necessary to disperse a procession.

Large crowds waited throughout the day at Victoria station, expecting Gandhi's arrival.

The general feeling of optimism was reflected in the buoyant condition of the Bombay stock exchange and cotton market.

One Slain, 50 Wounded in Riot.

RANGPUR, Bengal, India, Jan. 26. —(AP)—One Moslem was killed Saturday night and fifty wounded when police at Nilphamari fired upon a Moslem mob which was alleged to have attacked a Hindu procession. Many Hindus and policemen were hurt.

ENEMIES PRAISE BRITISH PREMIER ON INDIA PARLEY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, may or may not be thrown out of office by the defeat of his Labor government in the house of commons within 48 hours from now, but tonight he had a great victory when the leaders of both opposition parties in parliament accepted with praise the results of his Indian conference.

Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, specifically pledged himself that if he returned to power his new government would implement the round table proposals by carrying them on to completion in an act of parliament giving India the desired constitution.

Simon Pays Tribute.

Even Sir John Simon of the Liberal party, who is expected tomorrow or the next day to make the speech of his life on the trade disputes act, which may cause the MacDonald government's downfall, paid his tribute to the results of the Indian negotiations.

He declared that a great beginning had been made in the right direction. His chief implied criticism was that the things which were still left undone were not mere details for settlement by the drafters of the constitution, but great major problems that still offered grave difficulties which must be solved before the Indian question is finally settled.

This was Mr. McDonald's own day. India has given his government as much prestige as it derived from the naval conference or from the achievements of Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, at The Hague reparations negotiations in the first year of the Labor administration.

Downfall for Churchill.

Incidentally, the victory for MacDonald was a downfall for Winston Churchill, who attacked the MacDonald government and its Indian conference with jibes and sneers, and was promptly repudiated for so doing by Stanley Baldwin, leader of his own party, and all the other Conservative members who participated in the debate.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who had opened the debate, briefly reviewed the work of the conference, concluding with an appeal which was directed straight at Mr. Churchill. His plea was that parliament let the government go on to finish the work begun at the round table.

Warning that parliament's refusal to take up the task where the round table conference had left off would result in the "repression not of an individual or of organizations but of a whole people," the premier concluded:

"If, on the other hand, you wish to bind India to you by bonds of confidence and make her happy within your empire; if you wish to hear her praise you in gratitude and remain with you in pride, then accept the work that has been done by the conference and instruct the government to proceed with it to a complete conclusion."

Rush Plans for Government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Indian members of the round table conference still in England are losing no time in making progress with the preparatory work of setting up a new Indian government.

A series of conferences have been held between the princes and representatives of British-India, which has resulted in a decision to appoint a committee to draft a form of convention under which the princes will enter an all India federation. This instrument must clearly define just what the princes will surrender and what they will retain in the way of absolute rule over their own dominions and the rights and the duties of each party.

SAFETY GLASS

THIS year's Automobile Show differs from previous shows in this vital point—nearly half the manufacturers exhibiting cars are offering something in addition to style, beauty, and performance. They are offering the vital protection of Safety Glass—the greatest contribution to motoring safety since four-wheel brakes.

When you visit the Show, make it a point to get the facts on Libbey·Owens·Ford Safety Glass. This new glass is making motoring far safer than it has ever been before, for it frees motoring of its greatest peril—broken, flying glass, with its all too frequent toll of injury, disfigurement, or even worse.

You will find cars in every price class offering you the protection of Libbey·Owens·Ford Safety Glass. Make sure the car you buy offers this vital protection. You owe it to yourself and to your family.

Billions of Lilliputians at Your Service!

(In "Gulliver's Travels," Jonathan Swift writes of the Lilliputians, a race of people only six inches in height.)

TWENTY-FOUR hours a day, infinitesimal units of electrical energy race back and forth carrying your voice over the miles of telephone wires. They are like billions of Lilliputians working diligently to Get the Message Through. Tireless, heedless of the weather or the hour, they are constantly on the alert for the lifting of your telephone receiver . . . the signal that there is work to be done —a message to go through!

Millions of dollars of plant and equipment provide the highways which carry your voice. Back of this plant and these invisible Lilliputians is the human force which creates the plant and directs its operation. Nearly 30,000 are men and women in the Illinois Bell Telephone organization. It is their aim to help you to speak clearly, quickly and cheaply to anyone, anywhere, anytime. Human and electrical forces are combined with the vast facilities of the telephone system to give the most telephone service and the best, at the least cost consistent with financial safety.

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

STRAWN GROUP WOULD ABOLISH OLD TAX BOARDS

Urge Action Now to Avoid City Bankruptcy.

Abolition of the existing tax assessing system and the immediate passage of legislation to substitute a new board of assessment and revision was recommended yesterday by the Strawn citizens' committee to save the local governments from "the disgrace and humiliation of bankruptcy."

The Strawn group, in a formal statement, warned that another breakdown in the finances of the county, city, school, and park boards is imminent, due to the delays in tax collections, and that reorganization of the assessing machinery is essential. The alternative, the statement said, is to close the schools, stop paying firemen and policemen, and otherwise paralyze public services.

Propose Board of Three.

Although not indorsing any specific bill—two of which are pending at Springfield—the committee suggested that the proposed new tax board consist of three members, one to be the county assessor. This body would replace the present boards of assessors and review and the town assessors.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' group, supplemented the formal statement with his own views.

"Cook county now has 38 persons in charge of assessments," he said. "There are 30 town assessors, besides the members of the county assessory and review boards. There is no responsible head. The result is so much political dwadling and delay that tax collections are far behind and so uncertain that the sale of tax warrants is very questionable if there is a delay in collection.

"Unless the warrants are sold, the local governments go to the wall. Some people are inclined to blame the bankers who have bought the warrants in the past. But why so? If the banks hadn't bought the warrants who would have bought them?

Committee Is Ready to Aid.

"The citizens' committee, which incidentally is not a bankers' committee and does not represent the banks, has done all it can and stands ready to do more, but it cannot do more than advise the officials who have the real responsibility."

In its formal statement the committee reviewed its program at the last special session of the legislature to continue financing the Cook county municipalities and credited the party leaders, in particular Speaker Shanahan of the house, with supporting the committee's conclusions, the soundness of which, it is said, has been confirmed by subsequent events.

"The committee finds that the credit troubles of a year ago and of the present time have a common source in the conflicts, uncertainties, and general unworkableness of the assessing machinery in Cook county," the statement continued. "It is the opinion of the committee that these characteristics are inherent in the extremely decentralized assessment organization established by the revenue act of 1898.

"Because of these conditions, the state is deprived of approximately $20,000,000 of revenue long past due from the collector of this county. The credit of the state is actually threatened. Furthermore, the local governments in this city face a revenue famine, and a serious breakdown is in prospect in the very near future.

"Obviously, governments cannot function without revenue. This revenue comes from taxes and is not available unless the taxes are assessed and collected in accordance with the law. The indications are that the assessment of the taxes for the year 1929 will not be completed within the time prescribed by law and that the assessments for the years 1930 and 1931 will be long delayed.

"To avert public disaster, to keep the schools open and the police, firemen and other necessary officials on the job, to restore and maintain the credit of the community and save it the disgrace and humiliation of bankruptcy, the committee finds that the existing assessing system should be abolished forthwith.

"The committee, after careful study and consideration, believes that there should be created a board of assessment and revision, consisting of three members, one member thereof to be the county assessor.

"The committee suggests that the legislature immediately pass as an emergency measure a bill or bills bringing about such reform.

"Responsibility Up to Officials."

"Meanwhile it must be remembered that the citizens' committee is not chargeable with the responsibility of providing funds to enable the county and city to carry on. While the committee is willing to do what it can to help, the responsibility of providing the necessary funds and of performing their several duties must necessarily be that of the officials whom the people have elected for that purpose."

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago has introduced two alternative bills to revise the assessing machinery, each carrying an emergency clause with a view to revamping the assessing methods before the 1931 quadrennial assessment is started in March.

Board Would Be Appointed.

One bill, sponsored by the joint tax commission, abolishes the town assessors and substitutes one assessor appointed by the president of the county board. It also abolishes the board of review, substitutes a board of revision, one member of it the assessor and the other two members appointed by the president of the county board. The other bill is similar so far as the assessors are concerned, but it retains an elective board of review.

Mr. Strawn stated that his committee did not mention either particular bill, as it is more concerned with the principles of the legislation than the details.

PENS 240 MONTHLY LETTERS TO MOTHER TO HIDE HIS HANGING

Canon City, Colo., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The postman will deliver a letter each month for twenty years to the aged mother of John Walker, convicted bank robber-slayer, even though the wayward son is hanged next Friday night.

Walker, following his conviction of the murder of Coral A. Hickman, Eads, Colo., deputy sheriff, was insistent his mother not be allowed to visit him. He obtained the promise of his sisters that the mother, Mrs. Julia Rhodes, 71, of Joplin, Mo., would be told he was serving a 20 year term in the state prison here.

He has arranged to write a series of letters, and to have them mailed, one each month, from Canon City. He expects Mrs. Rhodes will die before the 20 years run their course, still unaware her son has paid with his life for the slaying of the officer.

Walker, with two companions, Andrew Halliday and Claude Ray, were denied a rehearing today by the state Supreme court.

CLARA PENS NOTE PLEADING MERCY BE SHOWN DAISY

'Her Ways Not My Ways,' Ex-Secretary Retorts.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Clara Bow made a last minute plea today for mercy for her former confidante, Daisy De Boe, as the young woman began a fight against her conviction for the theft of $825 from the actress and obtained a delay of sentence.

In a letter written in her own hand yesterday the actress told District Attorney Buron Fitts, "I find myself unable to avoid letting you know that it is my hope that mercy will be shown to Daisy De Boe."

It was delivered a few minutes before court opened and turned over to Deputy District Attorney David Clark, who prosecuted Miss De Boe.

The plea drew an answer from Miss De Boe, spoken with sharpness. Her face was lined with worry and the collapse of her mother in court a few moments before had unnerved her.

"Nice Enough," She Says.

"Clara's ways are not my ways. I would rather not comment on anything Miss Bow does. It's nice enough for her to write the letter, but it must be remembered that if Clara had thought a little more before she started all this it would not have happened."

Miss De Boe, convicted on one of 35 counts of grand theft last Friday after a jury had deliberated nearly 49 hours, changed her counsel for her fight to escape a possible term of one to ten years. As court opened Nathan O. Freedman, who defended her, announced William Bierne would take his place.

Bierne obtained a delay of sentence until Monday by entering a motion for a new trial and requesting a delay of arguments until he could familiarize himself with the testimony. He said he did not believe Miss De Boe would apply for probation.

His motion was based mainly on allegations that the verdict, reached by compromise, did not represent a fair opinion of all jurors.

Miss Bow's mother today issued a statement saying Clara was recovering from a cold, and was not threatened with pneumonia.

U. S. WANTS ITS SHARE IF HOUSE OF DAVID HAS HIDDEN TREASURE

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Official recognition of rumors concerning the hidden riches of the late "King" Benjamin Purnell, former ruler of the House of David here, was taken by the United States government today.

Fred L. Woodworth, collector of internal revenue for Michigan, announced that he had requested the intelligence unit of the internal revenue department to investigate the stories about the hidden money and to determine whether any money is due the government as income tax.

The reputed treasure of Benjamin is said to amount to between $600,000 and $700,000 in jewels and $1,000 bills. It is supposed to be hidden in secret vaults in the colony's "diamond house," which has been turned into a shrine centering about the mummified remains of the cult leader.

The government's action was seen here as a result of the activities of "Queen" Mary Purnell, Benjamin's widow. She has been attempting to enlist official aid in the search for her husband's hidden wealth with the intention of filing a claim on behalf of herself and about 200 dissenters from the House of David who followed her into exile from the colony two years ago.

BORRELLI PROBES FEES CHARGED BY SURETY COMPANY

An investigation into rates charged by the Grand Central Surety company of New York to furnish bonds for police prisoners will be conducted today by Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court. Pending determination of the inquiry the company is barred on order of the judge from scheduling bonds in the State street station.

Judge Borrelli ordered the quiz yesterday after learning that Joe Gagaer, 54 years old, 624 South State street, paid a $25 fee to a representative of the company to put up $100 bail for him. The usual rate is 5 per cent, according to Attorney Harry Goldman, an agent of the company. Judge Borrelli held the $25 fee was excessive and instructed police officials to appear before him today with files of the Gagaer case.

Not long ago Judge John H. Lyle of the Felony court summoned an official of the surety company before him because the organization scheduled bail for a number of prisoners. The official promised the company would not sign criminal bonds in the future.

GLAD TO TELL ABOUT KONJOLA

Read How the Good News Travels — See What New Medicine Did In This Case.

Good news spreads rapidly; that is why Konjola, the new and different medicine, is a household word in tens of thousands of American homes, many of them right here in Chicago.

MRS. ELLEN HUNT

Konjola, the modern medicine of 32 ingredients, is sold solely on its record of victories. Konjola is not a so-called "cure all." There is no such thing in existence. But Konjola does make good, time after time, when all else tried has failed to relieve ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, as well as rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Ask your druggist, for 40,000 druggists know all about this remarkable medicine.

But right now read what Mrs. Ellen Hunt, 535 W. 62nd street, Chicago, says about Konjola:

"For years my stomach troubled me, with gas and a grinding pain after meals. I could not get a good night's rest, and every morning it took me about two hours to get myself together. A friend in Bolton, Ohio, wrote me about Konjola and I gave it a trial. I have taken only four and one-half bottles and am sleeping fine, have no misery after meals, and I am certainly telling everyone what this splendid medicine did for me."

The files of Konjola fairly overflow with such sincere and voluntary endorsements. Give Konjola a chance to show you why seven million bottles of this amazing medicine were used in two years. Konjola is for the aged or the infant; for all the family.

5 G. O. P. LEADERS JOIN IN ACTIVE FIGHT FOR LYLE

Give United Support to Defeat City Hall.

Engaged in addressing meetings, Judge Lyle did not visit his headquarters during the reception and installation of the quintet of leaders. In speeches at Malta lodge, Diversey boulevard and California avenue, and at the Morgan Park M. E. church, his subject was "The Good Citizen Pays the Freight."

"Who pays the millions of dollars yearly extorted from Chicago business by terrorist racketeers and gunmen?" he asked. "There is not a single Chicagoan, man or woman, who does not have to pay some of that extortionist tribute. Rich or poor, we all must dig into our pockets for our individual shares in spite of the fact that none of us receives therefrom the slightest benefit or return.

"The original payment, of course, goes to the racketeers from the business man who thereby hopes to obtain immunity from bombers, window smashers, sluggers and hoodlums, but it is evident he must make up his loss some way. He will be impelled to cut down his expenses or to raise the price of his product.

"Thus the ultimate consumer is compelled to pay more than he otherwise would be required to pay for goods or commodities he must purchase. Or the necessity for economy will call for the dismissal of an employé or employés, those discharged joining the army out of work."

Albert Attacks City Hall.

Speaking at an afternoon meeting at 4700 North Kedzie avenue, and at an evening meeting at 6923 South Halsted streeet, Ald. Albert attacked the employment of "experts" under the Thompson administration.

"This expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 a year," he said, "is absolutely uncalled for. It may be only a coincidence that the greatest need for 'expert' services always arrives when there is an election. But I doubt it."

It was reported about the city hall that Thompson's absence was due to another attack of rheumatism and that he has secluded himself in a downtown hotel.

Lyle headquarters announced the Barrett organization in the Twenty-third ward had indorsed the judge. The resolutions sent in were signed by Fred Belsan, ward leader; William Hall, Martin Guon, Joseph B. Brom, Andrew Beierwaldis, and Harry Gerger.

Alex Kieferstein, who had filed, he said, at the request of the Deneen ward organization, withdrew yesterday as a candidate for alderman from the Fourth ward. In a statement he issued he said he wanted to devote his entire time to the Lyle campaign because he felt that the thing of greatest importansce to his ward, as well as to the city as a whole, was that "a mayor of the right type be chosen."

200 CANDIDATES IN ALDERMANIC RACE ARE CHALLENGED

The candidacies of nearly 200 entrants in the aldermanic campaign were challenged yesterday when protests against nominating petitions were filed with the board of election commissioners. The protests were based largely on alleged irregularities in the petitions, such as duplication of names, insufficient signers, nonregistered and nonresident indorsers and improper forms.

Yesterday was the last day for challenging the petitions and the election commissioners were swamped by a last minute rush of sitting aldermen and their objections to their rivals. The commission announced it would begin hearing the protests tomorrow and would continue until all had been heard. It is expected that a great number of the petitions will be thrown out.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th] filed protests against 10 of the 13 candidates who entered the race against him, among them three other Clarks. The alderman said he would show that the three Clark petitions had been circulated along with the petitions of three other candidates and bore duplicate signatures, which would make them invalid.

A score of candidates already have withdrawn from the race and many others are expected to quit by Feb. 4, the last day for withdrawing. Four hundred and thirty started the race.

LAWYERS FACE WRITS TO FORCE CANAL EVIDENCE

30 Absent at Hearing on Disbarment.

The failure of some thirty lawyers employed by the sanitary district during the whoopee days to appear voluntarily in court and tell of their services with the district may result in writs being issued to compel them to testify. This was indicated yesterday when the hearing came to an abrupt halt because no more of the fifty-five defendants were ready to testify at the hearing on the disciplinary action brought against them by the Chicago Bar association.

Fifteen of the defendants have testified since the hearing started two weeks ago. The information of the bar association, filed with the Illinois Supreme court, alleges that the lawyers accepted money without rendering commensurate service to the district. The charges are being heard by Circuit Judge Taylor sitting as commissioner for the Supreme court.

No More Witnesses Present.

When the examination of the fifteenth witness was concluded at 2:30 p. m. yesterday Attorney Thomas J. Symmes, who represents twenty-six of the respondents, told Judge Taylor that no more of the witnesses were in the courtroom. The judge suggested that a twenty minute recess be taken while Symmes summon a few of his clients to the courtroom.

Symmes replied that it would be useless because he had phoned some of his clients at noon and all said they would be unable to appear. Following the hearing representatives of the Bar association said that they believed the lawyers were evading the hearing, and that if necessary the association would subpoena them to force their appearance.

One of the witnesses yesterday was Harry Mantell, who said that he was hired by Timothy J. Crowe, then president of the district, and was on the pay roll from November, 1927, to December, 1928, receiving $5,908. He said he joined the district's legal department a few months after being admitted to the bar.

Says He Did No Work.

"What did you do," he was asked by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the association.

"I merely reported there. Two or three times a week during the first four months and after that about once a week," Mantell said.

"Did you do any actual work for the district?" the witness was asked.

"No, I didn't," he replied.

"Do you think the compensation paid you was fair and reasonable?"

"Yes, I do," Mantell declared. "Reporting at the office consumed a good deal of my time."

Medard A. Kunz said that he was a member of the district's legal department for eighteen months for which he was paid $8,000. He said that he had been given a written order to attend all board meetings but that after Trustee Michael Rosenberg, his sponsor, died he didn't appear at the meetings. That was all the work he had done, he said.

Samuel Groff Is Witness.

The third witness was Samuel J. Groff, who was a member of the legal department for three months. He said that he had joined the legal staff because of his personal friendship for Trustee Rosenberg and that he had had no political connections whatever.

Later he revealed, under questioning, that he is a member of the Twenty-fourth Ward Democratic club and that he is a brother-in-law of Emanuel Abrahams, west side politician. He said that he didn't believe he had spoken to Abrahams about getting the job. He was paid $416 a month by the district.

Nature is so inconsiderate!

POOR Alice! As old-fashioned as her mother. In mother's day there was no help for the girl who suffered every month. But this is 1931!

A million modern women have ended their monthly martyrdom to pain. They make engagements — and keep them — without a thought to the time of month.

And so can you.

If you want your periods to be painless, take Midol—a medicine made for the purpose. Take it in time, and the pain won't even start. If the pains have started they will subside in from five to seven minutes. No matter how bad a time you've always experienced, Midol never fails.

How can anything so harmless—for Midol is not a narcotic—be so effective, and act so quickly?

Only the specialists who found this wonderful antidote for pain can answer that. But any woman who has tried it can tell you that Midol will remove your last excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains, headaches, etc.

84th Year

Since 1847, the fortunes of Chicago and its people have been closely linked with those of Chicago Title and Trust Company.

The city has been built and rebuilt upon the Abstracts of Title and the Guarantee Policies of this Company.

In its Trust business, it has pioneered in the development of new safeguards for the protection of estates.

Entering the 84th year of its growth in and with Chicago, the Company takes this occasion to reaffirm the enduring principles of its organization:

No Demand Liabilities:

We accept no deposits; we do no commercial banking.

No Trading in Securities:

We sell no securities to the public. Purchases for our trust accounts are made impartially in the open market.

$2,000,000 Special Reserve Fund:

This sum has been set aside to safeguard interest-bearing investments made by us for our trust beneficiaries. Before they can lose anything through default of principal or interest, we must lose Two Million Dollars.

RADICALISM AND RELIEF.

Liberal minded criticism of the Fish committee's report on communist activities in the United States begins, of course, with the charge that the committee was biased and found what it was looking for. The same may as fairly be said of its critics. The conclusions of the committee had at least enough facts to support them as to justify serious attention to Red activity and some serious consideration of practical means to protect the American community from them. The proposals of the committee deserve discussion and probably most if not all that require action by congress or the executive, adoption.

On the other hand, we are not disposed by the report to despair of the republic, and we agree heartily with the views of one member of the committee, Representative Nelson of Maine, who does not think it the best way of dealing with communism to persecute it and drive it underground. He touches the gist of the problem when he says that "in proportion as we work out economic justice here in America and so order our system that labor shall share in the economic life of the nation as fully and fairly as it now shares in its social and political life will radicalism fall of its own inanition and the threat of communism cease to disturb us."

An empty stomach is the great revolutionary, and mere counter propaganda will not fill it. In America we had our political and social revolution. It is the difficult problem suggested by Representative Nelson, the establishment of economic conditions favorable to the security and reasonable prosperity of the people, that is still in process of solution. Men and women whose conditions of living are insecure and seriously unsatisfactory cannot be argued into complacency nor driven into it by force. We do not underestimate the difficulties of the problem, but we are confident they are surmountable without recourse to socialistic experiments, but by methods founded upon the American faith in progress through the free individual. At the present moment the individualist order is passing through a severe test, because there is widespread deprivation and even acute suffering on a considerable scale. This challenges our beliefs and our conditions and inclines many to look for panaceas or alternative systems offered by theorists and agitators as sure cures for whatever ails us. There is already a disposition in the highest quarters to desert American principles of public action and there will be a growth of radical sentiment and a harvest of radical proposals.

The answer is not argument or heedless repression, but a strong effort to improve conditions, not only by well considered measures of public action but by generous contribution of private means. Those who have means must give promptly and liberally, not merely from humanitarian motives but as a constructive contribution to their own security and to the order in which they have reason to believe. It is natural that the demand for huge government expenditure, with its promise of increased taxes, should check this process of private initiative and tempt to the shirking of personal responsibility. It should not be permitted to do so, for it represents a short-sighted view of our common problem. The Red Cross is now raising a fund of $10,000,000, of which the local quota is $940,000. The money is needed at once and should be understood as an investment in Americanism. In the war years the American people gave lavishly under the impulse of patriotism. The present situation calls for the same and even a greater expression of the American spirit.

THE UNITED STATES AND LIBERIA.

The council of the league of nations has provided for a Liberian committee representing Germany, Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Venezuela, Poland, Liberia itself, and the United States. The committee is to proceed to the African republic, reorganize the state administration, put its finances in order, and stop slave trading with the adjoining colonies of European nations. It is estimated that from ten to twenty million dollars will be needed to restore a sound and responsible government and prevent the sale of slaves. The United States is invited to contribute to the necessary loan.

Liberia, as one of the American attempts to escape from the consequences of slavery in the United States, has been regarded as a ward of this country. It is now remote from its purpose and from the land where the idea was born. Nevertheless, a touch of responsibility has been acknowledged in the past and could be again, but not with European associations in it.

Some of Liberia's troubles have grown out of its relations with France and Great Britain. It has lost territory to their encroachments. In 1908 the United States intervened in an effort to straighten out its affairs and to protect it from invasion and interference. Internally it is exposed to all the ills natural to a republican experiment in a people not competent for it. Its large resources are not developed and it has fallen into the scandal of slave trading, in which its neighbors have responsibility.

The United States cannot afford to join a work undertaken by a league of nations committee containing some highly interested members. A regard for consequences would keep this government out of that enterprise. If the United States cannot undertake it alone the league committee should be on its own responsibility in the matter, and that responsibility includes the money end of it.

THE ROAD TO MARKET.

Under the rivers and harbors act of 1930 the secretary of war is authorized to accept from New York state its barge canals connecting the great lakes with tidewater in the Hudson river. Opposition to the bill came largely from the representatives of the central and northwestern states, who, for reasons difficult to fathom, wanted the St. Lawrence waterway as their outlet to the sea and would have nothing to do with any alternate route.

Oddly enough, this opposition from the wild jackass states has been reinforced from within New York state itself. The legislature has shown a considerable reluctance to transferring the canals to the federal government, although in their present state the canals cost the taxpayers of New York at least $3,000,000 a year and may be expected to continue to operate at a loss until a considerable sum is spent in reconstruction.

The canals are 12 feet deep, which is somewhat too shallow. That obstacle to extensive use of the waterway is less serious, however, than the clearance beneath the bridges, which is only 15½ feet. Because the bridges are low it is impossible to construct a vessel which will navigate the canals profitably with many kinds of cargo, of which lumber and paper will serve as examples. A bloc in the New York legislature is as reluctant to spend the money required for reconstruction as it is to turn the problem over to the federal government. Until this dilemma is resolved a waterway of vast potential value to east and west alike must remain of only limited consequence in the nation's economy.

The corn and wheat belts have little to export now to either Europe or eastern Canada. We used to send wheat and other cereals to Europe and steel and other manufactured products to Canada. The farm board, by creating an artificially high price for wheat in our markets, has forced western Europe to buy elsewhere, in Canada, Russia, Australia, and the Argentine. Likewise, the recent tariff retaliation in Canada has tended to close that market to our manufactures. The St. Lawrence seaway, to which the United States is expected to contribute at least half the cost, would provide a magnificent gateway from the Canadian wheat fields to the consuming markets of Europe, but can be of no value to our farmers as long as our wheat is held above world prices.

On the contrary, the Hudson river route would prove of immense value even if the farm board continues to hold American wheat at 20 cents above the world market and even if there is no modification of Canadian tariff policies. In all of Canada there are scarcely 10,000,000 consumers, fewer by 3,000,000 than there are in New York state alone. A great consuming market for the products of our farms lies along our eastern seaboard. New York, for example, grows only 5 per cent of the wheat it consumes; the rest comes from the west, and much of it would come by canal if the canal were properly developed.

These are economic realities which should have impressed the western congressmen and the New York legislators with equal force. The western congressmen showed no sense of the interest of their constituents, the producers, and the New York legislators are showing no sense of the interest of their constituents, the consumers. Both would benefit from the federalization of the New York waterways.

REGISTRATION DAY.

There are citizens who permit their disgust with the political leadership and conditions of the city to discourage them from going to the polls at all. Happily they are few in number. Indifference and lack of a sense of citizen duty, laziness, ignorance, and shortsightedness keep a much larger number away. The state of our local government is serious enough to reduce this number substantially for the coming primaries and election of mayor and aldermen. For all responsible citizens the duty presented today is clear. They should be certain that their names are on the poll list in their respective precincts, and, if they are not, that they are put there today. The only safe way is to register before going to work. This is the only registration day before the primary. The books are opened at 8 a. m. and closed at 9 p. m.

Editorial of the Day

FROM LIGHT YEAR TO PARSEC.

[New York World.]

As well as we can make out, the astronomers merely go from bad to worse, so that for all the regard they have for human feelings they might just as well be vivisectionists. Time was, it will be recalled, when they spoke of light years as glibly as the rest of us might speak of fortnights. Now a light year is the distance that light travels if it goes for a whole year without hitting anything, which often it apparently does; and if you start with the 186,000 miles that light travels in one second and multiply by the sixty seconds that are in one minute and then by the sixty minutes that are in one hour and then by the twenty-four hours that are in one day and then by the 365 days that are in one year you find out that a light year is 5,865,696,000,000 miles. This not only makes you dizzy, but melancholy as well, for you cannot help reflecting that if the pole star is forty-five light years from the earth, the removal of a magistrate in New York cannot make much difference in the universal scheme of things.

But now comes an astronomer, Dr. Piet Van De Kamp of the McCormick observatory at the University of Virginia, and begins to talk about parsecs. A parsec, we discover from Funk & Wagnalls, is a "unit of length used in expressing the distance of the stars. One parsec is almost exactly 206,265 times the mean distance of the earth to the sun." The mean distance of the earth to the sun, according to the World almanac, is 92,800,000 miles; 92,800,000 times 206,265 is 19,141,392,000,000 miles, or more than three times as far as a light year. And if the Milky Way is at least 7,000 parsecs off, as Dr. De Kamp says it is, what does it really amount to if there is a little profiteering in milk?

For our part, we become less and less enamored of astronomers. Physicists are the lads we like dealing, as they do, with electrons; for beside an electron a man is as gigantic as a parsec is beside a parasang.

RHEUMATISM.

SOME one has divided heart diseases into two great groups. One group resulting from the wear and tear of life, from faulty habits, and allied causes is on the increase. The other group, resulting from childhood infections, rheumatism, sore throats, and various infections of childhood, is on the decrease. Somehow, what is being done is accomplishing good results as far as the second group is concerned.

And this means that we are encouraged to dig all the deeper and try all the harder. It means that parents of young children have an increased interest in everything that is learned about those diseases of children which cause heart disease. At the head of the list comes juvenile rheumatism. The British regard rheumatism of children as a public health problem and worthy of intensive study. One of their conclusions is that juvenile rheumatism is not contagious.

It is due to a streptococcus, in all probability, but environmental conditions are more important in its causation than is the coccus. Effort to prevent juvenile rheumatism should be directed against bad environment and not against catching it from those who have it.

Juvenile rheumatism is a disease of the upper stratum of the poor. So true is this that this level of society has been called the rheumatic stratum. The children of the rich and of the very poor are not often attacked by rheumatism and they are quite apt to escape rheumatic heart disease. If children from this rheumatic stratum are taken from their own homes and put in boarding schools, or even in asylums, they generally escape juvenile rheumatism. There is something in the diet or clothing of the child, the ventilation or heating of the home on this rheumatic level that makes for juvenile rheumatism.

Congestion in sleeping rooms and in beds is a factor that makes for it. Juvenile rheumatism is highly prevalent in industrial centers. It is particularly in evidence in manufacturing towns. On the other hand, children from the rural districts are quite apt to escape it. Moist, cold weather causes it to become prevalent. On the other hand, there is not much of it when the air is dry, the wind is blowing toward the sea, the sun is shining, and the weather is balmy.

FROST BITE IN FEET.

Mrs. C. J. writes: Last year was my first year with frozen feet and this year I am cured. You might say this is unusual. I found a remedy that was very simple and cost very little. I bought a 15 cent bottle of oil of cedar and used about one-quarter of it and now there isn't any sign of frozen feet.

MAY BE DUE TO CROUP.

Mrs. K. D. K. writes: Please tell me what you think causes my little girl of 7 to wheeze and cough so. Sometimes when she is eating, or shortly afterwards, she coughs like she has a deep cold and has growls in her chest. Often she coughs up a foamy substance and complains of her stomach hurting and draws up into a knot. Her stomach seems to sink in from her striving to get her breath. Sometimes the trouble will last two or three hours and then the difficulty in breathing will last for a few days.

REPLY.

My guess is that she is croupy. If so, your physician can straighten her out with viosterol, cod liver oil, and other tonics and open air sunlight.

NOISE NUISANCE.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Every night the men selling newspapers on our corner keep calling their papers in a loud, continuous and disturbing tone of voice, until one or two in the morning. Do not object to their calling until ten or eleven or selling their papers all night, but any loud yelling after eleven o'clock certainly is sleep breaking, nerve wrecking and a nuisance. Please advise what can be done? C. R. S.

Section 2649 of the city code provides "no person shall make upon a public street or in such proximity to a public street as to be distinctly and loudly audible upon such public street any noise for the purpose of advertising—provided that the said restrictions shall not apply to any public alley in the city between the hours of 7:1 a. m. and 6 p. m."

ALLEY OBSTRUCTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—A bungalow owner across the alley from me is dumping ashes into the alley and they are freezing into a big heap, making it very difficult for me to drive in and out of the garage. Please bring this to the attention of the proper authorities. S. J. P.

Report is made that notice has been served on offenders to stop further dumping and to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output. Alley has been given a thorough cleaning and is now in good condition. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

NO PREFERRED CLAIM.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On Dec. 13, 1930, a bank draft was issued to me by my home town bank on a federal reserve bank. The draft reached the clearing house the same day our bank was closed. My draft was not honored and was returned to me. Please advise if I have a preferred claim or must I take my chances with the rest of the depositors? H. L. J.

You would have no preference.

FOR CHILDREN'S PROTECTION.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man and wife are divorced and wife has custody of 3 children and she carries weekly paid insurance on herself and makes it payable to the children. 1. If she dies before children are of age, who collects it? 2. Can a girl at the age of 18 collect money left to her if she is made beneficiary? 3. Or should it be made payable to a sister to care for the children? M. J.

1. It would be paid to a guardian for the children.
2. Yes.
3. Do as you think wise.

IT OUGHT TO GO BIG!

There is only one of our basic industries left that doesn't give an annual show. And what a swell show the bootleg likker exhibition would be. All kinds of hootch, white mule, and needled beer in big bottles, glasses and tanks, and real alky coolers and moonshine stills and speakeasies in full operation. Al Capone could lecture every hour and the government's dry sleuths could have a shooting gallery on one side and show their stuff. The racketeers of all kinds would have booths and the bandits and gunmen would give afternoon and evening performances. There could be a parade every day at noon of beautiful cages containing wets with their tongues hanging out hoarsely screaming for a drink, drys singing the 18th amendment to the tune of "Little Drops of Water, Little Grains of Sand," and statesmen who drink wet and vote dry showing how they get that way. Yes, indeed, a Hootch and Allied Industries Exhibition ought to go great.

WISDOM.

I would not take the toll of all your summers,
This brief, sweet spring is all I dare to ask;
I could not see your restless eyes go roaming,
While you make gay behind a painted mask.

So you may go . . . I have another lover,
I see myself when I look in his eyes,
And yours had only depths of purple oceans,
And rhyming winds and star-blown black of skies.

Run quickly then, hands deep in empty pockets,
I shall choose wealth . . . dreams are an empty fear.
The other lad has coins for golden spending,
Love never lasts . . . you taught me that, my dear!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

THE ART SECTION of THE TRIB Sunday quoted Architect Tom Tallmadge thus on the new painting of John Norton's in the Board of Trade: "The painting is 35 feet in height, and in my opinion is the finest piece of work that has been done in Chicago." The Mona Lisa in the Louvre is only three feet high.

WELL BOYS! MANY HAPPY RETURNS!

This is the birthday of Mr. William Hohenzollern, formerly of Berlin, now known simply as the wood chopper of Doorn. In honor of the occasion he will chop down seventy-two candles.

And it's Gen. Milton Foreman's birthday. You might send him a telegram tonight and ask him to say his "Thank you very much" out of the front window; you'll hear it, no matter in what part of the city you live. What, you don't believe it? Pooh, for you! When the general was commanding his battery in the front lines in the Argonne the citizens of Paris begged him to kindly lower his voice when he commanded, "Battery, fire!" as it woke everybody up and made them think Big Bertha was at it again.

"WE TRY to reform ourselves on the outside," says Cal Coolidge, "when the only effective remedy is to reform ourselves on the inside." Or, as Bill Shakespeare said it some time back, "Therein the patient must minister to himself. Throw physic to the dogs; I'll none of it." We think, Cal, that Bill's way of putting it was the best, but, anyhow, Bill probably only got a sixpence and a mug of ale for his stuff while you got, let's see: 20 words at 2 bucks per, 40 dollars; so, anyhow, Cal, you've got it all over old Bill.

O TEMPORA! O MORES!

Oh the ignominy, oh the shame of it. What? what's you? Wait, we're coming to it gradually. We were ransacking the ad columns hunting for a small farm for sale not too far from the great seething maelstrom of the city. What did we find? A brewery advertised for sale in a western suburb. Ah, a brewery where the cool, foaming lager is made. Lager of a gorgeous golden brown in the tall, thin glasses and with a glorious crown of white foam on its head. We wanted to buy that brewery. Those close to the administration say it's developing a damp tendency. There is hope! We could brew our own lager and drink it out of water pitchers. But then the ad describing the brewery went on to say, "Suitable for raising mushrooms!" Think of it; a delectable spot in which glorious beer can be made given over to raising pale, clammy mushrooms!

"Imperious Cæsar, dead and turned to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away."

A brewery turned into a mushroom hatchery. Oh the ignominy, oh the pity of it! Tears, tears, idle tears.

HELP! HELP! Stop it, Ethel! Fevvin's sake, halt! Stop! Cease! Desist! Have a heart, Miss Barrymore. We can't stand it any longer! Please, please, Miss Barrymore, stop appearing in pictures in the daily press shaking an admonishing finger at your small daughter. Oh, Ethel, we've looked at that same picture so many times in so many papers that if we see it again we're going to scream! Do something else when you are pictured with your child, Ethel, besides shaking an admonishing finger at her, or we shall go mad! Yes, mad; stark, staring, raving mad!

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 27, 1915.

LONDON.—The admiralty office admits that two vessels of Vice Admiral Beatty's squadron were damaged in the battle with the German raiders in the North sea. One of them was the giant battle cruiser Lion, Sir David's flagship, which led in the battle and the shells of which sank the German armored cruiser Bluecher. It was struck by a German shell below the water line forward. The other was the torpedo boat destroyer Meteor, one of the largest and fastest vessels of its class afloat. The statement says that one officer and thirteen men were killed and three officers and twenty-six men wounded on three of the ships—the Lion, the Tiger, and the Meteor. The admiralty statement thus gives denial to the German reports that one British cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers were sunk.

LONDON.—Reports by way of Copenhagen from Russia say thirty persons were killed and fifty injured in a bombardment of Kielce, Russian Poland, recently by Austrian aircraft. The Austro-Hungarian forces have set up occupation.

CHICAGO.—Robert J. Thompson of Chicago, United States consul at Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany, one of the best known men in the consular service, reached Chicago with the acceptance of his resignation from the service in his pocket. Friction with Secretary of State Bryan over the conduct and duties of American consuls in German territory led to the final break officially announced during the day.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY, 27, 1901.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Fire in Willard's hotel at 14th street and Pennsylvania avenue, N. W., caused a panic early this morning and guests in night robes fled down the fire escapes or were carried down ladders. Women and men climbed out upon window ledges and it was with the greatest difficulty that several were dissuaded from leaping from the high windows to certain death on the pavement below. It is believed that all escaped in safety.

TOPEKA, Kas.—Mrs. Carrie Nation was frustrated in her saloon raids here. The attendants at two places picked her up bodily and carried her into the street. At another joint Keeper Myers' wife assaulted Mrs. Nation with a broomstick and chased her out. A mob of fully 5,000 gathered to hoot Mrs. Nation and threatened to do her real injury.

LONDON.—The preparations for Queen Victoria's funeral are gradually assuming definite form. It promises to be the most tremendous pageant of the generation. The influx of members of royal families and representatives of foreign countries has been so wholly unprecedented that the court officials are finding it difficult to procure suitable accommodations, the royal palaces being totally inadequate.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON.—Gens. Miles and Crook and Messrs. Stickney and Allen, commissioners recently appointed by the President to inquire into the circumstances attending the removal of the Ponca Indians from their reservations in the Dakotas and Nebraska, reported that the removal was most unfortunate, unjust and injudicious, and that it resulted in loss of life and property.

CHICAGO.—Levi Z. Leiter has retired from the great dry goods firm of Field, Leiter & Co., and the business will henceforth be conducted under the firm name of Marshall Field & Co. The members of the new firm are Marshall Field, Lorenzo G. Woodhouse, Henry J. Willing, H. N. Higinbotham, Henry N. Field, and Joseph N. Field. Mr. Leiter will devote his attention to his mining and real estate interests. The cause of withdrawal is a mere matter of conjecture. The wholesale business of the firm last year reached $20,000,000.

LONDON. — Gen. Skobeleff telegraphs from Geok Tepe announcing that the Russians on the 24th captured Geok Tepe and Dengal Tepe after nine hours desperate fighting and that the Tekke-Turcomans were in full retreat. Their loss was enormous.

REFLECTIONS ON A FARO GAME.

Forest Park, Ill., Jan. 24.—"I didn't do anything wrong," says Myrtle.

As Myrtle says, Friend Burgess had intimate connections with a huge gambling syndicate and represented himself as being in possession of a secret code which made him an invariable winner. Most people would call such an individual a crooked gambler, one of the lowest forms of animal life. Yet to go with Friend Burgess to Springfield and with the help of the secret code to fleece an [to her] entirely unknown stranger does not seem, to Myrtle's naïve way of putting it, as anything wrong. It only turns out a terrible wrong now that the fleecee turns out to have been one of the fleecers.

However, while laughing at the predicament of Myrtle and Eddie, the dear fellow citizens had better laugh loudest and longest at their own sweet selves, for they generally play sucker at the polls quite as effectively as Eddie did at Springfield. For thus are explained our Eddies and the sponsors for our Myrtles. PAUL H. BRAUER.

BY-PRODUCT OF THE FARM BOARD.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—I am a telegrapher. We are having a hard time combating machines. First I was driven out of commercial work by them. Later from newspaper work. Now we are being threatened very seriously in the brokerage field. There never was any doubt that machines are better in some lines of telegraph work than man workers, but the combination of speed, accuracy, and versatility in the brokerage field places the machines back of us in desirability.

However, with all this hard battle to fight we are compelled to buck the government. Just when business is bad, what does the government do but step in and mess up the grain markets, practically killing all speculation, throwing thousands out of work. I wish to enter a protest that the government should either get into business wholesale and make it a regular Russia or keep out altogether. This pussyfooting around like some old lady doing more damage than good is getting monotonous.

F. H. DIEHL.

PERSONAL.

Hinsdale, Ill., Jan. 14.—Allow me to point out that Dr. J. M. Nicholson's claim for consideration on the recent hospital headache test is ill founded, for, although his purchase of property in Lake Geneva gave him a headache and a pain in the neck, as he so pithily points out, his is not a case of migraine but one of migration.

My gracious! MARGE H. HATCH.

LICENSES AT A BARGAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—While seated in my parked car a young hoodlum slipped up alongside of me and offered a 1931 city vehicle tag for $3. Apparently the racket was profitable last year, when several thousand tags were stolen from their owners. J. F. S.

THE ART OF THE CARTOONIST.

Park Ridge, Ill., Jan. 19.—Your correspondent, C. C. Miller, who sees in Mr. Carey Orr's cartoons only the pictorial presentation of wets and drys as human figures, suffers the loss of the whole point in this outstanding cartoonist's sense of artistic values. His art does not concern itself with the outward appearance of things, but with their inward significance. Mr. Orr's pictures are merely the projection of an impression. His drawings of the dry fanatic suggest a sickly, disordered, and unkempt state of mind, always the state of mind of the fanatic, and have no relation whatever to particular individuals. The correspondent's letter indicates him to be a dry. He has a right to be a dry. It is logically to be concluded that any man who can look about himself today and behold the evil, the corrosion, and the destructive corruption which flow from prohibition, and remain a dry, could unerringly be expected to house just the type of mind which would miss the basic values in Mr. Orr's work. Mr. Orr, artist-philosopher, is confronted each day with the task of transferring his keen perceptive genius from his mind to ours, the printed page being his only medium. I fear our good friend doesn't give him much to shoot at. A. WEY.

ANNIE.

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 20.—I am hastening to cross a bridge before we get there, but I am getting all worried about Little Annie and Daddy Warbucks and I want to say that if you are going to drag the business depression into this strip now I am going to quit the paper until you get it over with. I just went out the whole family getting Little Annie through her sickness and unavoidable detention on the island, and it just seems to me that we cannot stand any more grief.

I am a salesman and the family have just gone to Florida to stay for three months because I know this business depression has made us all so gloomy they couldn't stand it around the house any longer. As a matter of fact, business here is really good, but I am going to go to Florida too if I have to drag Little Annie out of a business slump.

JOHN W. YOUNG.

AND ENGLISH.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—The recent broadcast of Mussolini which caused such unjust criticism is just another reason why we Americans are scoffed by Europeans. How many of our students master French, Italian or other foreign languages in a year or less, with perfect accent and grammar construction?

M. O'B.

THE DENEEN LABEL.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Ald. Albert shows questionable tact in trying to sully John Lyle's record. He should look to the sanitary condition of his own doorstep for anything bearing the Deneen label is open to suspicion in this city, county, and state. GEORGE HOWARD.

WOMEN ASK THE QUESTIONS AT AUTO SHOW

And Salesmen Are Busy as They Buy.

Down at the Automobile show in the Coliseum, the salesmen are doing more than just standing around admiring their wares. They are getting a good conditionaire workout, particularly by the women visitors. Yesterday afternoon's crowd couldn't have been more than one-fourth women. But what women were there were active, and seemed to bear out the statement of the show's publicity man that 90 per cent of all cars are bought by women.

The methods of the women varied. One large woman was observed marching ahead of her gentleman friend, or husband, by several yards. Occasionally she darted back, if he lingered to admire a car she was not interested in, and pulled him forward. Spotting the car of her choice, she buttonholed a salesman and submitted him to endless questioning. As he was nearing exhaustion, she leaned forward, tapped him on the arm, and asked meaningfully:

"But what about the oil filler?"

He was equal to the emergency. He told her what he thought of oil fillers.

She Thinks "We'll Take It."

"Well, Henry, write down his name. I think we'll take it," she said to her escort.

One smartly dressed young woman was seen hanging over the railing which surrounded one of the chassis on exhibit, all of which draw crowds as no finished car does.

"Isn't she a slick motor?" she inquired of some one. "I've got one, but boy, I'm so sold on my car it isn't even funny."

A white haired woman, not at all the kind to be called "old lady" or "old woman," dressed in a Russian sheepskin coat and accompanied by a chauffeur who lacked enthusiasm for anything, examined a car which cost $6,000 and some odd and resembled a Pullman car, and said thoughtfully:

"This is just about what I want, I don't want a large car. I'm all alone in the world and I don't need another large one."

The Salesman Is Puzzled.

The salesman was sympathetic, but puzzled.

"Why, of course, you don't need a large one." Then he looked at the one he was proffering her. "This is a cozy car," he said, and blushed.

Yes, their methods differed. In one end of the showroom stands a huge maroon car trimmed with a bright red line. As a fluffy haired girl approached on the arm of a man she said in elaborate baby talk which is difficult to reproduce that she would be a-fraid to drive that car. The man was touched, overwhelmed. He patted her arm, the while he regarded the car with equal tenderness.

"I loved that other one," she said.

"That pea-green model?" he replied doubtfully.

She said yes, that it wasn't quite so expensive. She did not add that green was becoming to her and maroon wasn't.

Look at Foreign Cars.

Some of the women were content to ask no questions, satisfying themselves by merely climbing in one car after another.

When two reporters thought of sitting inside a $16,500 imported car, however, the foreign eyebrows of the correct young salesman were raised.

"Note the futuristic appointments in the interior, even to the door handle," he said in a perfectly modulated voice. "Note the indirect lighting, and the black wood which resembles ebony. I regret that we aren't showing in Chicago the car we had made in New York, with the cocktail tray and glasses fitted in."

NOTES OF THE AUTO SHOW

W. P. Chrysler, president and chairman of the Chrysler corporation, told a meeting of De Soto dealers yesterday that the upturn in business predicted with more or less accuracy for the last eighteen months is no longer a subject for predictions, that business today is showing a decided improvement. "Within six weeks," he said, "sufficient momentum will have been gathered to profit those who now are taking advantage of every opportunity."

R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors, issued a similar statement after receiving reports of sales and attendance at the General Motors show in the Stevens hotel. He said that business scraped the bottom sixty days ago, that 1931 will be a year with awards for workers, and that 1932 will see another boom in the automobile industry.

G. M. Williams, president of Marmon, yesterday announced the appointment of P. H. Noland as general manager. Mr. Noland, who has been assistant general manager since June of last year, has also been elected to the company's directorate.

The appointment of A. A. Engstrom as general sales manager of Pierce-Arrow has just been announced by George E. Willis, vice president in charge of sales. D. J. Willoughby, whom Mr. Engstrom succeeds, has been named vice president and general sales manager of the Pierce-Arrow Sales corporation, factory distributing and retail branch in New York.

William J. McAneeny, president of Hudson, and Chester G. Abbott, merchandising director, were received in Chicago last night by W. E. Butler, Chicago distributor. The officials came from Detroit to attend a meeting tomorrow of dealers from the north central and middle western territories.

Paul Hoffman, vice president of Studebaker, at a company banquet last night said that "free wheeling," even for any who might not agree as to the merits of the mechanical innovation, must be credited with stirring the entire automobile industry to new merchandising efforts. He predicted an even wider adoption of the new transmission during 1931.

Lawrence P. Fisher, president of Cadillac, yesterday said that the synchro-mesh transmission, widely used by General Motors string this year, has been proved for a million and a half miles in test drives before presented to the public.

Bird-Sykes company, Chicago distributors at 2215 South Michigan avenue, will entertain the Graham-Paige dealer organization today at an annual luncheon meeting. The main speakers will be John B. Graham, president of Graham-Paige; Ray A. Graham, secretary and treasurer, and F. R. Valpey, sales manager.

ITALY CAPTURES DESERT COLONY; 24 DIE IN BATTLE

Troops Seize Huge Oases in North Africa.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 26.—With the occupation Saturday of the oases of Kufra, in the most southern section of the Libyan desert, Italy has completed a long period of warfare against rebel tribesmen in an effort to take effective possession of her African colony. The success of the Italian colonial troops was announced officially tonight.

The announcement said the Italian expeditionary corps had captured Et Tag, the most important of the group of oases in the Kufra territory, after severe fighting with the Senussi tribesmen. The casualties were given as two Italian officers and two native soldiers killed and sixteen native soldiers wounded, and twenty rebel tribesmen killed and thirteen taken prisoner. Hundreds of rifles and a quantity of ammunition were seized.

Duke of Apulia Bombs Rebels.

The operations were featured by heroic work by the duke of Apulia, eldest son of the duke of Aosta, Italy's popular war hero. The young "flying duke" was mentioned in dispatches as having harrassed the fleeing rebels during a 120 mile chase across the desert. He was in command of a squadron of planes, which bombed the rebels from the air.

The operations leading to Saturday's success involved the crossing by the Italian forces of 450 miles of open desert and required about a year. The actual military operations were preceded by five reconnoitering expeditions, which gave Marshal Pietro Badoglio, governor of Libya, exact information of the means needed to carry on the risky undertaking successfully.

With this information in hand, one column of troops, consisting of two Saharan units and one squadron of armored cars under command of Col. Maletti, started from the oasis, Giale, last Dec. 31. This column, forming the main body of operation, reached the outskirts of the oases of Kufra on Jan. 24 after joining a second column, composed of one Saharan unit, from Tripolitania.

Defeated in Desert Battle.

The first column en route to Kufra engaged the Senussi tribesmen in a severe battle on Jan. 19. The rebels were routed, leaving 100 dead and many wounded. They abandoned arms, ammunition, cattle and provisions. It was during the fight of the defeated Senussi forces that the Duke of Apulia's flying squadron did its work. While the planes kept the rebels disorganized, the Italian column followed on camels and when it reached Kufra the rebels were unable to withstand the onslaught.

The conquest of the Kufra oases, besides their incalculable commercial value, is hailed here as a master stroke against the rule of the Senussi brotherhood, which has been an irreconcilable element and a most effective force holding back for years the Italian advance toward the extreme limits of the Libyan colony. The remnants of this heretofore powerful fraternity are now fleeing in disorder to British and French territory.

ONE moment when WILLIAM REED kept COOL!

"IN DECEMBER, 1927, the steamer Juvigny sank in Delaware Bay. The government had the Philadelphia Derrick & Salvage Corporation remove the wreck, which was a serious menace to navigation. That meant a grisly job, believe me. First, we had to dynamite it under water and then pick it up piecemeal.

"After each explosion I plunged. Frequently the waves were rough and I had to fight tides so strong I could hardly hold my feet.

"Having gone down to the sunken vessel after one of the largest explosions I suddenly realized my life line and air hose were entangled in the wreckage, where they had been carried by the ebbing tide. I had no way to signal my mates on the topside, but finally cleared my air hose and finding it impossible to free my life line I drew my knife to cut it.

"This was the only thing left for me to do, and I did it. Then came the most hazardous task of my life; slowly, slowly pulled to the surface by only my air hose as I fought to keep myself clear of the twisted steel. That was one time I HAD to keep cool! Or . . . get fouled up and stay right down there in old Davy Jones' locker!"

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Letters Ask Employment; Can You Help?

Among the jobs offered to the unemployed through Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE yesterday was one for an upholsterer to refinish furniture in an undertaking establishment; one for a man to clean a chimney; for a "beauty operator"; a window washer, and a girl typist.

A private school on the near north side offered 50 cents an hour to a girl typist. The W. undertaking establishment in the 7000 block North Clark street asked for a man to upholster furniture who could make a "snappy" job of it. Mr. B. V., in the 1900 block on Berwyn avenue, offered $5 to a man to clean a chimney.

Others Offer Jobs.

R. S., on West Van Buren street, wanted the "beauty operator." Mr. A. C., on Arlington place, wanted a man to wash woodwork. Mrs. J. S. B., in the 7200 block on Oglesby avenue, wanted a man to wash windows. F. C. H., on South Lincoln street, offered a salary of $8 a week, with room, board, and laundry to a general houseman.

A letter received by Sally Joy Brown yesterday from M. P., neatly written, follows in part:

"I am 21 years old and have been out of work for the last nine months. My dad has been sick for a period of five years. My sister is the only one working in our family of seven.

"I have worked as a steamfitter apprentice for three years and have worked for an undertaker and also as an ambulance helper, and have done a little painting. I am willing to do anything at present."

Another Letter Makes Plea.

Another letter, from A. H., said that he was 29 years old and the support of his parents. "My mother is not well and my dad can't find any work, so we are having a hard time of it," he wrote. He has done chauffeur's work for a private family and has driven a truck, he said. At one time he was a clerk in a hardware store.

FUND RAISERS PASS 4 MILLION IN THEIR DRIVE

The emergency relief fund being raised by Gov. Emmerson's commission yesterday topped the $4,000,000 mark by $598, a million short of the amount set as the minimum to carry the destitute of Chicago through the winter. Yesterday's subscriptions were from several sources, but no gifts were received from the wealthy individuals being solicited as a last resource to prevent failure of the drive.

A meeting of the fund raising committee, all volunteer workers, has been called for tomorrow at the Union League club by Chairman Philip R. Clarke. At that time it will be decided whether to continue with the drive or to abandon all hope of raising the quota.

GOOD FELLOWS GIVE $83,012 TO SUPPORT NEEDY

Once a Good Fellow, always a Good Fellow. That seems to be the motto current among the TRIBUNE Good Fellows who are providing for nearly 300 destitute families. The total contributed by Good Fellows since the call was issued last October reached $83,012 yesterday.

Yesterday's mail brought several examples of the proof that once the Good Fellows assume a responsibility they are determined to see it through.

"My check for the fourth installment," is the short statement accompanying a $25 gift.

"Enclosing check for $3 as per pledge," writes another Good Fellow.

"I send you $5 to get food for the needy," writes a new Good Fellow.

All the families under Good Fellow care have been found worthy by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau [Catholic], the Jewish Social Service bureau, and the Salvation Army. Your gift may be sent with the coupon on this page.

Watch Your Throat!

Don't Let It Get Sore or "Tight"!

A sore throat may be the start of something serious! Treated promptly and decisively a "sore" throat need not get really sore or develop dangerously. Get McKesson's Extol on the job as soon as you can. That's positively the best thing you can do. Extol will stop many an oncoming sore throat in three garglings of one minute each. It's so highly germicidal and fast it's the "10-second antiseptic". Also, it's extremely penetrating, which is equally important. It penetrates the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat; also the mucous membrane, and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. Hence it clears up a sore throat, cold in the nose or head in a matter of minutes. If used daily as a preventive measure it will guard you through the Winter from infections. For all its germicidal strength, Extol is utterly harmless—and a most delightful and refreshing mouth wash. Makes other preparations seem insipid by comparison. More economical, too, as it may be used in greater dilution. All McKesson Service Druggists and all independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today for health insurance for the family. Acidity

We are shocked to hear of the number of persons every day who are run down by motor cars. Yet there's a Demon who takes a far greater toll in human life and happiness and who, because of his insidiousness works under our very noses apparently unnoticed. He goes by the name of Acidity.

Many a run-down condition, many a case of "nerves," melancholia and sleeplessness is but a case of acidity. For, when, as a result of our unnatural living habits, the stomach secretes too much acid, it does many things to us. It causes acid-indigestion, with sour, gassy fullness, painful stomach distension, heartburn and nausea—a condition which in time may result in an attack of acute indigestion. The acid also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines. This breeds poisons which permeate the whole system. The poisons sap strength and vitality, make us feel tired all the time, and mentally depressed, and they rag our nerves to the point where we can't sleep at night, exhausted as we may be.

The modern and true way to correct acidity is by the release of active oxygen within the intestinal tract. This is now accomplished by an amazing and harmless white tablet developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the gastric juice, generate nascent or active oxygen. The live oxygen does the three things necessary to correct acidity in the right way. It stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, which keeps the acid in check. It corrects fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All these effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them, because it is the only Magnesia product known to science that, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

Make This Acidity Test!

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

ENGINEERED and built side by side with fine cars, Plymouth naturally is a fine car, too . . . It is perfectly logical for Plymouth to partake of Chrysler speed and performance . . . It is only to be expected that Dodge influence should make Plymouth a dependable car . . . Natural, too, that De Soto's contribution should be dashing smartness . . . Built the way it is, Plymouth cannot help being the car it is. That it should offer more in quality and value is the most natural thing in the world.

Plymouth is the Only Lowest-Priced Car with Hydraulic 4-Wheel Brakes

Because hydraulic brakes are always equalized and are quick, smooth and positive in action, they are the safest brakes known. Plymouth's hydraulic brakes are oversize, with a high ratio of braking surface to car weight. They are easier to operate. They are extremely simple in construction, with no rods, joints or pins to rattle or squeak and get out of adjustment. They never require oiling. They are completely enclosed and work uniformly in all weather, even in a heavy downpour. They act instantly, yet softly.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

HAS PLAN TO USE ROAD FUNDS NOW TO PROVIDE JOBS

Counties' Share of Gas Tax Lying Idle.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—A proposal to relieve unemployment by using the road fund surplus as a labor reservoir capable of furnishing jobs for more than 5,000 men is to be placed before Gov. Emmerson by Senator Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, minority leader.

Mr. Courtney advocates using thirteen million dollars of the gas tax now piled up in the state treasury on an immediate program of grade separations and road widenings. He says this amount is the one cent in the split which goes to the counties.

Would Refund Amount Later.

His view is that the state should spend the money at once and reimburse the county fund later out of its share in the gas tax, and that the building of grade separations involves a lot of work that can be carried on during the winter. At present the surplus is doing nothing but draw interest.

The minority leader says he will suggest to the governor this week that he appoint a committee on employment to treat solely with the road surplus and its possibilities. He will recommend that it include Charles M. Hayes of the Chicago Motor club, Si Mayer of the Automobile Club of Illinois, Harry H. Cleaveland, director of public works; Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, and leading members of the assembly.

Would Check Random Building.

A program of grade separations for immediate action, it is argued, would tend to head off piecemeal, random road building legislation. Several bills have been presented dealing with roads in various counties. Some of the statesmen appear to be keen on fence building as much as road building.

"The road fund money is coming in faster than it can be spent," says Senator Courtney, "and what is the sense of hoarding it in times like this when armies of unemployed need jobs? I have already pointed out that a surplus of $89,000,000 is now in the treasury for roads. There was in the treasury in the gas tax fund $11,575,847.08, which is being held in reserve for allotment due the various counties under the gasoline tax law.

"The eleven and a half million dollars represents one-third of the amount collected for a period of fifteen months, or at the rate of $771,723 per month for the counties [the state itself is getting $1,543,446 per month].

"This money should be put to work at once on grade separations, road widenings, and other projects on which much of the work can proceed during the winter months. The state can later reimburse the county gas tax fund.

"It would mean thousands of jobs. It is figured that 60 per cent of construction goes for labor in the production, transportation, and using of materials. This would mean the sum of $7,800,000 available for labor. It would enable the employment of 5,000 men for eight months at the minimum, and possibly 10,000.

ITALY'S AMBASSADOR PROTESTS SLAP AT DUCE BY MAJ. GEN. BUTLER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commander of the marine base at Quantico, Va., has become involved in another speech making incident, it became known today. This time alleged criticisms of Premier Mussolini, uttered by the marine officer before the Contemporary club in Philadelphia last Monday, has led to the lodging of a protest at the state department by Nobile Giacomo de Martino, the Italian ambassador. Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams has asked his subordinate for information as to exactly what he said.

According to a report published in a Philadelphia newspaper, Maj. Gen. Butler portrayed the Duce as a hit and run driver and a "mad dog" for war.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI.

Gen. Butler, according to the report, referred to "mad dogs who are about to break loose in Europe," and said Mussolini was "one of those fellows who are waiting to start another war."

"He is polishing up all the brass, hats in Italy," Gen. Butler is quoted as adding. "He is getting very Roman."

BURGLARS RAID C. S. SMITH HOME IN LAKE FOREST

The home of Calvin S. Smith, 20 Laurel avenue, Lake Forest, was robbed early yesterday by burglars, who obtained but $7.70 loot, which they found in a child's bank. In a few hours Chief Tiffany of the Lake Forest police force had the alleged burglars in custody. They are Effron Payne, a Negro janitor in a Lake Forest store; Lisa Hannan, a colored maid in the Smith home, and Fred David, her common law husband.

Elizabeth Luddke, a nursemaid, told Chief Tiffany that the man who forced his way into her room through a window and cowed her with a gun was Bayne, a suitor of the maid. Chief Tiffany searched the room of the Hannan woman and found David hiding in her bed. Later he arrested her and Bayne in North Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were in Chicago at the time of the robbery, but their children, Calvin Jr. and Reynolds, were at home. Mrs. Smith is the former Jeannette Reynolds, daughter of Arthur Reynolds. Mr. Smith is a son of Mrs. Frank McNary Smith, 999 Lake Shore drive.

Physicians Battle to Save Lloyds' 4 Pound Baby

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Physicians are battling to preserve the life of the four pound son of Harold Lloyd, the movie comedian. The infant, a seven months baby, was born yesterday. It has been placed in an incubator at Good Samaritan hospital. No concern was felt for the safety of Mrs. Lloyd, Mildred Davis before her marriage, and once her husband's leading woman.

J. W. GRAHAM CHARGED WITH TIPSY DRIVING

Joseph W. Graham, 30 years old, head of the Graham Oil company, 228 South La Salle street, son of the late Andrew J. Graham, Chicago banker and one time candidate for mayor, was locked up in Evanston last night charged with driving while intoxicated after his automobile had collided with several other cars and narrowly missed a plunge into the lake off Calvary cemetery.

Graham, police said, did not talk, but he was identified through papers in his pocket which gave his address as 227 Mary street, Glencoe, and by the license plates on his automobile.

With no deaths reported yesterday the Cook county auto toll for 1931 stood at 94.

HOPES RISE FOR TARKINGTON TO GET SIGHT BACK

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bandages were removed from Booth Tarkington's eyes today at the Johns Hopkins hospital, but the Indiana novelist may not know for several days whether the latest operation has restored the full sight of his left eye. The bandages were removed after Dr. William H. Wilmer, head of the Wilmer institute of the hospital, had visited Mr. Tarkington and pronounced his condition "fine." The operation performed ten days ago was the latest in a series which has lasted over many months in an effort to restore the writer's full sight. Only his left eye has been affected.

FEW PATIENTS OF FREE CLINICS CAN PAY FEES

Study Reveals Effort to Avoid Charity.

Few patrons who patronize free clinics and hospital wards could afford to pay for such service or to pay a doctor's fees. This was announced yesterday as one of the results of a study of 536 patients in six hospitals and clinics. It was also found that some patients had incurred financial obligations beyond their means before seeking free medical service, and that others continued to pay beyond their means rather than ask charity.

The research was made under the auspices of the Institute of Medicine by Margaret Lovell Plumley and Louise W. Gilfillan, who worked under the direction of the institute's committee on medical needs. An advisory committee on social and economic factors included Dr. Michael M. Davis of the Julius Rosenwald fund as chairman, and representatives of Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, the School of Social Service Administration, the United Charities, and the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

Study Ability to Pay.

"Among the families studied nearly 20 per cent were found to have paid an undue share of their income for medical expenses when all the facts of their earnings, rent, family responsibilities, time off for sickness, and other circumstances were considered," the report stated. "On the other hand, less than 4 per cent might have paid a higher rate to the clinic or hospital, or could have paid a physician's fees a short while.

"One-half the patients questioned had employed private physicians for a previous illness and many appeared to have sought clinical or hospital care in which there was no charge for the doctor's services only after they had exhausted their resources. About one fourth were chief wage earners of the family."

Only 49 at Fee Clinics.

The study revealed that of the 536 families 201 were found to be living in overcrowded quarters. It was found that 19 per cent of the families had incomes under $1,000; 48 per cent had incomes between $1,000 and $2,000, making two-thirds of the group with incomes under $2,000 a year. Of the total number of families studied, 391 were patients at ordinary clinics or taken care of by physicians free of charge, usually in hospital wards. Only 49 were pay clinic patients.

"Thirty-nine families in the group had received assistance from the social agencies, settlements or others during the year," the study continued. "Thirty-five of these families had incomes of less than $1,000 a year.

The Institute of Medicine is an organization of Chicago physicians who sought in the study an impartial view on the question as to whether free clinical and hospital treatment take in patients who might ordinarily patronize a private physician. Another aim of the study was to provide hospitals and clinics with data on the patients' ability to pay, and to learn if the patients' expenditures had been commensurate with their resources.

SENATE GROUP O. K.'S MOTION TO OUST 3 ON U. S. POWER BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The judiciary committee of the senate by a vote of 8 to 2 today approved the Walsh motion to take quo warranto action against George Otis Smith, Marcel Garsaud, and Claude L. Draper, the three Hoover appointees to the federal power commission whose right to hold office is a basis of contention between the President and the senate.

After reference to the committee on audit and control, necessitated by its provision of $2,500 for legal fees, the resolution will be passed on by the senate, where its final approval is expected.

Under the Walsh resolution, the attorney general or the local district attorney may institute proceedings to test the three commissioners' right to hold office in the face of the senate's recent vote reconsidering their nominations and of the senate's demand, which the President refused, that the nominations be returned.

In case both attorney general and district attorney refuse to act, the resolution provides that "an interested person" may ask the court for a quo warranto writ.

PRESIDENT KEEPS TIGHT MUZZLE ON CUBAN PRESS

Editors to Be Figureheads Under New Law.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 26.—President Gerardo Machado is remaining firm in his determination to keep muzzled the unfriendly newspapers of the republic. The strength of his purpose was further shown today when the administration caused the closing of Suceso at a time when the editors of nine previously closed publications were hoping the president would relent.

It is said that all of the papers would be publishing today and certain jailed writers would be back at their desks if El Mundo and Diaro de la Marina, the two leading Spanish daily papers now closed, had not taken a protest to the National Press association in New York. According to reports, President Machado deeply resents what he considers impertinent pressure from without the republic

Delays New Law.

One rift in the dark situation for the newspapers appeared when it was announced that El Sibboney, which was suspended recently, would be permitted to resume publication. On the other hand, President Machado was authorized by the house of representatives to continue the suspension of constitutional guarantees put into effect after bombing and other outrages.

It was considered probable that the new press law could be made effective by the middle of this week, but today Dr. Rosado Aybar, attorney to the President, undertook a revamping of the measure as originally written by Senator Diaz Pardo. Dr. Aybar is said to have displayed a bit of subtlety in his suggestion of a change in the 54th article of the bill which would make the government liable to the penalty of indemnity to editors in the event of closing by the government. While on the face of it this seems a friendly gesture, it is pointed out that the teeth of the proposed law are found in clauses which make it possible for the police to confiscate any edition of a newspaper containing printed matter offensive to the administration.

The new law, it is said, will leave no editor in the dark as to what the government considers proper and what it deems improper. When these restrictions are made public every editor who can read Spanish will know expressly how much leeway he has in printing his thoughts. There is no advance indication that this leeway will be great.

Paper Supports President.

"Heraldo de Cuba," which is edited by Carlos Machado, brother of the president, quite naturally is a strong supporter of the administration's attitude toward the press editorially. In this afternoon's editions the Heraldo de Cuba enlarges upon the "necessity" of controlling the press "and other mechanical means of information."

The editorial starts in Spanish by stating that "a project of law will be introduced today at the senate tending to avoid the anarchy which exists in the conveyance of news of events which have really happened, coupled intentionally with false statements which are detrimental not only to the honest policy of the press, but also to the stability and credit of our country."

HUSBAND ON PEACE BOND.

Charles Selko, 40 years old, 4918 South Wood street, was placed under a $500 peace bond yesterday by Judge Howard Hayes in Stockyards court after his wife had testified he tossed a five pound chunk of cement through the window when she refused him spending money on his day off.

FRANCES M'GAAN AGAIN ENTERS BREATH MACHINE

Miss Frances McGaan, 24 year old nurse, who had remained in or near the respirator machine at St. Luke's hospital continuously from last Sept. 10 until a few weeks ago, once more returned to the machine yesterday. It had been thought by doctors attending her that she would be able to do without the machine entirely, but breathing once more became difficult for her a few days ago, due to tiring of her lung muscles. While she is to spend four or five hours a day for an indefinite period in the breathing machine, hospital authorities said her condition was generally much improved.

THE EVENING BULLETIN REACHES 91% OF THE HOMES IN PHILADELPHIA'S BILLION DOLLAR MARKET

These facts compel attention

ADVERTISING to every village and cross-road is one of the privileges of prosperity, but today's budgets demand a prompt return on advertising dollars.

Sales lie where people are, as chain stores have profitably discovered. Great, compact groups of consumers spell carload shipments, low selling costs and net profits.

Intensive selling, supported by newspaper advertising . . . . in great population centers—this is the sales order of the day.

And especially in Philadelphia!

Ninety-one per cent. of the families read The Philadelphia Bulletin. In exclusive suburbs, in great residential districts—everywhere, The Bulletin's 560,855 daily circulation penetrates and dominates.

The Philadelphia Bulletin has more than double the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, and as much as the circulation of all daily morning newspapers combined.

40 BELOW ZERO AS 600 GERMANS ESCAPE RUSSIA

Mennonites Reach China After Bitter Trek.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—An advance guard of a colony of Mennonites, numbering approximately 600, who succeeded in escaping from soviet Russia reached Harbin yesterday after having traveled nearly 500 miles across open country from Amur, Siberia, where they managed to elude a soviet border patrol to enter Chinese territory.

Those reaching Harbin were in a pitiful condition due to privations and suffering from the intense cold weather, which reached 40 below zero. Eight members of the advance group had to be taken to the Harbin hospital for treatment, including the amputation of frozen limbs. Those who reached Harbin state that about 600 had crossed the Chinese-soviet boundary recently in the vicinity of Blagovestschonsk and the Ussuri river valley.

Farms Are Seized.

Representatives state that many thousands of German Mennonites, who had settled in southern Russia and central Siberia, occupying rich farm lands, were dispossessed of their farms due to enforcement of the soviet land socialization policy. As a result of this many fled toward Siberia and enlisted in soviet labor gangs operating in the forestry and mining concessions in the valleys of the Amur and Ussuri rivers, their purpose being to escape to Chinese territory.

The recent frozen condition of the Manchurian rivers enabled them to escape, and many succeeded in bringing along horses, thus facilitating travel.

Confer with Consul.

Those reaching Harbin claim that many thousands of their fellow religionists also escaped into Chinese Turkestan, where they are now refugees in the capital Tihwa or Urumchi. The refugees in Harbin are conferring with Chinese officials as well as the German consul. They are also trying to send a representation to the German Mennonite community in Germantown, Pa., for the purpose of seeking relief.

Gets 6 Months for Seizing N. U. Chaperon at Alley

William Dawson was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston. He was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Vera McLaren, a Northwestern university dormitory matron living at 1926 Sheridan road, who charged he attempted to drag her into an alley.

EX-SOVIET AGENT SAYS REDS ARE GAINING IN U. S.

Union Is Planning for War, He Asserts.

"Communism is making inroads in this country, not only among the laboring classes and the so-called liberal element, but in certain chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution."

This assertion was made yesterday by Basile W. Delgass, 38 years old, who has held several important posts in the soviet government and who now is under sentence of death in Moscow. He was interviewed at the office of Attorney Jay Fred Reeve of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, where he had been called as a witness in a pending case.

Quit Post in Amtorg.

Mr. Delgass was vice president of the Amtorg, soviet trading organization, in New York from 1927 until last July 23, when he resigned after a quarrel with Peter Bogdanov, president, over his intended testimony before the Hamilton Fish congressional committee investigating the Amtorg and soviet propaganda in the United States.

Following his testimony he was court martialed by the Supreme court at Moscow, ordered to be shot and his property confiscated. Mr. Delgass does not take his death sentence seriously, however, for he has no intention of returning to Russia but plans to become an American citizen. He already has a job with a New York business house.

Mr. Delgass believes that internal dissension in the soviet party now headed by Stalin is the only hope for the downfall of Russia's "militant communism." Possible resentment on the part of the people is effectively suppressed by the police, he said.

Charges Forged Passports.

Representatives of the Ogpu, soviet secret police, are maintained in this country and all other countries, spreading propaganda, observing the activities of the White emigres, and conducting an industrial espionage, Mr. Delgass said. They enter the country with passports forged in a factory at Berlin, he said.

"At home the soviets are constantly preparing for war, educating and training the populace in the use of deadly gases, and other lethal instruments," said Mr. Delgass. "The so called five year plan, ostensibly organized for the complete communization of Russia, is purely military in purpose, with an offensive against world capitalization as its aim.

"They claim to have gained control of 94.5 per cent of all industries, but the official figures are falsified. In 1913 the cotton crop was 4½ million tons, which was sufficient to clothe everybody. In 1930 they claimed an output of 6½ million tons, but they are buying abroad, their mills are idle, and the people are going naked.

"The pre-war sugar beet output was 12 to 15 million centners [220 pounds] and in those days premiums were paid on exports. The Germans fed Russian sugar to their pigs. In 1930 the soviets claimed an output of 157 million centners, yet it is almost impossible to get sugar in Russia."

Mr. Delgass, who is a chemical engineer and a graduate of the Moscow Imperial Technical school, said that if the capitalistic nations of the world did not stop arguing among themselves and unite against soviet Russia, Europe would be communized in from three to five years.

Aid of Bank Robber Surrenders, Confesses

Confessing that he acted as chauffeur in the robbery of the West Side National bank, Arthur Goldblatt, 24 years old, 1500 South Lawndale avenue, surrendered yesterday to Capt. Patrick Collins of the Fillmore street station. Attorney Simon Herr accompanied him. Goldblatt admitted he drove Sam Cohen, 18 years old, to the bank. Cohen took $4,000, but was turned over to police by his mother. More than $1,800 of the loot has been recovered.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dion Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Dean Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the home ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Ellis, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. Chuck has expensive tastes and his indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his college luxuries and material demands.

Mart McGuire tempts Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from the O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Slim, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch. An easy passage leads to it, through what seems to be a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal retreat for cattle.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

CATTLE RUSTLING.

The dull plunking sound of thrown rocks came from within the wall as Dix dismounted at the edge of the rose thicket. Mart looked up, grinned sheepishly, and made an elaborate pretense of wiping the sweat from his forehead when Dix came walking up the cleared incline of the fissure.

"We just thought we'd clear this out, seein' there wasn't anything much else to do," Mart explained, carefully tucking his blue bandanna back in his pocket.

"Say, any horse that can't hop these stones right now ain't worth coyote bait. She'll be a broad highway by dark." Mart paused in his labor to look speculatively up the incline to the turn. "Tom's clearing a trail through that next bad stretch. The rest is sand an' gravel, if yuh recollect."

"Guess I'll ride over and take a look at that geyser." Dix kicked a small jagged rock aside with his foot. "This is about as narrow a place as any, ain't it?" He looked at the side walls. "Couldn't get a mowin' machine through it without takin' it all apart."

"Couldn't haul hay out after you cut it," Mart reminded him. "Have to haul right in the basin."

"Sure. I know that." Dix turned and went back down the fissure, returning presently to Mart with his horse. As Mart stood back against the wall to let them pass Dix stopped and looked at him.

"Oughta be something outside that needs attending to while I'm gone,"

There they turned the coffee pot cow and turned her back the way she had come.

he said meaningly. "Maybe the headgate needs fixing in the creek or somethin'—in case anybody comes prowling around."

"Sure right," Mart approved. "I thought you'd git over that crazy idea of exploring ranch."

A smile pulled at the corners of Dix's mouth. "I was just thinking about that." He hesitated, turned as if to go on into the hidden valley, then swung towards Mart again. "I guess I needn't make any bones about it. You know damn' well what this all means. It means we ride with a long loop."

Mart's eyes flickered, and with a mechanical motion he reached for his tobacco sack, his fingers shaking just a little as they pulled it open.

"When?" He studied Dix. "If it's any uh my business," he added.

"Tonight. And it's as much your business as it is mine, old timer."

"Sure. Well"—Mart's eyes took a curious, faraway expression—"Owen Dean has got it comin' to him."

"O, dry up. I may be a damn' cow thief by tomorrow morning, but if I am I won't bawl around about it and lay the blame on the other fellow. Better get back outside." Without waiting for a reply Dix went up the cañon.

That afternoon Dix drove to Graypoint and home by the O T ranch to borrow some heavy rope—or so he said. While he was there he gossiped a little with the foreman, and let it be known that he did not trust the weather, which he suspected of breeding a regular oldtime blizzard of the kind that would send the range cattle drifting before the wind until they struck timber or some barrier that would halt them in their miserable wandering.

"We've had too open a winter to suit me," Dix declared. "Old Tom Bixby Day says a big storm is coming, and he never misses it very far."

"Injuns sure have got some system of judging the weather that beats the weather bureau all holler," the O T foreman agreed. "Anyway, the weather man's got it straight for once in his life. We got it over the radio last night that a big storm's working this way from the coast. You tell that to Tom."

"Wouldn't be a bad idea to kinda work the cattle over toward home," Dix observed thoughtfully. "I sure do hate to have 'em drift down along the railroad and pile up along the fence. You folks are protected by Buffalo Wash, over this way, but east of Cattle Creek it's a straight shoot to the railroad."

"That's right," the foreman agreed. "Bad place along there in them cuts."

Dix talked a few minutes longer and drove home with the rope he did not need and a very good idea of where the O T cattle were ranging the closest to Whistling Creek ranch.

That night a gentle young cow went mooing out into the starlight, followed by three silent riders. Over the bridge and up Buffalo Wash they loped her at a brisk pace to where a vague group of animals huddled under the high bank. There they turned the Coffeepot cow and started her back the way she had come, and with her went the big, rangy steers and husky yearlings Dix had passed that day. At Antelope Creek they turned the herd much toward the north, picking up other small groups of stock as they went. So when Old Tom swung open the upper pasture gate just as the sky was reddening with dawn, a fair sized herd went crowding through after the cow that trotted on up the creek to her home pasture at the pool.

Getting them through the fissure was not so simple a matter, but it was accomplished when Mart roped the heifer around her slim horns and led her up the incline. One by one the sweating O T cattle ventured after her, and once in there was no turning back. As if the earth had opened and swallowed them, they vanished from sight; cows big with calf, yearlings, two year olds, big beef steers. Dix sat on his horse and watched the tail of the last scared yearling disappear around the tall, flat rock that so perfectly masked the opening. He heard a muffled bawl from the hindmost steer, the faint rattle of horns scraping rock, the scratch of hoofs slipping a little as they went up the incline, urged forward by old Tom and his stockinged rein ends.

Dix's face was grim, his eyes were sober, a tense look lay on his lips. It was late now to call Mart to turn the cattle back. Too late to undo what he had done that night. And all at once Dix slumped in the saddle, too tired to care.

He was half asleep, his head nodding on his chest, when Tom and Mart came riding out of the crevice and stopped to lift certain rocks and fling them against the opening to block the way and mask the place from the casual searching glance. When they remounted and came trotting over to where Cosly stood quiet by the pool, their coming scarcely roused him before he reined into the trail beside Mart.

"Boy, we shore did make a killin' that time," Mart gloated with sinful satisfaction. "Three hundred and sixty-seven I counted as they came out into the valley. Coupla hundred cows and heifers in the bunch, and mosta the cows in with calf. We shore will thrive f'm now awn."

"That's what I aimed to do—thrive from now on," Dix lifted his head to make weary retort. "May as well be hung for an old sheep as a lamb, I guess."

"I shore don't aim to hang for neither one." Mart lifted his eyes to scan the lowering sky. "Looks like we'll get our blizzards all right, Dix. We better go ahead and push the Coffeepots in toward home, like we planned, don't yuh think?"

"You and Tom can do that. I'll keep cases at home." As if he were discussing a commonplace detail of ranch work Dix gave his orders. "Be sure you rub the saddle marks off your horses before you turn them out."

"Think I'm liable to advertise this deal?"

"Nope—only it's darned important we don't leave any loose ends right now. We're all in, Mart. This rustling business is damn' hard work, do you know it?"

"Kinda git used to it in time." Mart dryly observed. "You go on to bed, Dix. Me an' Tom'll cover our tracks, don't you worry about that."

Good Morning!

Lowell Sherman comes mighty nigh being the whole cheese in this production. [If you will pardon the expression.] It isn't so much what he says as the way he says it; not so much what he does as the way he does it, that makes his performance notable. He is a slick article after the manner in which Adolphe Menjou is a slick article. Besides acting all over the piece, Mr. Sherman has directed "The Royal Bed" with skill and humor, eliciting good work from the other players.

The picture, adapted from Robert E. Sherwood's play, "The Queen's Husband," has a frothy and inconsequential story. The locale is some little kingdom or other of which Mr. Sherman is husband of a queen whose activities remind you of Marie of Rumania's—and father of a beautiful daughter scheduled to marry a prince with whom she is not in love. The Princess Anne is enamored of her father's serious young secretary. When mother goes to America to raise money, father sees that daughter gets her heart's desire—but that's telling you too much.

The queen's husband is a very modern king with a sense of humor and a lot of other sense. Through his diplomacy, and understanding of human nature, a revolution is settled in the most casual fashion. He dearly loves to play checkers, and does so with his butler, much to the queen's disgust. And, though her majesty destroys checkerboard after checkerboard, his majesty is never without one. Charming fellow, really!

Robert Warwick, who once slew the matinée girls of the theater proper, is entertaining as a bumptious, loud mouthed, threatening general—who scares the king not at all. Mary Astor is sweet as the harried daughter and Nance O'Neill scores as the harrying royal mamma. Hugh Trevor has a couple of interesting entrances as the proposed husband of Anne, who likes the lady no better than the lady likes him. Anthony Bushell is nice enough as the secretary.

"The Royal Bed" is, technically, richly wrapped and prettily delivered. It's clean as a whistle and I should think you'd like it.

THE CAST.

Cain	Emil Gall
Artem	Nikolai Simonov
Woman in market place	Elena Egorova
Her husband	Georgy Uvarov

"Cain and Artem" is just about as cheery as a walk through a bog on a rainy day. But, in so far as types, photography, and atmosphere go, it's a commendable movie.

The film is an adaptation of Maxim Gorki's novel and is a tale of village life in what is now called "the old Russia." You have before you a picture of a market place alive with hatreds, jealousies, drunks, fly bitten fish, and other sorts of loathsomeness. A woman, wife of a fishmonger, sits in the market place and rebels. She yearns toward the brawny, stolid Volga longshoreman, Artem, and wishes he would take her far away from all she knows. She asks him to.

While she is playing about—dreadfully enough!—with Artem, her husband is cognizant of what's going on. He hires some assassins to make way with his rival, and these men pitch on the drunken fellow as he staggers through the market place one night. They throw him into the river. But Artem is rescued by Cain, a Jew shoe mender, and hidden in the latter's house—which turns out to be the meeting place of Russians who are anxious to improve themselves and hasten the dawn of an enlightened tomorrow.

The woman, believing Artem dead, becomes a nun. Cain makes a new man out of Artem—teaching him to read and that there is beauty in a sunset. The picture might just as well have been called "The Regeneration of Artem."

Some of the photography is lovely. Subtitles have a hesitant, inarticulate quality, and direction, while able enough, too determinedly stresses the unpleasant. The film could have done with one or two less reels.

See you tomorrow.

Yankee Woman Conducts Hamburg's Own Orchestra

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMBURG, Jan. 26.—An American, Antonia Brico, who is in her early twenties, is the first woman to conduct Hamburg's philharmonic orchestra, and tonight she won a stormy applause from the staid Hamburgers.

The orchestra is usually conducted by Dr. Karl Muck, therefore her success is all the more striking.

'Mars Peopled?' 'Why Not?' Asks Harvard Expert

Planetary Huddle Hides Secrets from Earth.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Leon Campbell, instructor of astronomy at Harvard university, today supported the theory that the planets Mars and Venus have some forms of life.

"We have no right to assume," Dr. Campbell said, "that we are the only people in the universe. There are billions of suns just like ours, and much larger than ours. Such suns each may have their different planets. We do not know, however. We can never make them out here. At their immense distances from us they huddle up to their respective suns.

"According to the theory of probabilities, it is ridiculous to believe that our earth is the only peopled planet."

With others at Harvard, Dr. Campbell is making a close study of Eros, an asteroid or planetary fragment, and it was in this connection that he gave his opinion concerning habitation of other planets in the solar system.

"Our work," Dr. Campbell said, "proves that Mars is not a cold planet in the sense that it has no life. Atmospheres as determined on Mars are found to be livable. The temperature in the middle of the day is 60 degrees above zero Fahrenheit. It ranges downward 100 degrees. The same range exists on our planet, but the temperatures do not drop 100 degrees in a single day here, as it may on Mars."

Astronomers generally agree now, he said, that Mars has some form of life.

Marian Anderson Wins Praise for Recital; Has Gorgeous Voice

Appearing under the auspices of the Chicago Urban league, Marian Anderson, contralto, sang a recital program at Orchestra hall last night. It was by no means an event to be charitably veiled under the term of benefit concert, for here was a truly gorgeous voice. Moreover, in range, in dramatic coloring, in flexibility, there would seem to be little that Miss Anderson could not do with it, and she is accordingly entitled to rank with the leading artists.

The aristocratic, long breathed phrases of Handel, Donaudy, Bassani, and Mozart were sung with generous ease; she was equally at home in the lieder style of Liszt and Grieg. An operatic aria followed, "O Mio Fernando," from "La Favorita."

Prince Will Marry Commoner in Summer; Will Live on an Island

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The engagement of Prince Lennart of Sweden, 22 year old son of Prince William and of the former Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, to Miss Karin Emma Louise Nissvandt, 20 year old daughter of Sven Nissvandt of Stockholm, is to be announced formally next summer. Prince Lennart is the grandson of King Gustaf.

The wedding will take place in the fall, either at Stenhammar, summer residence of Prince Lennart's father, or in Stockholm. The prince is now studying farming at Bolmbacke.

The couple will live on the island of Mainau in Lake Constance, which Prince Lennart inherited from his grandmother, the late Queen Victoria of Sweden.

Aside from his interest in agriculture Prince Lennart writes prose and verse. His duchy is the province of Smaland, and his full name is Gustaf Lennart Nicolaus Paul.

Mother, a Grand Duchess, at Work in New York.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A grand duchess of Russia, and of Fifth avenue, greeted with silence today the news that her son, a prince of Sweden, contemplates marriage to a commoner.

The Grand Duchess Marie, granddaughter of a Russian czar and former wife of Prince William of Sweden, refused to discuss the matrimonial intentions of her son, Prince Lennart, the news from Stockholm found her busy, as usual, in the Fifth avenue shop where she is employed as a style creator.

Grand Duchess Marie and Prince William of Sweden were married at Tsarkoie-Selo in 1908. Five years later they separated, and while Prince Lennart was growing up at the Swedish court his mother was encountering many experiences new to a Romanoff—at the front, where she was a nurse, in Russia during the revolution, and in Paris where she made her first attempts at earning a living.

Recently she wrote the story of her life, entitled "Education of a Princess," and in the book she has described her betrothal to Prince Lennart's father, their marriage, her life at the Swedish court, the birth of Prince Lennart, and finally the annulment of her marriage.

Discuss Commission for Washington Bicentennial

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The associate directorship of the George Washington bicentennial commission, for which Representative Cramton has been recommended, was discussed in the house today by reason of the $10,000 annual salary which has been mentioned as what the Michigan Republican would receive. Cramton was defeated in November. Representative Woodrum [Dem., Va.] said the $338,195 allotted to the commission does not include any $10,000 salary for directors.

WILHELM II.

Ex-Kaiser Leads Family Prayer, Studies Flying

Starts 73d Year Today; Denies War Guilt.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—As he enters his 73d year tomorrow, Wilhelm II., former emperor of Germany, can look back on an active twelve months. During that time he has devoted many hours to his favorite studies along four lines—aviation, theology, archeology, and the so-called "war guilt" question.

Although he never has ridden in an airship, the former German ruler has followed the progress of aviation with keen interest and is familiar with all phases of aeronautics. He watches every ocean flight closely and he is personally acquainted with some of the famous flyers of today.

With advancing years, the former monarch is studying religion more and more. As head of the Evangelical church, he used to preach upon occasions during services on the high seas. Now he preaches in a modest way daily, expounding the Scriptures lessons to the members of his household during the morning devotional exercises.

He took a great interest last October in the opening of the valuable Pergamon museum at Berlin. About once a year there is a sort of archeological congress at Doorn Manor, to which leading savants from various European countries are invited.

In connection with the "war guilt" question, the former kaiser is bent on proving to the world that Germany was not responsible for the war. With that in view, he conducts a large correspondence with historians in numerous countries. Every statement made by a serious investigator which he considers erroneous he challenges and tries to disprove.

Old Soldiers Pray for Exiled Kaiser at Potsdam.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POTSDAM, Jan. 26.—Friedenskirche, which is a shrine to the old Germans with its grave of Frederich the Great, shone tonight with torchlights. The torches lighted up hundreds of flags carried by old soldiers and officers who met in that church to pray for their exiled kaiser on the eve of his 72d birthday.

The ex-kaiser's son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, his daughter-in-law, Princess Oscar, and her children and Princess Friedrich Sigismund of Prussia, and her children occupied the pews formerly reserved for the kaiser. They listened as the Rev. Mr. Buchholz said:

"Be watchful, be faithful, be manly, be strong, protect yourself and those you love against all thoughts that are not truly German thoughts."

A solemn procession of old soldiers carried flags past the small group of three grownups and four children of the Hohenzollern dynasty. They then congregated in the big meeting hall. From there they sent heartfelt messages to Doorn.

Modernistic Trend Hits Bakery Goods; Show Planned Today

Modernistic trends in bakery goods, as well as novel ways of displaying them, will be featured in the annual convention of the Associated Bakers of America, opening today at the Hotel Sherman.

Three completely appointed bakery stores were set up yesterday, and each day this week some group of Chicago master bakers will prepare and display the favorite dish of a foreign nation. An interchange of retail bakers' favorite recipes and discussions on "the machinery of selling" will be entirely new ventures in the association's convention, which is open to the public. The convention closes Thursday.

Mary Pickford Says She Hasn't Had the Career She Desired

Mary Pickford's admiring public will be surprised to know that Mary doesn't like being very petite, and blonde, and much in the movie eye. If Mary had her way about it she would be all of five feet six inches tall with blue-black tresses, and long black lashes, and violet eyes.

"I'd like to speak four languages and be world traveled," added America's sweetheart wistfully upon her arrival on the Advance Century of the New York Central yesterday. "And I wouldn't want a career. I'd sit and paint, maybe, or write in a garret with the door locked, and I'd play the piano well enough to get rid of my bad humor."

THE STAGE

"SCARLET SISTER MARY."

Produced at the Harris theater Jan. 26, 1931.

THE CAST.

Maum Hannah	Beatrice Terry
Sister Mary	Ethel Barrymore
Budda Ben	Horace Braham
Cinder	Estelle Winwood
June	John Roseleigh
July	Walter Gilbert
Cousin Andrew	Leo Kennedy
Big Boy [his son]	George Smith
Doll [sister of July]	Geo. Drew Mendum
Unex	Albert Ridge
Seraphine	Ethel Barrymore Colt

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"SCARLET SISTER MARY," by Julia Peterkin, won the Pulitzer novel prize for 1929. It was a rich, colorful slice of Gullah Negro life, authentic as a boll weevil in a cotton tuft and full of the fruity drama of a primitive race. "Scarlet Sister Mary," a play made by Daniel Reed from the novel might, if such a thing existed, be awarded with charming justice the booby Pulitzer drama prize. It is more like a slice of English drawing room life done in black face, as authentic as a portrait that some busy little boy has adorned with mustachios.

Ethel Barrymore as the heroine; Beatrice Terry, Estelle Winwood, and Georgie Drew Mendum, all actresses of handsome records in the theater, bring to their roles their separate and personal charms, undiluted by any trace of the Gullah Negresses whom they portray. The gentlemen in the cast also retain their assorted white face personalities behind their burnt cork. There were only five actors who gave performances which reflected either the Negro psychology, the Negro manner, or the Negro accent. They were four little flower girls at the wedding, and the baby which appeared too soon after that event. They had been born to their parts. The baby "Unex" stopped the show.

Miss Barrymore was alternately Lady Macbeth, Paula Tanquary, a synthesis of the smarter of the Somerset Maugham leading ladies, and the heroine of "What Every Woman Knows." She talked a language which sounded strangely like Choctaw.

Her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, caused a mild moment when she appeared in the last act, but by that time the audience had suffered past the point of spontaneous enthusiasm.

"Scarlet Sister Mary" is, from any point of view, a bad play. It is made with a heavy hand, with no sense of the rich, gorgeous humor that is a lode of gold in the novel and no sense of its moments of drama. And it is acted as if it were a smart play laid in Mayfair instead of a Gullah Negro community. You keep expecting, after one of Miss Barrymore's grand gestures, a very liveried footman to bring in the tea things.

After "Porgy" and "The Green Pastures" synthetic black face stuff is so palpable that it gives audiences a sense of burlesque. There is nothing synthetic about the novel. Admiring readers of Mrs. Peterkin's book will not, however, suffer much feeling of desecration at the play, for they won't be able to recognize it enough to be harassed.

Except for this bouquet of faults "Scarlet Sister Mary" is a swell play. It gives you a good, clean laugh, if not with it, at it.

Preachment Makes the Modern Woman Beauty-Conscious

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about time and how some women in spite of the most trying, work bound hours have it, and others with little to do except look after themselves have not the time for the care every woman must show, these critical days.

It isn't a case, any more, of speaking of a woman as so immaculate, neat, and tidy that she "looks as if she just stepped out of a bandbox," a phrase commoner to an older generation than ours. Every woman is expected to look as nearly like a fresh bandbox product as is humanly possible for her.

Whether she convinces herself she has the time or not, a well groomed picture is asked of her. In fact, hair, makeup, bathing, and freshly pressed and cleaned frocks are expected of every one just as are clean teeth, a clean face, and clean finger nails. And not for shining public appearances, but for everyday featuring. That's what all this beauty preachment has brought women to. And a good thing it is. Just think of what it has done for the woman at home. You never hear, any more, about sloppy kimonoed creatures with frowsy hair sticking out from under terrible house caps. They're not even the butt of vaudeville jokes, so extinct has the type become.

If it were all for vanity's sake, we would not be so loud in praise of our modern day advance. But it has done much to raise the general standard of woman's efficiency. Her work improves. The spirt a woman puts into a homely task is a more cheerful one if she can catch a glimpse of a pleasing face and coiffure in the mirror hanging on the kitchen wall.

I am more and more impressed with the general high standard of appearance that is asked of woman. Every woman with any fastidiousness about her at all is ready all the time to step out at a moment's notice.

Of course, this isn't all a magician's performance. It's a system worked with so many minutes given to the person, and that system held to if the house burns down while the hair is getting brushed and the face getting its thorough cleansing.

Fur Vests Replace Jackets for Spring

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Waistcoats are cornering the Paris style market for Riviera and early spring wear. They put it all over blouses, daytime jackets and inside evening wraps.

The latest thing in the vest line is the sleeveless, flat fur waistcoat. Fourrures Max are launching them to wear in spring with different dresses or with a cloth skirt and lingerie blouse. The smartest furs for these practical wraps, that are the same time light and warm where you need it most, are broadtail, galyak and pony.

These vest wraps are particularly good for tropical and nearly tropical wear, for in the sunny southern climes it's quite warm in the middle of the day but with the setting sun a deathly chill descends that makes a comfortable wrap a necessity.

A black pony waistcoat is a chic part of the Marcel Rochas ensemble, sketched above. The simple frock is of grayed, sky blue flannel with a slim skirt made full by two flaring box plaits in front. Elbow deep cuffs of the black pony can be slipped off at will, leaving the sleeves plain, and the frock alone may be worn with a scarf of blue and gray crêpe de Chine.

The pony skin waistcoat buttons on the left side with four black buttons. It has chevron shaped pockets on the hips. Two seams suggesting a yoke fit it smoothly at the top. It is worn with a widish belt of black patent leather to match the shoes. The beret is of blue wool trimmed with a band of pony.

Blue and black are, you know, among the smartest of the bicolor combinations so good this season.

Girl Hints, Between the Lines, at Reason for Her Unpopularity

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When a letter to me begins, as letters from girls so often do, with a plea to acquaint the writer with what's wrong with her, sadness possesses me. You know at once it is going to be the story of a lonely girl, a girl who, somehow, somewhere, just does not click.

Though said writer may believe she is honestly presenting a fair picture of herself, one knows there is something she cannot, will not, or does not want to recognize in herself that stands in the way of her success with the boys. Whether any advice from an outsider will have effect is something one may only guess about.

Apropos, Betty enumerates her good points. She is tall, good looking, blonde, and talented. Now, that would look like equipment enough for any girl. A good looking blonde—what more does mortal man require? The girl's parents are wealthy [and they're both darlings, she adds]. She has a beautiful home and clothes. She plays the piano, sings, dances, and writes songs. "Always entertaining at dances and parties," Betty tells. She names a beautiful movie star whom people tell her she resembles.

Yet with all her "props," evening after evening passes and it is the other girls who get the dates, not Betty. Betty, however, to her credit and her future hopes, reveals a cue.

"I am a so-called good listener," she writes, "and even though boys do bore me dreadfully at times, I feign interest. But I exit a nervous wreck after pretending to be all excited over them."

If the feigned interest results in near nervous wreckage you may be sure the boys have sensed the boredom. That's one thing you can't fool people on. True, a girl may have to feign interest, but she has to do it so well that the listener-to never gets a hint of what's going on.

More important, however, is the fact that boys do bore the girl. They shouldn't unless the girl starts out with some reservation in her own mind, some particular code of conduct that boys must prescribe to and probably one they couldn't prescribe to, no matter how they tried.

And that's exactly where a number of girl fall down, Betty, no doubt, included. The boy is not received with an open mind. Some staggering, competitive figure, most likely of the girl's own imagination, stands between the gentleman caller and the hit he'd like to make on his own.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HANNAH S.: A STRONG BLEACH is made by adding a couple of drops of household ammonia to a tablespoonful of peroxide. This may be applied daily to the hair. It bleaches and in time tends to destroy the hair. My leaflet on superfluous hair may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

ETHEL S.: TO COMFORT TIRED feet put them into a tub of hot water to which a handful of coarse salt has been added. Let them soak a few minutes. Then turn on the spray, letting it run colder and colder. Rub briskly, then powder.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Tell Tale Sign.

While I was doing my housework one morning a refrigerator salesman came to the door. As I was anxious to finish my cleaning I courteously informed him that I already had an electrical refrigerator, thus expecting to get rid of him. He was persistent, however, and asked me various questions about my refrigerator. I promptly answered his questions, telling him that I had purchased it about six months before and, as it was in perfect condition, I was well satisfied.

Being quite sure I had thoroughly convinced him I was greatly puzzled by the amused look on his face. However, I was soon enlightened by his parting remark. "Well," he said, "I was just canvassing the neighborhood and, of course, when I saw your ice sign in the window——"

Further speech was unnecessary. I stood there open mouthed and blushing. Fortunately he had a keen sense of humor, but if I should ever chance to meet him again my mortification would be relieved.

Foujita Here for Show of His Paintings

BY THALIA

If we aren't already that way, we must, it seems, get excited about Foujita, whose exhibition of paintings opens at the Arts club this afternoon, because he is a sensation wherever he goes or is. He came in, gold earrings and all, on the Century yesterday morning, and is to be here through the week, staying at the Ambassador.

His schedule for being entertained isn't fixed up yet, but everybody and his grandaunt are crazy to give a party for him. John V. Storrs, the sculptor, took him around yesterday and out to the Renaissance society meeting in the afternoon, and he and Mrs. Storrs have arranged a luncheon at the Arts club for Saturday.

Assisting Mrs. Potter Palmer at this afternoon's tea will be Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Clyde Carr, Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mrs. Hayden Harris, Mrs. Arnes Potter VanRyn, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, and Mrs. William S. Monroe.

A "prominent place" for some more about the Gigli concert at the Opera house next Sunday, benefiting Olivet Institute, is requested by Mrs. Howard Linn. She says that a surprisingly few people know about Olivet and its good works. Besides the regular activities carried on in the district known as "Little Hell" (she worked over there every day when she was a girl), the institute is doing a lot of emergency relief, feeding 300 families and providing them with coal. Almost all the boxes for the concert have been sold and the box list is an imposing one, including Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, William E. Clow Jr., Cyrus Hall McCormick, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, Henry H. Porter, the Alfred Hamills, and so on. After the concert there is to be a tea for Mr. Gigli, either at the Ogdens or at a private home. Mrs. A. Gardner and Mrs. Charles H. Fargo, who are working very hard on the benefit, are arranging that, too.

Apropos Mona Lisa, Bus Riding, Nassau Newspaper.

Heard and seen recently. . . . Lady, on meeting Cornelia Fairbanks at a tea, remarking to her that she looked just like Mona Lisa, and a passing swain retorting: "Well, she is one" . . . Piece in Time last week about Nassau, reporting that Hamilton L. Ames Jr. is "coöwner of the quaint Nassau Guardian, one of the world's few newspapers to be composed on inverted tombstones from old graveyards." . . . Mrs. Philip Maher, all in brown, getting off a bus and waving good-by to some one on the top deck. . . . Mrs. George Marhop with a long streamer of gardenias on her shoulder at Winifred McBride's lovely recital at the Playhouse on Sunday (Miss McBride in private life is Mrs. Christopher Thomas, and Mr. Thomas is on the Chicago Latin school faculty). . . . Somebody telling what a grand talk Mary Garden gave at the University club Friday night, and what an entertaining speech James Weber Linn gave before it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris are back in this country for one of their infrequent stays. Mr. Morris, who is still in the east, will be here next week. They plan to remain in Chicago for two months or longer. Since their departure for Europe last fall they have been traveling in France, Spain, and Sweden, where Mr. Morris formerly served as United States minister.

Florida Trip; White Elephant Side and Jekyll Island.

You may like to know . . . that Mrs. D. Mark Cummings leaves Chicago today for Florida to be the A. B. Dicks' guest on "The Chieftain" and that Mrs. Charles C. Adsit will take her place in charge of the White Elephant Rummage shop monthly home dressmakers' sale on Thursday . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane jr. and Miss Florence departed last week for Jekyll island off the coast of Georgia, and that Harlow D. Higinbotham and his daughter, Florence, and his son, Harlow, accompanied them . . . that Mrs. Kingman Douglass of Lake Forest are occupying a cottage at Coronado Beach, Cal., for the rest of the winter . . . that John Wayne Richard, headmaster of Lake Forest academy, and Mrs. Richard have taken a house in Miami for the month of February . . . and that Mrs. Charles H. Ackert of Lake Forest is at Belleaire, Fla., until April 1.

Also . . . that Mrs. William S. Rossin is laid up at home with her right foot in a plaster cast . . . that Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. gave a dinner party last night . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Grant of New York City gave a dinner party and musical in that city for Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick last Friday night . . . that Mrs. John H. Winterbotham and Miss Rue have been in Washington, D. C.

Also again . . . that the College club is giving a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Laird Bell next Tuesday, after which Mrs. Bell is to give one of her original sketches . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Gray of 2648 Lakeview avenue are not going away for a while until Mr. Gray gets well from the "flu" . . . that Carl Kelton Boone has returned to Boston after a visit with his cousin, Edward Richardson Bacon . . . that Miss Jessie and Miss Katherine Colvin of Lake Forest are in the east for a two weeks' trip.

Ethel Barrymore and Her Daughter Get Good Audience.

Despite the advance reviews from the east deploring Ethel Barrymore's adventure into blackface drama, there was a good representation of our fashionable first nighters to see "Scarlet Sister Mary" last night at the Harris theater. The house was full. During the intermissions the lobby and smoking loge buzzed with comments about Miss Barrymore and her daughter.

The Kellogg Fairbanks and their daughter, Miss Janet Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, and the James Weber Linns occupied seats in the center aisle. Among others seen were the Rosecrans Baldwins, the Lloyd Laflins, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Ellen Root, Arthur Meeker Jr., and Arthur Aldis.

Richard Mellons Give About $3,000,000 for New Pittsburgh Church

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Perhaps the largest Presbyterian edifice in the country will be erected here on ground where members of the Mellon and Negley families have worshiped for more than a century.

The church is a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mellon to the East Liberty Presbyterian congregation. Mr. Mellon is a brother of Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury. The cost of the edifice has been estimated unofficially at $3,000,000.

The plans for the church were announced today. The structure will be of stone, Gothic in style. It will seat from 1,800 to 2,000 persons. A spire 350 feet high will rise from the roof and a mission will be established for hungry and homeless wayfarers within the building. The mission will be open day and night, and in it will be a rest room, chapel, showers, lunch counter, and dormitory.

PLAN MUSIC FESTIVAL

Members of the Chicago chapter of the International Society for Contemporary Music met at a luncheon on Sunday at the Tavern club to discuss plans for the society's first public performances to be held on Feb. 8 and 9 at the Goodman theater. Arthur Bissell was host at the luncheon and John Erskine of Columbia university, president of the Juilliard Foundation for Music, was the guest of honor. Those in the picture are, left to right: Rudolph Ganz, John Erskine, Frederick Stock, C. H. Anderson, and Arthur Bissell.

Fading Angkor, Mystic City, Is in Etchings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of pastels and etchings by Lucille Douglass has just opened in the Knoedler gallery. The pastels and etchings are of China and the far east. They bring, particularly the pastels, the color and life of that country; where waterways are common because the building of roads would disturb the dead, into our clear vision with a vividness and richness of detail that swings contemporary China into sharp focus. Pastel in the hands of Miss Douglass is as adequate an arm of art as are oils and water color.

She differentiates vigorously between her use of the two mediums in which her current exhibit is staged. On the one hand is picturesque China, colorful, decorative, flaming with life and movement; on the other hand is ancient Angkor with the granite temples swallowed by the jungle and yet resisting the jungle's approach. Pastel fits the mood of China as definitely as the etching needle and acid match the solid stone of the walls and massive fronts of Angkor. Now and again the delicacy of her etchings brings one delight, for instance, in "Angkor Wat at Evening," but the mingling of strength with delicacy as in the glorious "Elephant Terrace" makes of her etching skill the greater achievement.

It is to the pastels that we turn for picturesque China. "The Ganges at Benares," for example, with its blue water and the water front gay with umbrellas of every color. Then the bridges in gray and blue and olive green and red. The red in the roofs, soft and rich, a patina won to only through the passage of time. The processions in the street and the junks on the canal, all these mean life and movement and color. There may be other painters of China, but none who has a keener sense for the truth nor a wiser eye for the color of this old, old country than has Lucille Douglass.

The exhibit will continue to Feb. 7. Miss Douglass lectures this afternoon at Fullerton hall of the Art institute at 2:30 o'clock on Angkor. Her lecture is illustrated with slides and motion pictures and reports from Washington and New York say it is fascinating. She will repeat the talk on the evening of Feb. 10 in Orchestra hall before the Geographic society.

Tommy Watson, Who Lost Leg, Goes to Hoover Home

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Tommy Watson, 13 years old, who lost a leg in a street car accident here several weeks ago, left St. Luke's hospital today for President Herbert Hoover's home near Stanford university. There he will convalesce. Tommy is a brother of Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr. Shortly after he was injured the President and Mrs. Hoover invited him to regain his strength in their home and he accepted.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My young niece, Beckey, came into the room one day as I was trying to find an interesting program over the radio. I happened to get a lovely soprano voice doing a tra-la-la sort of thing.

She listened a minute, then looked disgusted and said: "Auntie, I just wist you'd listen! I spose she gets paid a thousand dollars a minute to sing 'way up to the end of her voice like that!" G. B.

ENGAGED

LUCY STIFLER.

Dr. and Mrs. James Madison Stifler of 628 Lincoln street, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lucy Stifler, to Benjamin Matthews Philbrick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Philbrick of 2130 Sherman avenue, Evanston. Miss Stifler attended Goucher college for one year, but is now a student at Northwestern university. Mr. Philbrick is a graduate of De Pauw university. Dr. Stifler is pastor of the Evanston Baptist church.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Allan Hoover, younger son of the President, returned today to his studies at the Harvard school of business administration after spending the week-end at the White House.

Mrs. Vandenberg, wife of a senator from Michigan, gave a luncheon today in honor of the governor of Michigan and Mrs. Wilbur Brucker. The governor and Mrs. Brucker attended tonight the dinner of the Michigan state society.

Mrs. Henry Dawes of Evanston was among the luncheon guests of Mrs. Lucy Wilder Morris of Minnesota at the National Woman's Country club. The luncheon was given for Mme. Tellez, wife of the Mexican ambassador.

✱ ✱

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. S. Osgood Pell will return tomorrow from Aiken, S. C., and will start for California on Feb. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott Jr. have left for Pinehurst.

Mrs. Edward T. Baring has returned from Lenox, where she had been since the autumn.

Desire for Praise at Bottom of This Young Lad's Actions

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading references on child management will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A letter and its reply leave no space for further comment today. The letter:

"Dear Miss Bevans: Will you please help me with my problem?

"I have a 10 year old boy, the oldest of five children, who is quite a puzzle to me. The other children give me no trouble and I am quite grateful, as I would be at my wit's end if had five like his dad, and he surely is a chip of the old block.

"He has two great faults. The first is he has that 'I don't care' attitude. If one of the others tell him his blouse is soiled or his shoe is untied, he says 'I don't care.' And when his younger sister said she could play the piano better than he could because he won't practice, he said again, 'I don't care.' He says he only wants to take lessons one year. He doesn't seem to want to learn things and be able to do things well. He gets ambitious over something for a short while and then forgets about it.

"The other fault is lying. He will lie over nothing at all and make up stories about things that never happened. It is certainly hard to tell when he is telling the truth when he looks at me with his soft, dreamy, brown eyes. I'm afraid sometimes I accuse him of lying when he isn't.

"Will you try and suggest a remedy for his faults?"

The answer:

"It seems to me that the whole trouble may be that your oldest son feels himself put aside for the other children. Without meaning to, haven't either you or your husband done something to give him this impression? This happens frequently with the oldest child when the other children come along and the care of them is so insistent. This could account for all his trying conduct—for his lying, for his 'don't care' attitude, and for his making up stories. From your letter it seems to me that the younger children hector him and are allowed to do so—almost as if you favored them. Naturally, he will pretend he doesn't care to hide his feelings.

"I feel sure that if you would begin to make a real companion of him, to make him sure that you love him and trust him, that there will be a change in his behavior. He needs praise and admiration, not criticism from either his parents or the younger children. Make him feel and make them feel, too, that as the oldest son he has a certain importance in your eyes and in his father's. Build up his confidence in himself. Build up his opinion of himself.

"And try to always take into account his individuality. He is different from the others, you say. Then study him and develop him instead of trying to change him or blame him for being what he is."

Food Talk.

Mrs. A. M. of Chicago writes: "Could you please send me a good banana cake recipe using three cups of flour. How can it be made with sour cream, sweet cream, sweet milk, sour milk, and buttermilk? The other day I baked a banana cake, using two large mashed bananas, sweet milk and baking powder and the cake came out heavy."

In the first place more fat will be needed with buttermilk than with cream. But one needs to know just what kind of cream is meant. There are two kinds of cream bottled for household use—coffee or cereal cream which contains at least 18 per cent fat and whipping cream which contains at least 32 to 40 per cent. Therefore in making our substitutions we will use less butter with whipping than with coffee cream.

Our recipe for banana cake which we used as a standard calls for 2½ tablespoons buttermilk, ¼ cup [4 tablespoons] fat, ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 banana, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda and ¼ tablespoon baking powder. An equally good cake resulted when we substituted 3 tablespoons sour coffee cream for 2½ tablespoons buttermilk and 3 tablespoons fat instead of 4 tablespoons. When 3 tablespoons sour whipping cream was used only 2 tablespoons butter were required to produce a cake with a texture and flavor like our standard made with buttermilk. Sour milk was substituted for the buttermilk without any changes whatever and the results in every way seemed as good as when buttermilk was used. We obtained just as good cake with sweet milk and sweet cream when we made the changes in leavening agents indicated in the following recipes.

In each cake the banana is prepared in the same way—first mashed and then whipped with a rotary egg beater to obtain a pulp of uniform consistency. And it is added to the creamed butter, sugar, and egg in each instance.

BANANA CAKE [BUTTERMILK] NO. I.
1½ cups sugar.
3 bananas [2-3 cup].
2 cups flour.
1 tsp. soda.
½ tsp. baking powder.

BANANA CAKE [SOUR COFFEE CREAM] NO. II.
6 tbsp. butter.
1½ cups sugar.
2 eggs.
2-3 cup banana pulp.
2 cups flour.
1 tsp. soda.
6 tbsp. sour coffee cream.

BANANA CAKE [SWEET MILK] NO. III.
½ cup butter.
1½ cups sugar.
2 eggs.
2-3 cup banana pulp.
2 cups flour.
4 tsp. baking powder.
5 tbsp. sweet milk.

BANANA CAKE [SWEET CREAM] NO. IV.
6 tbsp. butter.
1½ cups sugar.
2 eggs.
2-3 cup banana pulp.
2 cups flour.
4 tsp. baking powder.
6 tbsp. sweet cream.

Cream butter until plastic and light in color. Add sugar in three portions creaming thoroughly after each addition. Then add the beaten yolks of eggs and beat thoroughly. Mash the banana with a potato masher and then whip until smooth. Stir into the egg-sugar-butter mixture. Add the flour, sifted with the baking powder, or baking powder and soda, and the milk in alternate portions, beginning and ending with the flour. Stir until flour is dampened, then beat for about 10 seconds. Stir in the stiffly beaten egg whites until it appears in little flecks on the top of the cake. Then beat for 25 seconds. Pour into layer tins. Bake in a medium oven at 350 degrees F. for 35 minutes.

Yield: 2 layers or 12 servings.

Leading Hospitals make it a point to specify Kotex

WHY do you suppose our outstanding hospitals, staffed by world-famous surgeons, make it a point to specify Kotex? There's more than one reason!

In the first place, it is hygienically safe. In the second place, it is amazingly absorbent—and that is vital for all surgical purposes. Actually—think of this—Kotex is five times as absorbent as the finest surgical cotton! Each one of its delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Adjustable—that's important

These layers of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding can be removed, readjusted to individual needs. That makes a lot of difference not only to hospitals but to you.

Because it is so absorbent and because it absorbs scientifically (not just in one concentrated area, but all over) Kotex naturally stays soft. Another thing—it can be worn on either side with equal protection—both sides are absorbent.

Hospitals need the best. So do you. Safety, security, good health demand it. Why should you be content with anything else when you can buy Kotex everywhere?—at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

You ask for it by name. Simply specify Kotex.

Kotex Company, Chicago.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.
4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

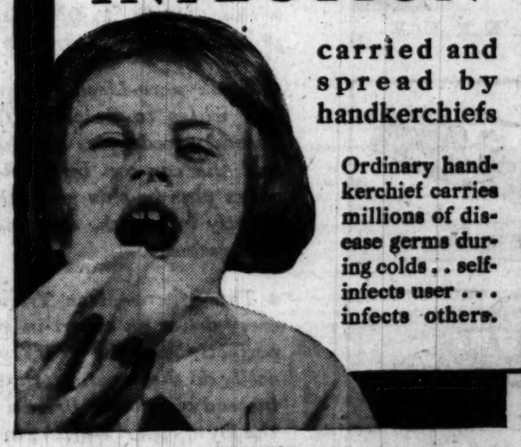
COLD INFECTION



carried and spread by handkerchiefs

Use Kleenex then destroy

IMPORTANT to the health of every man, woman and child in the United States is the latest scientific information about the importance of Kleenex during colds.

This information comes as a result of tests performed on ordinary handkerchiefs used during colds. These handkerchiefs, without exception, were found literally teeming with disease germs. Used even once, a handkerchief may contain over 200,000 germs! These germs are carried back to the face by the ordinary handkerchief . . . but are destroyed when you use Kleenex.

What Kleenex is

Kleenex is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once, then discard. So gentle that irritation is impossible.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as completely sanitary as it looks—and its snowy whiteness is a joy to see.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.

A former professor of bacteriology at Northwestern University performed the tests which resulted in these conclusions.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.
2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

BUICK'S MASTER CONTRIBUTION TO GEAR-SHIFTING AND GETAWAY

Silent Syncro-Mesh in all BUICK Straight Eights

Automotive experts pronounce the Syncro-Mesh Transmission one of the outstanding engineering advancements of the last two decades, comparable in importance to four-wheel brakes and the electric starter.

Here is what this remarkable new feature means to drivers of Buick's four great eights in terms of vastly improved safety, quietness of operation, getaway and handling ease.

● The Syncro-Mesh Transmission adds greatly to the safety of Buick travel. Going down long hills or on icy pavements, when it becomes necessary to slow down—one can shift instantly into second without effort or clash, and the engine is thus used as a brake, providing maximum control at all times.

● The Syncro-Mesh Transmission brings safety and silence to gear-shifting. Gears can be shifted smoothly and silently from first to second, second to high, and from high back to second, always easily, always without clash. . . . Quick and easy shifting provides greater control and safety.

● The Syncro-Mesh Transmission helps to give wings to Buick at the traffic light. Second speed gears are quiet and smooth and the car can be accelerated up to 45 miles plus in this gear, then quickly and quietly into high, thus giving remarkably fast getaway.

● The Syncro-Mesh Transmission makes every driver an expert in gear-shifting. So perfectly are the gears synchronized, so easily do they operate, that shifting is a joy instead of a task. Drive a Buick and know the joy of expert shifting to all gears—quick, quiet, effortless and safe.

All Buick models—priced from $1025 to $2035 at factory—provide the fine advantages of the Syncro-Mesh Transmission as well as Buick's Valve-in-Head Straight Eight Engine, Torque Tube Drive and Insulated Body by Fisher. America awards the Eight as Buick Builds It 56 out of every 100 sales of the fifteen eights in its price class—an extraordinary tribute to extraordinary dollar value.

See the new Buick Straight Eight with Body by Fisher at the Automobile Show at the Coliseum, and at the General Motors Special Showing, Hotel Stevens, January 24th to 31st.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values.

MICHIGAN ROUTS OHIO STATE IN 2D HALF, 40-22

Leads by Only 15-10 at Rest Period.

College Basketball

Michigan, 40; Ohio State, 22.
Missouri, 27; Oklahoma, 14.
North Dakota State, 30; South Dakota State, 24.
Luther, 23; Iowa State Teachers, 12.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Displaying the same accurate shooting that eliminated Chicago from the undefeated ranks of the Big Ten, Michigan's basketball team tonight routed Ohio State, 40 to 22. The Wolverines led at the half, 15 to 10.

It was the second time in their last two conference games that the Wolverines registered 40 or more points. Against Chicago the tally was 41 to 19.

Subs Given Chance.

Norm Daniels, conference scoring leader, again played the leading rôle for Michigan with five baskets and two free throws. He received able assistance from Eveland, who connected for four field goals and a penalty toss, and from Altenhof, who scored 11 points. Weiss was not far behind with three baskets.

All told, Michigan dropped in 15 field goals and added ten shots from the free throw line. Eleven Wolverines saw action, for Coach Veenker produced substitutes when the Buckeyes were distanced.

Ohio State made only seven field goals and counted six free throws. The Buckeyes were powerless before the revived Wolverines, who in their last two games have been clicking like champions.

Lively Starts Scoring.

Less than a minute after the opening whistle, Lively sneaked under the basket, took a pass while in the open and caged a goal. Acting Capt. Whitey Altenhof evened it with a side court shot and then put Michigan ahead with a free throw. Petrie added another from a free throw, but Hinchman crashed through with a long shot. Eveland dodged in for his first bucket.

Fesler evened it with a toss from midcourt. Hoffer put the Buckeyes ahead with another long shot. Weiss replaced Petrie and Daniels caged one over his shoulder. Altenhof made two goal from the free throw line and Eveland came in for another basket to put Michigan four points to the good. Hinchman caged Ohio's first two free throws in seven tries. Eveland tore in for another basket. Altenhof ended the first half scoring with a free throw.

Scoring Business Picks Up.

Lively opened the scoring in the second half by counting twice from the foul line. Weiss evened matters by scoring a basket and Daniels made good on two free throws. Here Larkins cashed in from the foul line and immediately afterward Weiss came in for another short one. Altenhof, closely guarded by the Buckeye forwards, was fouled and again made good.

Irvin, who had replaced Lively, sunk one after rushing through an opening. The Buckeye score stood for minutes while Daniels smared two field goals, Altenhof one and Petrie and Eveland each came through with free throws for Michigan.

Mattison of the Buckeyes signaled his entrance by caging a free throw. Daniels then counted another for Michigan and Mattison evened it with one for Ohio. Weiss crashed in with another basket and Daniels looped his fifth one over his shoulder. Mattison sank a long shot. Eveland and Altenhof scored deuces from under the hoop to end the Wolverine orgy, after which Veenker rushed in replacements. Two foul throws by the Buckeyes were scored in the closing three minutes.

PHILLIES OUTBID DODGERS, RED SOX FOR BUZZ ARLETT

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Russell [Buzz] Arlett, heavy- hitting outfielder of the Oakland baseball club, was sold today to the Philadelphia Nationals. Terms of the cash deal were not announced.

Sale of the big fly chaser to the Phillies culminated a tri-cornered bidding party for his services. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Americans had made offers.

It will be Arlett's first trip to the majors. He started with the Oaks 13 years ago as a pitcher, but injured his arm and was switched to the outfield ten years ago. As an outfielder he has been the most consistent hitter in the Pacific Coast league for the last eight years, never falling below .328. His batting averages from 1923 were: .328, .333, .344, .382, .351, .365, .374, .361. Arlett throws right handed, but is a switch hitter. In six seasons he has batted in a total of 854 runs, and for the last seven years has scored 110 or more runs. He hit 31 home runs in 1930.

KEEPS TITLE

TONY CANZONERI.

Canzoneri's Early Lead Whips Farr

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—(AP)—An early lead, established when he won the first four rounds, earned a victory for Tony Canzoneri, world's lightweight champion, over Johnny Farr of Cleveland in their ten round fight here tonight. A capacity house paid $14,750 to see the fight, which was refereed by Jack Dempsey. Canzoneri weighed 132 pounds and Farr 132¼.

Farr's defensive ability and Canzoneri's apparent lack of condition, said to have resulted from a recent case of influenza, were contributing factors of the tameness of several rounds. Some of the sessions were so slow that hoots and catcalls of the fans accompanied Referee Dempsey's efforts to speed up the scrapping.

At other times, however, the lightweights socked away at each other, and in the last half of the battle Farr made a good showing and frequently rocked the champion with overhand rights and left hooks to the head.

There were no knockdowns. As it was a no decision fight, Farr's only chance to win the title was by a knockout.

Canzoneri apparently had the better of five rounds. Farr took two and three were even.

TO MEET HESS HERE

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, will meet Goldie Hess in the feature ten round bout at the Stadium on Feb. 4. Canzoneri, however, will not be fighting in defense of his title, won from Al Singer.

Canzoneri and Hess met recently in the east, and Tony was given the decision by a slight margin. At that time Hess had trained only three days for the bout, and Harvey Pettit, his manager, believes he will do much better Feb. 4. For that matter, Pettit, in common with most managers when talking of their fighters, says Hess will win.

Fans who saw Hess lose to Jack Berg the other night discovered that he has a good wallop and, if he can fight at long range, may upset the best of boxers.

Larry Johnson will meet Marty Gallagher in another ten round bout the same night. Gallagher is a heavyweight and will have 20 pounds advantage over the Chicago Negro, but Larry rates an excellent opportunity to win. Two other ten round matches will complete the show. Kid Francis, a featherweight, and José Santa, a 265 pound Portuguese heavyweight, 6 feet 9 inches in height, may be on the program.

WALKER AND RISKO SIGNED BY PA STRIBLING

Miami, Fla., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The second scheduled "big" fight of the current winter season came into official being today as Pa Stribling obtained the city commission's sanction for a Feb. 24 show between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Johnny Risko, Cleveland baker boy.

The affair will precede by ten days Frank Bruen's show between Jimmy Maloney, Boston, and Primo Carnera. Stribling said he signed both Walker and Risko for the fight several days ago.

Pa said Risko and Walker would come here within a few days to train for their battle to be held in Madison Square Garden's huge wooden stadium.

STRONG MAN OF STEEL MILL EYES GOLDEN GLOVES

Summerdale A.C. Names 30 Fighters.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Summerdale Athletic club, 2519 Devon avenue, according to announcement yesterday by its secretary, Joseph A. Crowley, will enter a team of 30 boys in the Golden Gloves sectional tournaments. The Summerdale club is one of the best equipped in Chicago.

"This organization," Mr. Crowley writes, "is willing to lend whatever assistance is needed to boys who are not in a position to have the use of a gymnasium with a staff of trainers."

Should Begin Training.

Although three weeks [the first sectional tournament starts Feb. 16 at the Ashland boulevard auditorium] is sufficient time to prepare for the bouts, boys should not delay their training. Most of them probably are in fair condition, youth being their greatest asset, but endurance will decide in the eliminations as much as ability.

The bouts at Ashland boulevard auditorium, the Fronton and White City, each will be three rounds. Each round will last two minutes. A fourth round may be ordered by the judges in event of a tie, but a decision must be given after four rounds.

These six minute bouts [eight minutes at the most] will test stamina as in no other sport. Action is continuous, except for the periods between rounds, and there's no weight as heavy as a pair of boxing gloves supported by tired or insufficiently trained muscles.

Young Steel Workers Enters.

Benjamin Zingor, 1419 West Superior street, yesterday entered the light heavyweight tournament at Ashland auditorium. Ben has been in the United States only two years. One of his friends brought the entry to THE TRIBUNE sports department.

"Ben is a strong boy. He can't speak English very well as yet, but he can lift a 100 pound weight with

20,000 Wrestling Fans Hear Londos Win by a Grunt

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Such grunting and squealing, such thumping and pounding as you never heard in your life, broke the recent stillness of Madison Square Garden when Jack Curley's herd of wrestlers, 16 head of imported and domestic percheron stock, nigh on to 4,000 pounds in all, wrestled tonight for the heavyweight championship of the world.

There were more than 20,000 customers and the astounded cashiers, accustomed to nickel and dime computations, counted the house four times before they would trust themselves to certify a total business of $59,400, a new indoor box office record for this event.

In the principal contest, James Londos, the defending champion, conquered Jim McMillen, an old football player from the University of Illinois, in 57 minutes with an embrace officially described as a half Nelson and headlock, with just a dash of angostura and the whites of two eggs.

McMillen Does Pretty Well.

This effect was not achieved, however, until McMillen had fetched the Greek some positively gosh-almighty kicks in the pants and lower abdomen, and flat-of-the-hand smacks upon his classic profile, and tied him into such a variety of running-bow-knots as the frame of mortal man has never accommodated itself to before.

McMillen was one of the more or less unseen colleagues of Red Grange in his days at the University of Illinois. He was a guard and once was captain of the team but, like James J. Walker during the reign of Grover A. Whalen in New York, every time he faced a camera his subordinate was there ahead of him, taking all the bows. McMillen is large and blond, with a slightly tremulous middle and a reputation for clean living, fair dealing, and right thing.

Remains in Champion Group.

There are several other herds, each with its own world champion, but as the various groups do not recognize one another artistically, each champion feels serene in his own jurisdiction and business is very good.

The spectacle attracted a large delegation of those socialy refined sportsmen and their ladies who used to frequent the prize fights in the Garden, but dropped away when the ringside prices failed to adjust themselves to the stock market quotations. Mr. Curley's maximum price is only $5.50, and the millionaire trade has been strangely sensitive to the lure of the bargain.

Londos Too Experienced

In the main exhibition McMillen was generally the aggressor, but it was apparent from the start that he was only a country boy playing a city boy with the city boy's dice. Londos knew how, and McMillen was still a comparative apprentice.

William Muldoon, the prize fight commissioner, a reformed wrestler himself, sat in the first row glaring suspiciously throughout the long entertainment, nibbling little sprigs from his sparse mustache in very apparent unbelief. Mr. Muldoon refuses to admit that there was ever an honest wrestler with the exceptions of himself and Hercules, and he has his doubts about Hercules.

Three other college athletes adorned the evening's cast, grunting their grunts in intellectual accents. Herbie Freeman of the College of the City of New York beat Tom Marvin, but mind was inferior to bone and other substantial matter in the other two.

Hoosier Loses Bout.

Thus Ralph Wilson once of the University of Indiana described as a doctor of something or other, lost to Ray Steele, and Jim Clinkstock of the Haskell Indian institute yielded to Ferenc Holuban, the neckless Hungarian, without too much disorder.

Will Carey, the Garden's promoter of prize fights, was quite carried away by the social and commercial success of the show.

"This wrestling," said he, "how long has it been going on?"

POTPOURRI.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual Silver Skates Derbies have established remarkable records since their inception in 1917. From the standards of spectator attendance, number of entries and actual starters, they have set new marks. Not the least remarkable, perhaps, is the fact that not one of the fifteen events has been postponed through the vagaries of Chicago weather in January.

It is true some of the races have been run under unfavorable ice conditions. Once or twice there has been great temptation to postpone them. The management has felt, however, that if the races possibly could be skated they should be held as scheduled, because postponement interferes with the training plans of contestants, and usually another date would detract from the interest of races held by other organizations.

We congratulate the officials and the west park police on their handling of the races at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday.

It is noteworthy, but perhaps of no significance, that of the 21 games played so far in the Western conference basketball race, only one has been won by the team behind at the intermission. This was the Chicago-Minnesota affair which the Maroons, trailing at the half, 19 to 14, took 32 to 31 by their proficiency in sinking free throws. Seven of the twenty-one games were won by a margin of one or two points.

Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's all-around athlete, lived up to his reputation in the basketball game at Northwestern Saturday night. He caged four baskets, two from difficult angles, but did not gather any free throws. The spectacular shot of the night however, was Bert Riel's long basket from just beyond midfloor as the gun barked the end of the first half. It gave the Wildcats a 14 to 12 lead.

HALL WINS IN 68 INNINGS OF CUES, YAWNS, SNORES

Whips Reiselt, 50-42, as Billiard Fans Snooze.

BY FRENCH LANE.

After eight days of furious billiards the four leaders in the race for the world's three cushion championship found themselves running a dead heat and tied for first place early this morning.

The last of the undefeated stars to bite the dust was Otto Reiselt. Allen Hall of Chicago defeated him last night, 50 to 42, in 68 innings which was under way until the midnight hour arrived. The players tied for the lead are Layton, Reiselt, Hall, and Thurnblad.

Young Jake Snoozes.

The game was so slow that both Mr. Hall and Mr. Reiselt looked a bit guilty at times because they were keeping their public out so late. Along close to midnight when each had been missing one shot after another Young Jake Schaefer was discovered snoozing in his seat in the press section.

Up in a remote corner on the Wabash avenue side of the arena loud snores could be heard. The culprit who was sleeping with his mouth wide open was Brick Owens, the American league umpire. Over in another section Dave Barry, the box fight referee, was counting "one-two-three-four" and up to fourteen, and was still counting "one-two-three-four" and up to fourteen when Hall scored the fiftieth shot. Referee Barry will never know who won the match until he slips out on the back porch and grabs this morning's newspaper.

Peabody Counts On and On.

Jim Peabody, the amateur balk line champion, who was acting as official scorer, also dozed at times and didn't make a miscount. Rollo Organ, the old trapshooter, yawned as the play went on and on, but was too much of a gentleman to let sleep overcome him.

So it went as the two great heroes of the tournament, their algebra, geometry and even their plain old arithmetic failing them, staggered on through 68 innings to decide a contest which most any amateur could have won in much shorter time.

The crowd which turned out for the match was the largest of the tournament. Every seat was taken an hour before play started. The overflow throng was draped up the stairway all the way from the second floor of the Congress Bank building, where the playing arena is located, to the seventh floor, where numerous Chicago turf somebodies maintain their private sanctums. The crowd would have probably waited for the final returns if Messrs. Hall and Reiselt had not missed so many shots every time the battle became exciting.

Hall Otto's Master.

There was no question of Hall being the master of Reiselt last night. He played the mathematical Dutchman off his feet and left him such difficult shots that at times Reiselt, who occasionally displays a very bad temper, was about ready to fly at somebody's throat when he missed one close one after another.

Reiselt led until the 20th inning, and then Hall went on past him. Hall enjoyed a fairly comfortable margin for the rest of the game, but the crowd was always yelling for Reiselt to roll up a long run, come from behind, and triumph. The score of their engagement:

	0	2	1	0	0	1	0	5	0	0	1	0	0	2	0

Charley Jordan, the Pacific coast champion, yesterday afternoon defeated Tim Denton, tall, lanky, experienced poker face from Kansas City, 50 to 36, in 55 innings. It was the first victory the player from the coast has scored since the tournament opened. And it was the first break in the luck that came his way.

Borrows Reiselt's Cue.

Before the start of his game with Denton, Jordan tossed his own cue into Wabash avenue and borrowed one from Otto Reiselt. He phoned his wife, who had mourned with him during all his early defeats, to stay away and said that he was going to lose another game.

Then Jordan began to play like a champion. Reiselt, Hall, Layton and all the other stars have missed shots which he made. He was complete master of Denton at every stage and here's the figure story of his triumph:

Frank Scoville, the 52 year old sprinkler salesman from Buffalo, who just quit the amateurs and who became so excited on the first night of the tournament after he had trounced Johnny Layton, the world's champion, that he almost forgot how to play billiards, staged a sort of comeback in the other match yesterday afternoon and won easily from Jacobs, the St. Louis hope, 50 to 31, in 51 innings.

Plays Like Champion.

Scoville played like a champion all the way and clipped off the billiards as fast as many of the tournament leaders have been able to do in the early days of the title meet. Here's the way he tossed the harpoon into Jacobs:

SCOVILLE —	1	1	0	1	0	0	2	2	0	1

REVEALS TERMS OF AGREEMENT AS GRID COACH

May Sue School for $16,750 Salary.

Jessup Under Fire

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president of the University of Iowa, today was charged by the educational institutions committee of the Iowa house of representatives with being largely responsible for Iowa's ouster from the western athletic conference.

The assertion was one of twenty charges listed by the committee in a resolution calling for an investigation of the university administration. The document was filed with the chief clerk this afternoon and will be introduced tomorrow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Indiana university's athletic pot threatens to boil over because of fuel supplied by Harlan O. [Pat] Page, who recently was requested to and did resign as Hoosier football coach.

Page, in Indianapolis yesterday, intimated that he was contemplating filing suit against the university to force payment on the unexpired portion of his contract. He claims an amount of $16,750 as salary from Jan. 1, 1931, to April 1, 1932.

Further complications, possibly of an embarrassing nature, may come from a rumor that part of Page's salary since his coaching term started in 1926 was to come from an alumni "slush fund" and a report that the original of his contract had vanished from the minutes of a university faculty meeting.

Makes Documents Public.

In support of his claim Page made public the text of various documents touching on his case. He also raised the plea that so long as his resignation had not been accepted as submitted to the school authorities, he considered he still was occupying the coaching position. The athletic board at its meeting last Saturday rejected the resignation but at the same time passed a resolution declaring Page was "out" and that E. C. Hayes, track and freshman grid coach, had been named for the vacancy.

Presumably the resignation was not accepted because of the clause which would have obligated the school to pay off the $16,750 which Page claimed as due him. Another possible cause for rejection was that the last paragraph of the resignation contained a clause by which Page would be "completely exoperated" if a subsequent intercollegiate conference investigation should result in disapproval of any actions taken by the faculty athletic board or the university trustees.

Says Alumni Didn't Pay.

In answer to the rumors about the alumni having agreed to share the burden of his salary, Page yesterday insisted he never had been paid by any except university officials. He claimed to know nothing of reports that a portion of his salary was derived from funds placed by alumni in Chicago and Indianapolis banks.

Page's last contract, signed in 1929 and calling for three years, provided for a salary of approximately $12,500 annually. This exceeded the salary of Zora G. Clevenger, Indiana's director of athletics. It has been reported that between $4,000 and $5,000 of the $12,500 was to come each year from the alleged alumni fund.

In the Big Ten there is no rule against a coach receiving a salary in excess of the head of any other university department. Neither is there a rule prohibiting salary contributions from alumni. The Big Ten merely frowns on the practice, according to Maj. Griffith, conference commissioner.

Tells of Request to Quit.

The present disturbance started Dec. 26, 1930, when Page received a registered letter in which he was informed that the Indiana faculty athletic committee had deemed it unwise for him to continue as head football coach. It was explained in the letter that he was being given notice at that time so that he could adjust his affairs accordingly. The committee also promised not to give the matter any publicity. The letter was signed by W. J. Moenkhaus, chairman of the faculty board.

Page spent the following two weeks visiting various of the school authorities advising them that such action "would be a great mistake" and also that they had "Definite obligations which were not being fulfilled." This obligation, according to a copy produced by Page, had to do with a recommendation made by the university trustees on June 7, 1929. At that time the trustees suggested, that the athletic board of control assure Page his employment would be renewed or extended for two years.

Reveals Letter to Trustees.

The above action of the trustees was taken following receipt of a letter from a committee appointed to settle the uncertainty then existing about the coaching position. Page has a copy of the letter, which follows:

"To the board of trustees, Indiana university:

"Your committee appointed to confer with the athletic board of control and adjust the matter of the employment of a football coach has conferred with the athletic board of control and learned that this board has therefore approved a proposed three year contract with Coach Page.

"Your committee then conferred

TOMMY GROGAN BEATS DUBLINSKY IN TEN ROUNDS

Chicago Fighter Down for Count in Fourth.

Fight Decisions

At New Haven, Conn.—Buddy Howard, New Haven, beat Chuck Burns, San Antonio, Tex. [10].

For the first seven rounds Dublinsky pitted his boxing skill against Grogan's rough and ready style. At the end of that time, finding himself far behind on points, he tried fighting Grogan with his own medicine.

The first three rounds failed to produce any punching but in the fourth Grogan, after taking a hard right to the head, sent Dublinsky down for a two count with a left hook. Several more of Grogan's hard punches had the Chicago boy in a bad way in the fifth, but he managed to survive the round.

Grogan Wins 6th, 7th.

Blood flowing generously from a cut opened over Dublinsky's right eye in the sixth round was a handicap to the Chicago youngster as he tried hard in the last two rounds to gain lost ground. But it was the same old story, Grogan's slugging winning by a wide margin over Dublinsky's light left jabs, which he varied with an occasional right cross that did but small damage.

SCHOOF WHIPS DANIELS.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, fighting his second major bout in four days, gave Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, a terrific ten round beating here tonight in the Argonne A. A. feature contest. The Bostonian worked a stinging left to the head and both hands to the body and carried seven of the rounds by wide margins.

Schaaf weighed 200, Daniels 185.

Daniels was rugged and game, but lacked the experience to cope with Schaaf. The latter had great success with a hard straight left to the head that kept Daniels too far off balance to land many of his dangerous blows, wide right hooks to the head.

Schaaf paid strict attention to the advice of Jack Sharkey, his co-manager and second, and never gave the hard punching Dane a chance to come to close quarters until he was too weak to cause much damage.

LOUGHRAN, GROSS DRAW.

FREEMAN BEATS MURDOCK.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Tommy Freeman, welterweight champion, defeated Eddie Murdock of Oklahoma in a ten round nontitle bout here tonight. Both men came in over the welterweight limit of 148 pounds.

Zaharias Pins Kirilenko in 2 Straight Falls

A pair of rough members of the heavyweight wrestling gentry collided last night at the Broadway armory. George Zaharias, of Colorado, was the rougher, and so won on straight falls from Matros Kirilenko, burly Russian.

To a chorus of boos from 1,200 spectators, Zaharias won the first fall in 23:10 with the use of four flying tackles and a reverse headlock.

At the start of the second fall Kirilenko, with three headlocks and a leg split, had his foe on the verge of defeat, but Zaharias came out of a headlock, bounded back from the ropes and knocked Kirilenko across the ring. He quickly applied two headlocks, then lifted Matros for an airplane spin and the match was all over. The second fall came in 6:35.

The four supporting bouts resulted in three newcomers to Chicago being returned winner. Lloyd Burdick, former University of Illinois football and mat star, disposed of Ben Ginsberg in 6:40 with a body scissors. Billy [Barefoot] Evans, Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma, spilled Wild Bill Nelson, St. Louis, in 6:26 with a body lock and Hans Bauer, Germany, downed Pat McKay, Kentucky, with a body slam in 25:43.

SHAMROCKS FACE ST. LOUIS FLIERS ON STADIUM ICE

The St. Louis American league hockey team, which again prefers to be known as the Fliers since it started to climb from the depths of the standing, will meet the Shamrocks tonight at the Stadium.

The Missouri sextet began the season as the Fliers, but this label seemed hardly appropriate when they skidded to the bottom of the league after a few weeks' play, and they became the Americans. Then Manager Ken MacKenzie obtained several new players. the team started to win, and they went back to the original name.

Rheaume Star Goalie.

Herb Rheaume, who came to St. Louis from the Boston Tigers, appears to be the chief factor in the Fliers' recent ascent. Rheaume is the goal tender, and in the last seven contests he has permitted opponents to score only eight times. Rheaume made forty-five stops against the Shamrocks when St. Louis defeated the Chicago team, 2 to 1, two weeks ago.

A couple of the Fliers have recovered from injuries which kept them out of the lineup in the last few games. Syl Acaster, who had suffered a broken collar bone, will be back at center, and Chubby Scott's dislocated shoulder has improved so much he will play left wing.

Shamrocks in Shape.

Bouncer Taylor is the only Shamrock who will not be available for duty. Capt. Corbett Dennenay and Peewee Wiseman are ready to go, Curly Headley and George Burland will be retained in defense positions, it was said last night:

Lineups:

SHAMROCKS.		FLIERS.
Timmins	G	Rheaume
Headley	D	Creasey
Burland	D	Kendall

CALMES KNOCKS OUT VEGAS IN SECOND ROUND

Baxter Calmes, Wichita, Kas., heavyweight, made short work of Pete Vegas, Grand Haven, Mich., in their main event match at White City last night, knocking him out in the second round of the scheduled eight round fight.

Vegas weighed 202 pounds to Calmes' 172½, but couldn't make an impression, as the Wichita fighter gave him an overhauling.

with Coach Page and having considered the matter from many angles, your committee now recommends that Coach Page be retained for the year ending April 1, 1930 at the annual salary of $12,500 and further that in view of the moral obligation existing by reason of the approval of the three year contract by the athletic board of control that the board of trustees recommend that the athletic board of control assure Mr. Page that this employment will be renewed or extended for two additional years with an increase in salary of $500 for each year, except in case of incapacity.

"[Signed] B. F. Long, Ora L. Wildermuth, C. M. Niezer, committee."

Trustees O. K. Report.

On June 7, 1929, the above report was submitted to and accepted by the board of trustees of Indiana university. [Signed] John W. Cravens, secretary board of trustees.

"The trouble all began," said Page yesterday, "back in 1926, when Mr. Clevenger and Mr. Coval [Willis Coval, Indianapolis alumnus] came to my house and invited me to come to Indiana as coach. I don't remember the exact figures, but something like $4,000 was to come from university administrators, and I did not find out that Clevenger did not know of the extra $4,000. All he is supposed to know about was the $6,500, $7,500, and $8,500. I had a tough time getting some of that money. In fact, I had to sign notes for some of it at some banks. I never dealt with a man outside the faculty athletic committee and the university administrators. After three years all this changed."

Made Four Demands.

Following receipt of the letter informing him his services were no longer needed, Page on Jan. 9, 1931, sent his resignation to Prof. Moenkhaus. In his resignation Page made the following demands:

2. In consideration of the above the university bursar, U. H. Smith, is to pay in full all obligations incurred by the actions of the faculty board and trustees committee cited in all previous agreements, extensions thereof, and accepted report of the board of trustees of Indiana university dated June 7, 1929.

3. It is agreed the above obligations include salary from Jan. 1, 1931, to April 1, 1932, total amount being $16,750.

4. It is further agreed that if upon investigation by the intercollegiate conference there should be a disapproval of any past actions taken by the faculty athletic board members or trustees committee, Mr. H. O. Page is completely exonerated.

The faculty athletic board refused to accept the terms of the resignation. At Bloomington, Ind., last night, Prof. Moenkhaus explained that the "agreement" had been rejected by the university authorities and that they had voted 'Page's services terminated April 1, 1931. This meeting took place last Saturday.

Page's further claims that one of the original stipulations in his contract had hardly been fulfilled by the school authorities. This was that he was to be in charge of freshman athletic material and to assist whenever needed in other branches of sports.

"CONTRACT ENDS APRIL 1"

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—H. O. [Pat] Page's contract to coach football at Indiana university terminates on April 1, 1931, Dr. W. J. Moenkhaus, chairman of the athletic committee, asserted tonight. The committee informed Page it was willing to pay him up until that time.

Regarding Page's claim for $16,750, which he says is due him by the terms of an agreement with a committee of the university trustees, Dr. Moenkhaus made the following statement:

"Mr. Page's contract terminates April 1, 1931. In the beginning we employed Coach Page for a three year term, but for the last two years we have been employing him on a year by year basis with certain stipulations clearly set out. The contract terminates April 1, 1931, and the committee has never had anything in mind other than meeting its obligations to Mr. Page up to that date.

"The obligations we have expressly stated in our letter to him."

California Has Plan to Guard Quail Future

BY BOB BECKER.

Many states are much concerned about their present quail crop and the future supply of these valuable birds, but it looks as if California had gotten the jump on midwest states by the inauguration of a policy which will bear watching. California has checker boarded the entire state with a system of quail sanctuaries on private farms.

Already more than 500 of these refuges have been established with the permission of the land owners. The conservation department arranges with the farmers for the feeding and protection of the bob whites and the department sees that the refuge is given a thorough combing for predatory animals and birds which, if left unmolested, would kill the game birds. In many instances the land owners are willing to look after the birds without much assistance from the state.

Landowner Is Chief Factor.

This plan of California's, just like many others devised to secure more game, goes right back to the landowner, the farmer on whose property wild life must find shelter, water, and food. Conservationists everywhere realize that without the farmers' help we cannot have more game birds. Sportsmen must consider this fact if they want game birds to hunt and land on which to do their shooting.

In California the state is expecting this situation as a result of their state-wide system of refuges and farmers living close to these sanctuaries will be able to sell hunting privileges to sportsmen who want quail hunting. The refuges will produce quail which will find their way out of the closed land and thus give sportsmen some good fun.

Consider Game a Crop.

It must be evident by this time that no longer can 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 American hunters expect to have an abundance of quail, rabbits, and pheasants without the farmers' active cooperation, and no longer can we hunters take game from this farmer or that farmer without paying him for this secondary crop. Game birds and game animals must be considered a "crop" if we are going to have any hunting in the future.

We have a hunch that California's system will work, providing the conservation department places in the hands of the farmers a neat little booklet telling them the basic facts about necessary cover, food, and water for quail, and give help in exterminating vermin on their property.

Central Division K. of C. Quintets Play Tomorrow

The central division teams of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will see their first action tomorrow night at the 124th field artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The contests will be regular league games and will bring together Leo XIII. vs. De La Salle, St. James vs. St. Patrick, and Fort Dearborn vs. St. Augustine.

Morgan Park, Central Y Prep Cage Teams Divide

Morgan Park High and Central Y. M. C. A. Day school divided a pair of practice basketball games on the south siders' court yesterday, the city league heavies winning, 32 to 24, while the Central Y lights took a 12 to 8 victory. Kephart led the Morgan Park heavies with thirteen points, while Tatham featured for Central Y with three baskets.

Schroeder and Stack Renew Ice Duel Tomorrow

Frank Stack of the Amphion Athletic club and Eddie Schroeder of the Walton Arrows will have their final Chicago dual on outdoor ice tomorrow night in the derby sponsored by the Harmony Athletic club at Garfield park.

Stack, who is in training again after an attack of influenza which kept him out of competition for a week, will meet Schroeder and several eastern stars in the national championships at Oconomowoc, Wis., next Saturday and Sunday, and will not return again to Chicago until the latter part of February.

Stack will make a bid for the Canadian title, to be settled at six distances in Ottawa, Feb. 6-7, and the North American crown, up for contention at Lake Placid and Saranac Lake, N. Y., later in the month. Schroeder and two other Chicago skaters also will represent Illinois in the eastern title tourney.

Another Chicago star, Elizabeth Du Bois of the Majestic Skating club, who recently set a new national record for the half mile, will represent Chicago in the women's North American championships at Ottawa, Feb. 6 and 7, to be held in conjunction with the Canadian championships. Helen Bina of the Charles V. Barrett A. C. is also expected to make the trip.

These and more than 500 skaters, including Al Kucera, Cornie Ewert, Ray Wondra, Dick McCarter, Wally Mitchell, Ed Stundl, Wilbur Marks, Victor Ronchetti, Sig Jablonoski, Priscilla Richey, Marie Fierce, and Faith Schoen, will race in the Harmony derby tomorrow.

The city championship derby, originally scheduled for Humboldt park next Saturday, has been indefinitely postponed. It was announced yesterday by Frank Kalteaux, president of the Northwest Park district, which had planned to sponsor the skate tournament. Absence of the city's leading stars at the national championships caused the postponement.

THREE NATIONAL RACING CHAMPIONS TELL DE SOTO STORY IN PERSON AT SHOW

Billy Arnold
Peter DePaolo
Harry Hartz

Billy Arnold, winner of 1930 Indianapolis 500-mile race and A. A. A. champion, 1930.

● Three of America's greatest racing drivers use De Soto cars for their personal transportation. They are Billy Arnold, present national champion and winner of the 1930 Indianapolis race, Peter De Paolo, a former winner of the 500-mile classic and twice holder of the A. A. A. season championship and Harry Hartz, also a former national champion. ¶ One of these great racing drivers will be in the De Soto booth at the Coliseum constantly. ¶ They're great fellows to meet and they can tell many a thrilling tale of desperate contests on the track. They will be glad to answer any questions you want to ask them about automobiles. ¶ These men know motor cars. They know how to build them as well as how to drive them. They were particularly impressed by the combination of speed and safety that they found in the new De Sotos. ¶ You will like the new De Soto Six. It is an even better car than those illustrious predecessors which hung up new sales records and established new standards for moderately-priced cars. A narrow-profile radiator, a longer hood, and the low-swung construction made possible by a new double-drop frame construction, give it a racy, swanky appearance. Its performance is smoother and more powerful. ¶ You will like the new De Soto Eight, too. The Unisteel body has been made even more luxurious. The appearance of lithe grace is heightened by a longer hood and a narrow-profile radiator. The engine is larger, developing 77 horsepower with effortless ease. ¶ But let one of these three "Knights of the Roaring Road" tell you the whole story.

BAD STOMACH MADE LIKE NEW. SLEEPS WELL NOW

"What a difference in my health! ACIDINE has made my stomach like new. I have no pains in my limbs. My bowels are regular. Now I sleep all night," says Asa B. Hoy, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

DELAWARE'S PEOPLE SHARE IN DU PONT ESTATE

Family Gets Bulk of $100,000,000 Fortune

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Former Senator T. Coleman Du Pont, who died on Nov. 11, bequeathed all of his stock in Coleman Du Pont Road, Inc., one of many large holdings, to his son, Francis V. Du Pont, to use for "the best interests of the people of the state of Delaware," it was disclosed today when the will was made public.

When the document disposing of an estate estimated at more than $100,000,000 was filed soon after Mr. Du Pont's death, only a brief statement that the family would share the estate was issued.

The bulk of the real estate, which includes thousands of acres in Delaware, Maryland, New York and elsewhere, was bequeathed to Mrs. Du Pont. She receives the old mill property on the Brandywine, the Irvington-on-Hudson home of Alexander Hamilton, which Mr. Du Pont purchased about five years ago, and his city home here as well as all of his other Wilmington property. She also receives the yacht "Tech."

One of the three daughters, Mrs. Alice Du Pont Buck, the wife of Gov. Buck, was bequeathed Buena Vista and its contents in New Castle Hundred, Del., and the son was given real estate in Dorchester county, Md.

Provision was made by Mr. Du Pont so that his other daughters, Mrs. Holliday S. Meeds of this city and Mrs. John Willcox Donaldson Jr., of Irvington-on-Hudson, might share equally with his son and Mrs. Buck.

SOVIET REFUSES BRITISH REQUEST FOR SLAVE PROBE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The soviet government has returned a firm "No" to the British government's request for an investigation of charges that convict and slave labor are employed in exporting Russian timber.

In the house of commons this afternoon Dr. H. Dalton, undersecretary for foreign affairs, said Foreign Commissar Litvinoff had informed the British ambassador in Moscow, Sir Esmond Ovey, that no official request for an investigation into Russian labor conditions could be considered any more than a similar request could be considered by the British authorities.

Convicts, M. Litvinoff said, are employed by the soviet union as by other countries on such work as road building and that matter was the sole concern of the soviet government.

"OU-LA-LA" ACTRESS FINDS SELF AT SEA QUITE UNEXPECTEDLY

Saturday night she went to San Pedro and boarded the Dutch steamer Drechtdyk to bid some friends adieu. The ship sailed at 9 o'clock, and some time later, when the actress went to the deck, she saw the ocean where the gang plank had been.

The next stop is Cristobal, Canal Zone, Feb. 4, her radio message to studio directors revealed.

"RED CROSS WILL HELP MILLION DROUGHT VICTIMS

Within another month the American Red Cross will be relieving 1,000,000 victims of the drought, by far the largest number of persons ever under its care at one time. That was the word received yesterday by James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, from the national Red Cross headquarters. During the Mississippi floods 350,000 persons were cared for.

Gifts totaling $15,000 reached the Chicago chapter yesterday is response to the appeal for the Chicago area's quota of the $10,000,000 national drive. Most of the gifts were small, many being one dollar and two dollar bills accompanied by notes that spoke of the privation which the donor had undergone to make the contribution.

In addition to yesterday's gifts, the Chicago office reported that nearly $100,000 has been given by corporations and individuals. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross relief fund, and sent to the Chicago chapter headquarters, 616 South Michigan avenue.

BEWARE OF COLDS!

"ONLY a cold." What a stupid remark! For every cold is a threat—a warning. Every hour makes you more miserable—weakens your resistance—makes it easier for your cold to develop into something far worse.

Go after your cold HARD . . . and end it in a hurry. Rub Mentholatum vigorously on your chest. Cover it with flannel to speed its action.

Then drink plenty of water to carry the poisons from the cold out of your system.

RESERVE BANK CITES DEC. RISE IN AUTO SALES

Reversal of Trend Encourages Trade.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is both natural and customary for the annual automobile shows, with New York and Chicago taking the lead this month, to engender enthusiasm in the automobile industry. But there also is statistical data to support the hopes and forcasts of leaders in the industry that 1931 will prove a more active and profitable year.

For example, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank reported yesterday, in its monthly business review, that automobile sales in the middle west in December were larger than in November, which is contrary to the usual trend. And the percentage of cars bought for cash was higher than either in November or in December, 1929. Furthermore, stocks of cars in dealers' hands were abnormally low and not much more than half the number at the end of 1929.

Bring Out New Models.

"Automobiles sold in the middle west gained moderately during December over the preceding month," the review says. "In 1929 during the same period a declining trend was in evidence and in the majority of other years December sales have declined. The increases shown last month may be largely attributed to the bringing out of new models by certain manufacturers somewhat in advance of the usual schedule.

"Comparisons with December, 1929, in both wholesale and retail distribution, though remaining unfavorable, showed improvement over those of November. Cars sold at wholesale during 1930 totaled almost 50 per cent under 1929, while the number sold at retail was a little over 30 per cent less. The heavy decline in wholesale distribution may be partly accounted for by that in retail sales and by the unwillingness of dealers to carry the normal volume of cars. Stocks on hand at the end of December continued their downward trend and averaged more than 40 per cent under the close of December, 1929.

"Deferred payment sales in December totaled 37 per cent of aggregate retail sales, which ratio is somewhat smaller than a month previous and compares with 47 per cent in December, 1929."

Stewart-Warner Drops Dividend.

Less cheerful was the annual report of the Stewart-Warner corporation, one of the largest makers of automobile accessories. As a result of small earnings the directors yesterday omitted the quarterly dividends, which had been 50 cents in the second and third quarters of 1930 and 25 cents in the first quarter.

Net earnings for 1930 were $1,262,-271, equivalent to nearly 98 cents a share on 1,290,598 shares of stock. There was a deficit of $721,171 in the final quarter, due to slack business and also the writing down of inventories and setting up of contingent reserves. Net earnings for 1929 were $3,338,928, or $5.37 a share on 1,273,-490 shares, and net earnings for the fourth quarter of 1929 were $412,557. President C. B. Smith predicted improvement in business this year.

Furniture Business.

The furniture industry in the middle west showed less than the usual seasonal slackening last month, according to the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Orders fell off only 10 per cent from November, compared with an average decline in other years of 18 per cent. Moreover, shipments, which were slightly in excess of new orders, totaled only 8 per cent under November, compared with an average recession approximating 19 per cent. Orders and shipments were 23 and 45 per cent, respectively, under the December, 1929, totals.

A mild increase in commercial loans is shown in the federal reserve board's weekly report on the position of member banks. Such loans increased $14,-000,000 in the week ended Jan. 21, whereas loans on securities dropped $27,000,000. The banks increased their investment in government securities $39,000,000, but reduced their holdings of other securities by $19,000,000. Their deposits declined $142,000,000.

Regal Shoe Store Chain Acquires Emerson Group

More than twenty stores have been added to the chain operated by the Regal Shoe company of Boston through the transfer of leases of stores formerly constituting the Emerson chain, an operating subsidiary to the Emerson Shoe company of Rockland, Mass. The expansion jumps the total Regal stores from 83 to 105.

Favors Lower Taxes to Encourage Reforesting

BY SCRUTATOR.

The persistent though gradual fading of the importance of the lumber industry in the United States is as distressing through the loss of employment caused by the process as in the threat that future generations may lack enough timber for their needs.

In the immediate present the former reason is indeed more worthy of stress. Although alarmists have produced charts and figures to show that in forty years all our merchantable timber will be exhausted, if the rate of consumption prevailing a year or two back should be maintained, it is still true that lumber interests cannot now market anything like the amount of their product they can take from the existing forests.

Competition from materials that can be substituted has been hurting the lumber industry for many years. Style in architecture has favored mineral products. Steel and manufactured boards have had their effects in a drawing away of trade from the lumberman. More recently there has been the competition of the foreign producer of lumber, and in particular the Russian soviet system.

Studies Russian Menace.

The seriousness of this was pointed out only a few days ago by Dr. Nelson C. Brown of the New York state school of forestry, who has started a study of the southern lumber industry for the tariff commission, which is attempting to deal with this Russian menace.

Russia has forest areas four times the size of those in the United States, or in the aggregate equal to the whole area of this country. Russian lumber is entering American ports in alarming volume, is dominating the British markets and threatens to take other foreign business.

"All Russian industry is communized," Dr. Brown added. "With stumpage costing nothing and with indentured or forced labor, Russia can lay down lumber in the world markets at prices no other producing center can touch. Already Russian lumber is being sold in the east at prices ruinous to our domestic industry."

Employs Many People.

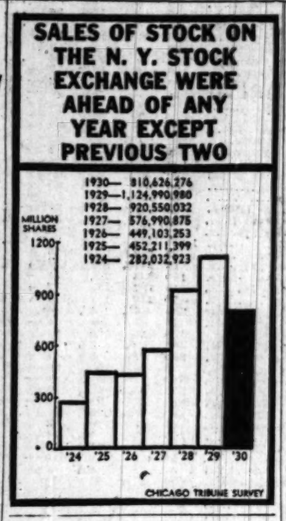
Here it may be correct to recall that 600,000 persons are directly employed in the lumber industry in America, under normal circumstances, that in eleven states it employs more than any other industry and that more than half the population in five states gain a livelihood from lumbering. There is nothing new in these statements, nor in the one that eight billions are invested in the business. The problem has been outlined; the solution is slowly being indicated.

Doubtless the Russian imports can be barred by tariff regulations. There will still remain the steps necessary to keep the domestic business of American lumbermen, in high volume. These involve a guaranteeing of the supply of timber as well as finding places to sell it as it is cut.

Future of Lumber in South.

Dr. Brown believes that the south will be the future seller of most of our timber. First, because it has vast areas that are fit only for forests, and second, because the long warm seasons and rainfall are more favorable for growth of trees than the north. But if acres are turned from plowland back into woodland, the lumber industry must meet the conditions. Already it is meeting some of them. The big saw mill is going. Half the southern pine output comes now from small mills, including even tractor outfits, and it is believed a larger proportion will come from the same sources in the future.

It is unfortunate for forestry that at present lumbering is not prosperous. If it were, lumbermen would be more interested in replacing the timber that has been cut away and more able to replace it. Governments, state and national, are taking over large areas for forests. The great lack so far has been in the encouragement of private industry to get in and produce quick growing timber as a crop. The first move in that direction should be lowered taxes on growing trees.



RYE, WHEAT'S POOR RELATION, GROWS POORER

Reaches 37 Year Low on Board of Trade.

The lavish hand of nature has brought little joy to American growers of rye. The grain yesterday hit the lowest price in 37 years on the Board of Trade.

The 1930 crop of rye, a "poor relation" of wheat as a bread grain, was a bountiful one in the United States. Weather and field conditions were ideal with the result that farmers found they had harvested a crop of 50,234,000 bushels. This compared with a crop of 41,911,000 bushels in 1929.

This did not seem to be such a discouraging prospect, but Germany, the largest consumer of rye in the world, also harvested a bountiful crop, and Russia reported an ample rye harvest.

Offers Rye Cheaper.

The German crop was large enough to almost supply that country with its needs for the year, cutting down imports. Russia offered rye to Germany much cheaper than exporters from the United States.

As a result export business in rye fell to a negligible amount and American farmers found themselves with a huge crop and no market.

The maximum amount of rye which can be used in the United States in a year is 25,000,000 bushels, half of the 1930 crop. There are only a few uses for it. There is some demand for rye bread, and a quantity is used for alcohol. Little whisky is now made from rye.

Worth 37⅞c a Bushel.

Prices have fallen to approximately one-third of those quoted a year ago. Rye for delivery in March sold in Chicago yesterday at 37⅞ cents a bushel, a price not quoted since 1394.

Trading in rye on the Chicago Board of Trade is scarcely a third of that a year ago. Saturday 472,000 bushels were sold, on the preceding Saturday 370,000 bushels, and one year ago 1,262,000.

Farmers received an average price of 86.4 cents a bushel for their rye in 1929 with a crop of 41,911,000 bushels. The 1930 average price was 41.6 cents. The money received for rye in 1929 totaled $36,225,000 and in 1930 $20,-895,000.

Fight Looms for Control of Richfield Oil of California

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The unusual prospect of a fight for control of a company in the hands of receivers loomed tonight when Wall street learned there was opposition to acquisition of the $150,000,000 Richfield Oil company of California by the Cities Service company.

Following on the announcement this morning that the billion dollar Cities Service company, ambitious to expand its oil business to the Pacific coast, had offered to acquire Richfield through an exchange of stock, Wall street heard rumblings of opposition to the plan which apparently came as a surprise to interests associated with Richfield.

Confirms Opposition.

Late this afternoon the report of opposition was confirmed by the statesment of S. P. Woodard, vice chairman of the stockholders' protective committee, organized after Richfield was placed in receivership on Jan. 15.

On behalf of the committee Mr. Woodard expressed belief that further offers will be forthcoming and urged that "common stock holders should not accept any offer without consultation with the committee and until all offers have been made." He said the committee had read with interest the offer of Cities Service company published this morning, "which suggested that the company headed by Henry L. Doherty was appealing directly to stockholders in an effort to acquire control of Richfield."

Basis of Offer.

The Cities Service company's offer is on the basis of one share of Cities Service common for four shares of Richfield up to 500,000 shares of Richfield stock. It expires 30 days from Jan. 26. Cities Service already has acquired an extensive interest in Richfield, it announced, and is believed to have bought considerable stock in the open market.

Before and since the receivership of the California company, which is a completely integrated unit in the oil industry, merger with at least five or six large oil companies is said to have been discussed.

Will Hold Oil Hearings.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee will open hearings on legislation for the protection of the domestic oil industry Feb. 6. Representative Garber [Rep.], Oklahoma, said today Chairman Hawley had fixed this date for hearings.

Mr. Garber said the committee was going ahead without waiting for the report on the tariff commission's investigation. He introduced a bill today to limit importation of crude petroleum for 1931, 1932 and 1933 to 16,000,-000 barrels annually.

Refined Imports Gain.

American imports of crude petroleum tended to decline during 1930, but in the same period imports of refined petroleum and gasoline tended to increase sharply. In the figures made available by the commerce department today, December imports of petroleum were placed at 4,727,079 barrels, against 5,886,504 barrels in the same month last year. For the entire year 1930 this amounted to crude imports of 62,129,419 barrels against 78,932,-572 barrels imported in 1929.

In refined oil the 1930 imports ran up to 43,380,000 barrels against 29,-632,000 barrels in 1929. The increasing trend was in evidence with December, the final month, in which the United States imports of refined were 3,298,000 barrels as compared with 2,-835,000 barrels in the same month the preceding year.

The same situation was in effect with reference to gasoline, 1930 imports amounting to 16,826,000 barrels, or almost double the 8,834,000 barrels of such imports in 1929. For December gasoline imports amounted to 3,-298,635 barrels against 2,833,000 barrels in the corresponding month of 1929.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Today's share market seemed to be just a little gesture of confidence. The trading was gentlemanly at all times and the price swings modest enough to keep anybody from getting a headache. Only 1,534,970 shares were traded in during the five hours.

Most of the important changes were toward higher levels.

Railroad shares again put up the best front, stepping out quite vigorously in the late dealings and adding anywhere from 1 to 4 points to the gains they have been piling up so steadily for the last two weeks or so. New York Central, New Haven, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Railway, St. Louis-San Francisco, and Chesapeake and Ohio were prominent in the activities of this group.

Expect Encouraging News.

Evidently the rail carrier shares are not destined to be found in want of publicity for some time to come, and chances are that news bearing on the transportation companies as it develops will be encouraging in character. It looks now as though the move by the interstate commerce commission toward abolition of the "no-

RECOMMENDATIONS ON BANKING LAWS MADE TO SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Liberalization of the banking laws to permit consolidation of rural banks, a firmer policy regarding operation of federal reserve rediscount rates, and higher rates on bond than on commercial borrowing were recommended today to the senate banking investigating committee.

At the same time the full committee approved the Glass resolution declaring the state department should "desist from the dangerous practice of involving the United States government in any responsibility," by approving or disapproving foreign investment loans floated in this country or "assuming authority over the federal reserve board and banks."

The resolution introduced by Senator Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the banking inquiry committee, recited that no section of the constitution authorized the state department to express its views on foreign loans floated in the United States. It also condemned the department's action in saying it would not permit officials of the federal reserve system to serve or select American representatives on the International Bank of Settlements.

Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank of New York, and Edmund Platt of New York, former vice governor of the federal reserve board and now vice president of the Marine Midland corporation of Buffalo, testified before the investigating committee.

Another banking subcommittee will will hold a hearing tomorrow on the nomination of Eugene Meyer of New York to be governor of the federal reserve board.

TRANSAMERICA DIVIDENDS ARE SENT TO 215,000

Transamerica corporation, in mailing out current dividend checks totaling more than $6,000,000, established a new high record by distributing its quarterly payment to more than 215,000 stockholders. This disbursement covering the final quarter of 1930 brings total cash dividend payments for that year to more than $30,000,000.

Directors of Hart, Schaffner & Marx reduced the annual dividend from 8 to 4 per cent by declaring four quarterly payments of $1 to cover the current fiscal year.

The Sherwin Williams company declared the usual extra dividend of 12½c and the regular quarterly dividend of $1 on common.

Lumbermens Casualty Co. Merges with Boston Firm

The Federal Mutual Liability Insurance company of Boston has been consolidated with the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company of Chicago, according to the announcement of James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's. The Lumbermen's has for some time automatically reinsured most of the insurance written by the Federal, so the substitution of the Lumbermen's for the Federal is largely a matter of form. The Federal Mutual Fire Insurance company will be operated as in the past. The Lumbermen's was organized in 1912 to provide casualty coverage for the lumber and woodworking industry of Illinois. Its business has expanded rapidly and now it writes a general line of insurance throughout the United States and Canada. The Lumbermen's reports an increase in business for 1930 over 1929 of 10 per cent.

WOMAN KILLED, THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

A wife was dead today as a result of an automobile crash last night in which her husband, sitting beside her, escaped injury, although three other members of the family struck the rear end of that in which the were riding and tossed it against the curb.

9, daughter of the was hurled from a window of the car and thrown fifteen feet by the collision. She was cut and bruised, but escaped serious in-

Suppose you had caused this accident?

Automobile accidents are usually followed by intense bitterness and legal claims for substantial damages. Verdicts of $25,000 to $50,000 are of common occurrence, and even as much as $100,000 has been awarded by a sympathetic jury.

Is it wise, considering the frequency of such accidents, to subject yourself to this danger? Automobile Public Liability Insurance costs but a few cents daily, yet in the event of trouble Continental will defend your interests and pay all damages up to the limits of your policy.

TRIO OF WOMEN PRINCIPALS IN $650,000 DEALS

Lino Brothers Close Two Transactions.

BY AL CHASE.

Two real estate deals, totaling $[illegible] were negotiated yesterday by L[illegible] brothers of 647 Diversey park[illegible] in which three out of the four p[illegible]pals were women. Dr. Alfred N. Murray, who lives at 6117 Kenmore avenue and has offices in the Sheridan Trust and Savings Bank building, purchased the twenty-one apartment building at 2732-30 Pine Grove avenue from Miss Ida J. Johnson for a reported $300,000, subject to $150,000.

The property just purchased by Dr. Murray is 100x125 and is 200 feet north of Wrightwood avenue. The three story building was erected by Daniel Fling three and a half years ago from plans by Fred Prather. All the suites contain five rooms. A 160 acre farm at Wauconda, Ill., valued at $30,000, was given in part payment. The balance, $120,000, was paid in cash.

Wife Also a Purchaser.

Edna S. Murray, wife of Dr. Murray, also purchased a large store and flat building. She bought the property at the northwest corner of Broadway and Granville avenue, 122x98, containing nine stores and thirty-two apartments, from Teckla I. Giertsen for a reported $250,000, subject to $144,000.

Mrs. Murray gave in part payment the 184 acre estate one and a half miles north of Libertyville and one mile east of Milwaukee avenue. As already stated, Lino Brothers were the only brokers in these two deals, the largest of their kind in several months. Ringer, Wilharts & Hirsch were attorneys. Last October Mrs. Murray figured in real estate deals involving more than $400,000.

Goldblatt Brothers announce that K. [illegible]delsman is manager of their store at Chicago and Ashland avenues and [illegible] vice president, as was stated in [illegible] Tribune last Sunday. The inform[illegible]n as printed was furnished by M[illegible] Handelsman's son-in-law and was [illegible]ed to be correct.

Report on Gold Coast Coöp.

In 1927 John T. Wheeler organized a coöperative Building associates and built the coöperative building [illegible]n as 1120 Lake Shore drive. [illegible] completion it was turned over to 1120 Lake Shore Drive Building [illegible]oration, and the apartments sold [illegible] the direction of Mr. Wheeler [illegible] was the corporation's first presi[illegible]. He was succeeded by Nelson [illegible]s and later by John G. McDon[illegible] the present head of the corpora[illegible], of which John C. Griffiths is [illegible] president and Mr. Wheeler is [illegible]etary.

"The building contains 60 apart[illegible]s ranging from five to ten rooms," [illegible]d President McDonald. "Through [illegible] careful supervision of the officers [illegible]d directors this building has become [illegible]cially one of Chicago's outstand[illegible] coöperative buildings. Each year [illegible]mencing in 1929 the building ex[illegible] has been kept within the budget [illegible] sufficient surplus created to pay [illegible]vidend each year to the tenant [illegible]s. This dividend in the past has [illegible]ed one month's rent, or 8 per [illegible] the annual assessment.

[illegible] annual report has just been [illegible] and it shows the corporation [illegible] cash and negotiable securities [illegible], with current liabilities of taxes [illegible] for the years 1929 and 1930, esti[illegible]d at $47,307, leaving a net re[illegible] of $45,185. At the last meet[illegible]g of the board of directors a reso[illegible]tion was adopted reducing the as[illegible]sments 8 per cent."

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Midland Steel Products company is planning to increase its operating schedule in February to a level about 25 per cent over December. E. J. Kulas, president, said the increase was based on larger releases of automobile frames and four-wheel brakes being received from motor car makers.

—o—

—o—

The 1931 construction budget of [illegible]e West Utilities system provides for expenditure of approximately to[illegible]s $63,000,000, of which it is esti[illegible]ated $6,000,000 will be carried over into next year for completion. Con[illegible]struction expenditures last year ap[illegible]proximated $77,000,000.

—o—

The advertising budget of the Ham[illegible]mond Clock company for the first six months of 1931 will be twice as large as in the comparable period of 1930, officials stated yesterday. Action of the management in doubling the advertising appropriation is in line with the steadily increasing demand which has been noted for synchronous electric clocks, the company's sole product.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and prices were unchanged at 3.40c for spots duty paid, although offerings were more liberal at this level, with buyers showing no interest. No sales were reported.

Increased offerings in the spot market and easier cables seemed responsible for increased selling pressure in raw futures, with demand light and mostly in the way of covering on the scale down. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and continued to sag throughout the remainder of the session, closing at the lowest and from 5 to 6 points below the previous close. Approximate sales, 12,450 tons. Prices follow:

CHICAGO STOCKS MOVE SLOWLY IN DULL TRADING

Middle West Leads List in Day's Activity.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A slow moving ticker tape recorded the minor price changes of a listless professional market on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Sluggish throughout the day stocks were inclined to give slightly in the early trading, but firmed as the day drew to a close, ending in about the same position in which they closed last week.

Middle West Utilities was the active stock with a turnover of 15,000 shares of a total day's volume of 92,000 shares. Sharing the early weakness the issue sold below 21, but recovered to finish with a small net gain. Street estimates on earnings of Central and Southwest Utilities company, which is two-thirds owned by Middle West, place net for 1930 around $1.35 a share on 3,000,000 common shares outstanding after dividends on senior securities. In 1929 the company report net equivalent to $1.28 a share on 2,873,605 shares of common stock then outstanding.

At Full Capacity.

R. C. Stirton, president of Associated Apparel Industries, Inc., reports that all manufacturing divisions of the company are operating at full capacity. Operations will be materially expanded when the new Gary plant of the Gossard division is opened next month, he said.

Another report of expanding operations is furnished by R. H. Faulkner, vice president of Auburn Automobile company, who states that the company is speeding up production to meet current requirements. Orders in the first 25 days of January broke all previous records, he added.

Dispel Dividend Fears.

Fears for the safety of the preference dividend of Hart-Carter company were dispelled yesterday when the directors authorized the regular disbursement of 50 cents a share. Earnings on the stock in 1930 amounted to only 93 cents.

Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons, Inc., net earnings for 1930 were $827,826, equivalent to $2.06 a share on the capital stock outstanding, it was reported yesterday by the company. This compares with net of $2,308,035, or $5.77 a share in 1929.

American Steel Foundries.

Will you please give me your opinion of American Steel Foundries common stock? Would this stock be advisable for a long pull investment? —Miss E. M. C.

American Steel Foundries is one of the most important makers of cast steel car wheels and steel castings for freight cars. Its products also include castings for steamships, mining equipment, etc.

The company was formed in 1902 as a consolidation of several companies. It has eleven plants in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, and Ohio in addition to subsidiaries' plants in thirteen cities.

During 1929 American Steel Foundries paid $6,900,000 in cash and in plant valued at $500,000 for an interest in General Steel Castings corporation, which was organized to operate a new plant for the manufacturing of large castings at Eddystone, Pa. Baldwin Locomotive Works, American Locomotive company, Pullman, Inc., and American Car and Foundry company also hold interests in General Steel Castings corporation.

American Steel Foundries' earnings from 1924 through 1927 were relatively stable. A decline in 1928 was followed the next year by a decided increase in profits due to improved equipment buying by railroads. In 1930 earnings were lower as a result of slackened demand.

In the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, net profit was $2,720,369, equal to $2.49 per share earned on 993,020 no par common shares, slightly more than the amount required to cover the 75 cent quarterly dividends for the period. In the corresponding period of 1929 net profit had been $3,856,065, or $3.54 per share.

Net for 1929 complete was $[illegible]487, equal, after preferred dividends to $4.70 per common share, against $3,256,673 in 1928, and $4[illegible] in 1927.

At the close of 1929 current assets were $18,433,235, and current liabilities were $3,833,062. This left a working capital of $14,600,173, compared with $16,647,859 at the end of 1928. Surplus was $14,207,234. The moderate reduction in the working capital was due to expenditures incidental to the acquisition of an interest in General Steel Castings.

In addition to the common the company has outstanding $6,235,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred. There is no funded debt. Regular payments, at varying rates, have been made on the common since 1910. Both the preferred and common are considered high grade.

International Aerial Navigation.

Can you give me any information on International Aerial Navigation company? I have ten shares and have not heard from the company for a number of years.—E. B.

A company by this name which was incorporated in Washington was proclaimed by the governor in 1914 and its charter forfeited at that time for nonpayment of taxes.

Fat lambs held last week's advance, sales of top kinds equaling the highest of the season, while the market for cattle and hogs was a two way affair. Steers sold to better advantage, while cows and heifers continued weak to lower. Top light hogs were active and strong, while heavy hogs moved slowly at new low price levels.

The range of hog prices widened further the "spread" from common weight heavy packing sows to extreme top lightweights amounting to $2.20. All "lard" hogs were hard to dispose of.

Some prime 400 lb butchers sold at $8.30, while numerous loads of 250@300 lb averages cashed at $7.15@7.50 and most 150@200 lb averages at $7.60@8.25.

The extreme top and general average prices were in line with the close of last week at $8.25 and $7.55, respectively. Hog receipts were estimated early at 70,000 and later at 67,000, including 28,000 directs from other points. Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled 34,000 head. Only 4,000 were left at the close.

Hog Futures Decline.

Bids and offers on the hog futures market were lower yesterday and trading dull. April lightweights were offered at $9.00, but no bids were made. March light were bid $8.75 and offered at $9.25. Mediums for March were bid $8.25 and offered at $8.50, while March heavy were offered at $7.50.

On the "to arrive" market, lightweights for today were bid $8.00 and offered at $8.10.

Last week's slump in cattle prices curtailed the marketward movement of stock for this week. Yesterday's arrivals at 11,000 were smallest for Monday since last July and only 6,000 are in sight for today. There was a 50 per cent decrease in receipts at 20 points compared with the previous Monday.

Best grades of steers ruled strong to 25c higher, 1,082 lb yearlings at $10.50, equaling the highest price since Jan. 8. Only a small share of total arrivals were good enough to sell above $11.00, the bulk going at $8.25@10.50. Calves were stronger. Stockers and feeders steady.

Ewes Bring $5.00.

Aged sheep were in good demand and the few available sold readily at 25c higher prices, top ewes at $5.00 going back to last June for a higher figure. Most choice lightweight lambs sold at $9.50, packers taking medium grades around $9.25 and some heavier kinds downwards to $9.00. Yearlings were scarce and stronger. Feeding lambs met good demand at strong prices.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Moderately active today with trading mainly, refiners brokers, commission houses, and locals appearing on both sides. The close was steady at 5 points decline to 5 points net advance, the latter on February. Sales were 3,900 bbls. Prime crude, 6.37½c; prime summer yellow spot and Jan., 7.20c; Feb., 7.40c; May, 7.58c; July, 7.72c.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN NET HAS 1930 GAIN

Great Northern Income Is $10,545,015 Lower.

Chicago Great Western railroad reports a substantial increase in net earnings in 1930 as against those of 1929, according to V. V. Boatner, president. Despite a decline in total operating revenues of more than $2,800,000 for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, net after interest and all charges amounted to $1,309,205 as against $1,041,516 in the same period of 1929.

These earnings are equivalent to $2.78 a share on 471,346 shares of preferred stock outstanding in 1930, as against $2.21 a share earned in 1929. Net railway operating income for the 12 months of 1930 amounted to $2,853,179, against $2,607,170. December net railway operating income amounted to $274,206, as against $182,183, a gain of $92,023.

Net operating income of the Great Northern railway was $10,545,015 less in 1930 than in 1929. Net operating income last year was $21,912,508, as compared with $32,457,523 in 1929. Ralph Budd, president, said the report reflects the general business depression rather than any specific increase in automotive or other competition.

Texas and Pacific.

Texas and Pacific railroad's preliminary figures show 1930 net income of $3,682,191, equal to $6.36 a share on the common, against $6,130,074, or $12.76 a share, in 1929.

Maine Central for 1930 had preliminary net income of $1,112,099, equal to $8.01 a share, against $1,746,257, or $13.29 a share, in 1929.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad reported surplus for 1930 after guarantees and preferred dividends of $11,509,892, equal to $7.33 a common share, compared with 1929 surplus of $18,421,437, or $11.72 a share.

The Boston and Maine railroad for the year 1930 had net income of $5,727,530 before sinking fund deductions, equal to $4.02 a common share, compared with $5,993,841, or $6.91 a share, in 1929.

The first twenty railroads to report December earnings had net operating income of $13,350,000, a decline of 32.4 per cent from $19,770,000 reported by the same roads in December, 1929. The December figures also showed a decrease of 22.8 per cent from the $17,314,000 reported for November.

Another Sues to Enjoin Buying of Pathe Exchange

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Another legal fight is under way against the purchase by Radio-Keith-Orpheum of Pathe Exchange, Inc. R.-K.-O. officials have been served with an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Lydon calling on them to show cause on Jan. 28 why the sale should not be forbidden. Fred Rosenthal of New York, a Pathe minority stockholder, is the new opponent. Two previous legal actions seeking to bar the $5,000,000 transaction are pending. Rosenthal contends the terms of the sale are unfair.

BEAR SENTIMENT STILL PREVAILS IN CORN MARKET

Old May Drops 1⅜c from Saturday Finish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment continues to predominate in corn. All deliveries sold at a new low for the season yesterday as the result of persistent commission house selling and liquidation. Old May dropped 1⅜c from the Saturday finish to 64⅞c, showing 5¼c under the high of the previous week and 38⅝c under the best figure reached on the bulge last August.

Short covering was in evidence on the break as the result of a four day decline, and at one time there was a rally to the close of Saturday, but renewed selling developed and the finish was ⅝@⅞c lower, with March, 63⅜@63½c; May, 65½@65⅝c; July, 66⅜@66½c, and September, 66½c.

The unusual open winter is regarded as having curtailed farm consumption of corn, and with having saved millions of bushels of cash grain that would otherwise have disappeared. With low prices prevailing for other feedstuffs, the trade as a whole is not inclined to take buying side freely. While the movement to terminal markets has increased, there was no pressure reported of grain to arrive, and little change was shown in the basis in the sample market as compared with the May delivery.

Visible Supply Increases.

An immense international trade in coarse grains is under way at the present time, exporting countries putting afloat around 14,000,000 bu corn, oats, and barley the last week, or about double the amount shipped during the same period last year. Prices secured by surplus producing countries is extremely low, with corn in Buenos Aires for February delivery quoted at 29c per bu, while oats in the same market are 15c. Under existing conditions it is regarded as almost impossible for the United States to do any export business of consequence.

Despite the rather liberal receipts of corn at terminal markets last week the visible supply showed a gain of only 278,000 bu for the week, making the total 16,636,000 bu, compared with 14,132,000 bu last year. However, the period of the year is at hand when farmers usually want to dispose of their surplus grain and the trade are looking forward to a larger movement.

Dry Weather Helps Wheat.

Dry weather reports are increasing from the winter wheat belt. The deficit in subsoil moisture over the latter area and a subnormal snowfall in the American and Canadian northwest is causing apprehension as to the outcome of the new crop. This, with scattered buying, lifted the July 1⅛c over the early low, and the finish was 1¼c higher at 65½@65⅝c, while old crop months were dull and easier, closing ½c lower. March finished at 79¾c, and May at 81⅝@81¾c.

A good part of the strength during the day was due to short covering on the dry weather scare. Sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up. Winnipeg was firm and closed ½c higher, with export sales of 750,000 bu estimated in all positions. Liverpool gained ½d for the day, with decreasing stocks in the United Kingdom a factor, the last, with the February futures quoted at 46¼c.

Partial rains have fallen in the Punjab district in India, which has been complaining of drought, but the united provinces remain dry. An increase of 964,000 bu in the domestic visible supply of wheat compared with a decrease of 2,355,000 bu a year ago, and total stocks are now 190,730,000 bu, against 166,228,000 bu last year.

HOUSEHOLD LOANS
ON PLEASANT TERMS

The Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the lawful maximum.

Interest is paid by the month and charge is made only for the actual number of days the money is in use. There are no fees or fines.
